Remapping Panel Wrangles While Politicos Sue

Democrats Fumble One, Win One on Reinecke Commission

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The legally disputed state reapportionment commission convened today for the first time in history and immediately rejected a move by Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. to adjourn on ground that the panel was "invalid."

The commission, chaired by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, is authorized by the state Constitution to reapportion state Senate and Assembly district lines when the Legislature fails to redistrict itself during a regular session.

But Brown, a Democrat and a lawyer, moved to adjourn the commission immediately at least until the state Supreme Court rules on a suit brought by the legislature challenging the Republican-dominated commission's constitutionality.

Reinecke, a Republican, ruled Brown's motion dead for lack of a second.

Reinecke said the commission must move as quickly as possible to reapportion the legislative districts even while the court considers the constitutionality of the commission.

He said county clerks throughout the state have told him that Jan. 15 was the last practical date that they could put election machinery in process to draw local election precinct lines for 1972.

Another commission member, state schools chief Wilson Riles, a Democrat, said, "I feel miscast in this role of reapportioning the Legislature. I don't know how the court will rule but I hope they rule against us."

State Controller Houston Flournoy, a Republican, disagreed with Brown and said, "We ought to proceed because it's important that we disrupt the election machinery as little as possible."

While Reinecke convened the commission, the lawsuit, naming the entire Legislature as the plaintiff, was filed today with the state Supreme Court in San Francisco.

The commission adjourned to Friday after accomplishing only one thing —Brown and Riles pushed through by a 2-1 vote a rule that four affirmative votes would be required to adopt any redistricting plan.

Reinecke was the only Republican member present to oppose the two Democrats' motion. Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger was

Dacca Issues Plea For India Ceasefire

Surrender Terms Are Received

Pakistan Walks Out Of Council

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

India said the Pakistani military and civil commanders in Dacca asked India today for a ceasefire in the face of an onslaught by Indian armor, artillery and planes which left much of the East Pakistani capital in flames.

India immediately dispatched surrender terms to Lt. Gen. A. A. K. Niazi who had sworn to defend Dacca to the death. The Indian high command announced a bombing pause and delivered a 5 1-2 hour ultimatum to surrender or face another aerial blitz.

A pooled dispatch from American correspondents in Dacca said Pakistani President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan was reported to have sent a cable at 4 p.m. Tuesday authorizing Niazi to seek a ceasefire, in effect, to surrender. India said heavy fighting was still reported at Dacca late this afternoon.

There were no details, but a message from Gen. S. H. F. J. Manekshaw, the Indian chief of staff, spoke of heavy casualties in the city which has a garrison of between 15,000 to 20,000 Pakistani troops and thousands of civilians left from the prewar population of 1.5 million.

About 45 Americans are still in Dacca and there were conflicting reports the United States had dispatched units of the 7th Fleet to the Bay of Bengal to rescue them if necessary. The units included the nuclear powered carrier Enterprise and the helicopter carrier USS Tripoli.

An Indian military spokesman in New Delhi said the U.S. Embassy in New Delhi relayed the cease-fire appeal from Niazi and Maj. Gen. Rao Farman Ali, the deputy martial law administrator for civil affairs and that the embassy had relayed the Indian reply.

Collapse of resistance at Dacca did not mean the end of the UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— Pakistan walked out of the Security Council today after denouncing the United Nations as a fraud and farce that delayed action in the Indo-Pakistani war until India could capture Dacca — and perhaps all of East Pakistan.

The charge was made by Pakistani Foreign Minister Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto who is also deputy premier designate. He said he was walking out and that Pakistan would have no more to do with U.N. discussion of the war between India and Pakistan.

He sounded bitter and agitated because of the Security Council action in which Russia blocked a council call for a cease-fire in the war by casting three vetoes which he said gave India time for its attacks on Dacca.

"Why should I waste my time here?" he demanded. He picked up a Security Council document and ripped it to shreds.

"I find it disgraceful to my person and to my country to remain here a minute longer than necessary," Bhutto said.

He denounced Britain and France, which abstained in all votes on the Indo-Pakistani war, for "sitting on the fence." Had they thrown their weight behind a settlement, Bhutto said, there might have been agreement.

"I admire the Soviet Union," he said. "It took a position. It was a wrong position, but at least it took a position."

Bhutto rose, and followed by the entire Pakistani delegation, strode from the council chamber.

"I will go back to my country and fight," he said. "I am going."

Bhutto spoke after word was received from New Delhi that the military and civilian commanders in Dacca had asked India for a cease-fire there.

He accused the 15-nation council of filibustering for days while "my country and people are dying." The council delayed today's session for nearly two hours while studying the cease-fire reports.

"Perhaps this will be my last speech," he said, speaking passionately and without notes. "I have not come here to surrender. Under no circumstances. I will not accept a document of surrender. I will not be a party to surrender."

He thanked the United States for its position in support of Pakistan in the council and then denounced Britain and France.

Bhutto turned to Soviet Ambassador Yakov A. Malik who cast the three vetoes and said: "Mr. Ambassador of the Soviet Union you do not talk like Ambassador Malik, you talk like Czar Malik."

Dollar's Devaluation Has Strings Attached

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally says devaluation of the dollar will not be fully accomplished until America's trading partners agree to "a package involving trade issues."

Connally said Tuesday the United States agreed in a conference between President Nixon and French President Georges Pompidou in the Azores to devalue the dollar — but only if there are agreements on other trade issues.

Connally said the dollar devaluation would have to be taken up with at least eight other American trading partners. This weekend, the world's 10 richest non-Communist nations including France and the United States meet in Washington to discuss world monetary and trade problems.

He also said the United States will remove its 10 per cent surcharge on imported goods only when it achieves an agreement with trading partners that will allow it to be more competitive in world trade.

Connally said it was unlikely the United States would devalue the dollar by "any means other than a direct request to Congress." He said Congress would be asked to raise the price of gold, which now is fixed at $35 an ounce.

One knowledgeable source said the increase might be about 8 per cent, for a new value of $37.80 an ounce.

Europeans reacted favorably to the presidential announcement, which drove the value of the dollar down sharply in several European currency centers Tuesday, cutting into American tourists' funds.

In London, foreign exchange dealers and government officials said the announcement should improve the prospects for monetary peace. They expressed hope that fixed exchange rates would soon be restored after the long months of "floating" rates.

A spokesman for the Kredietbank, a major Belgian bank, said it was likely the Group of Ten major monetary nations will "proceed quickly now to

Teacher Victor In Book Flap

By MARY LEYDECKER

San Rafael High School teacher Virginia Franklin last night won the right to continue using the controversial book, "The Movement Toward a New America," or at least portions of it, in her social studies class. (Another San Rafael Schools story, page 12.)

She failed, however, to gain a personal vote of confidence from the San Rafael Board of Education although Supt. John F. Plank urged trustees to "express confidence in this method of teaching — and the quality of her teaching."

Trustee Francis X. Kelly seemed to speak for the board when he said he did not think he had enough knowledge about

BOY, 11, HONORED

Tiburon Scout A Life-Saver

A Tiburon Boy Scout today was credited with saving the lives of two scuba divers on an abalone hunt off Salt Point State Park in Sonoma County.

The youth, 11-year-old David Smith, a tenderfoot in Troop 9, will be recommended by scouting officials for one of three bravery awards given by the Boy Scouts of America — possibly the gold honor medal, scouting's highest.

"I would recommend him for the highest medal he could get," said Robert Roney, 25, one of the divers. "I owe my life to him."

David, of 2 Lyford Drive, pulled Roney, a neighbor who lives at 4 Lyford, and another diver, Tom Witte of Los Angeles,, from treacherous surf near Fort Ross on Nov. 27, administered first-aid to the pair and ran a half-mile to summon help.

The rescue came to light as David's scoutmaster, Albert Ryder, disclosed that the youth would be recommended for a scouting bravery award. David, son of Mr. and Mrs. David D. Smith, is a sixth-grade student at Del Mar School and an Independent-Journal carrier.

Roney, a former Marine, said he and Witte took David along on the trip. The youth, who had gained diving experience when his parents lived in Florida, hoped to learn abalone diving, taking his own gear with him.

Roney and Witte left the youth on a five-foot ledge as they entered the ocean to test conditions. The divers soon encountered high surf and undertow that battered them against the ledge and prevented them from climbing its sheer face out of the water. Currents pulled them back to sea and back against the rocks with such force that their flippers were torn off.

The divers, who had dropped their weighted belts as a precaution, bobbed in the sea for about 30 minutes until Roney was able to grab a spear gun that David had extended from the ledge. Roney was pulled to safety by the youth.

"If a wave had caught David leaning over that ledge, he would have been washed out

Marin City Transfer Cool-Off Time Asked

By DAVID DIETZ

A long day of discussion on the Marin City ridgeland controversy ended yesterday with an appeal by the Marin County Board of Supervisors for a month's delay in signing over the choice property to a New York developer. (See another supervisors story, page 12.)

The board action, amid resident protests of the transfer, threw the controversy back into the laps of the Marin County Redevelopment Agency and Marin County Housing Authority, which have tentatively agreed to release 112 acres of the ridgeland property to California Development Co.

In exchange, Cal Development would transfer to the redevelopment agency 60 acres within Marin City that has lain dormant for six years because the firm has not met redevelopment commitments.

While acknowledging the "mutual release" agreements appear to be the only way to spark long-stalled community redevelopment, the supervisors voted 4-1 in favor of a delay until Jan. 18 in order to permit study of various avenues that may assuage irate residents.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of both the redevelopment agency and housing authority, told the supervisors that holding up formal signing of the releases by agency officials was up to the two boards.

Board Chairman Louis H. Baar dissented in the vote, which culminated nearly five hours of discussion of the matter. Earlier in the day, the board criticized the Marin County Human Rights Commission for getting involved in the dispute.

One of the approaches the board recommended for study during the next month is an offer by Paul J. Broman, a Strawberry developer, to help a Marin City-based group known as the Marin Urban Development Association, (MUDA), which is seeking a role in community redevelopment.

Residents, some of whom are MUDA members, are angered because the mutual release agreements fail to provide for an option to buy back the ridgeland. This would mean community expansion, necessary for

Two-Pronged Search Continues For Vanished Quentin Convict

Law officers still were searching today for a convicted murderer who may have made it over a San Quentin wall in a cleverly plotted escape attempt involving three lifelike dummies.

The search for Jacob Zitzer, 27, was taking place both inside and outside the prison, according to Joseph R. O'Brien, prison information officer, who said officers were of divided opinion as to whether Zitzer was successful in his dash for freedom.

Two other men who also attempted to escape, Jack C. Duncan, 37, and Juan Colon, 28, were captured shortly after the alarm was sounded about 6 p.m. Monday when two ladders were seen propped up against a wall.

The men had apparently hidden until dusk in the industrial section, where they all worked, after having placed dummies in their cells to fool guards.

O'Brien said today he thought Zitzer probably had made it over the wall before a handmade rope found there broke. "I think someone had to have been on top of the wall," he said.

He added that other prison officials, however, believed that Zitzer is still within the walls, possible hiding in a manner similar to a convict who was found last May after guards spotted his feet in a small crawl space in the furniture factory.

JACOB ZITZER
Missing murderer

As for Duncan and Colon, they have been locked up and "are not talking," O'Brien said.

O'Brien also theorized that the three men had received help in constructing the wooden dummies, which were clad in prison garb including shoes, watch caps and with surgical gloves for hands.

The missing convict has been at San Quentin more than seven years, O'Brien said, having been convicted in Los Angeles in 1964 of murder in connection with a tavern holdup.

O'Brien said that Zitzer along with accomplices had ordered the bar patrons to lie on the floor and when a waitress did not comply, she was shot and killed. O'Brien did not know whether Zitzer pulled the trigger or one of the other men.

In prison, he has been troublesome, O'Brien said. Ordinarily, he said, a man in the eighth year of a life sentence would be in medium or even minimum security but that Zitzer was kept in "closed custody."

Before being sent to San Quentin, Zitzer had done time at the California Youth Authority and had a "bad reputation," O'Brien said. "He was heading in the wrong direction," he added.

Zitzer, a white man with blue eyes and brown hair, 5 feet 8 inches tall, may be wearing civilian garb, O'Brien said. However, he added, even if he is clad in the jeans and denim shirt worn by prisoners, he would not be noticeable because such dress is common.

He may have even had an accomplice who picked him up outside the walls, according to O'Brien.

Since his escape, San Quentin officials have beeen told that Zitzer has been seen both in the Tenderloin section of San Francisco and in Marin County.

The rumors have not been confirmed.

Temperatures Dip Below Freezing Mark

Marinwood and Tamalpais Valley reported an area low of 27 degrees as heavy frost and ice coated cars and streets.

Although the temperature didn't fall below 36 in the heart of Sausalito, according to the fire department, Fred Turner of 111 Prospect Avenue reported finding ice on his carport roof this morning.

Other lows reported were 29 in Woodacre and Novato; 30 in Petaluma; 31 in Santa Venetia and 32 in Mill Valley and San Rafael. In Bolinas, meanwhile, the overnight low was said to have been a balmy 38.

Nixon To Visit Florida Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon decided today to fly to the Florida White House at Key Biscayne to work on his forthcoming meeting in Bermuda with British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the flight would follow a meeting by Nixon with bipartisan congressional leaders at noon to brief them on his decision to devalue the dollar and other aspects of his meeting Monday and Tuesday in the Azores with President Georges Pompidou of France.

In Florida, Nixon will be preparing for his meeting Tuesday and Wednesday with Heath but will return to Washington first —probably Saturday or Sunday.

Plans For Extension Of Avenue Hit

The Marin County Board of Supervisors voted swiftly and unanimously yesterday to shelve plans for the controversial Miller Avenue extension near Dolan's Corner in Tamalpais Valley.

The decision came on the recommendation of Ray W. Foreaker Jr., director of public works, who blamed delays in obtaining a fill permit from the Bay Conservation and development commission and local objection to aligning the road over a marsh.

The extension was proposed years ago to provide a straighter access to Shoreline Highway.

Foreaker said the delays in acquiring a fill permit have made it impossible to meet various funding requirements of the state this year.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said as a result of the board's action, the project would be delayed "two or three years — or forever."

In shelving the plan, the board voted to begin study of alternate alignment plans by passing the marsh and to request the BCDC to place the project's fill application in an "indefinite hold" status.

The board continued for one week consideration of reallocating about $207,000 to other county road projects. Mentioned as a possibility for the funds is the proposed upgrading of East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near San Quentin Prison.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Postpones Talks

PARIS (UPI) — The United States announced today it was postponing the next session of the Vietnam peace talks another week until Dec. 30 to allow Communist negotiators "additional time for reflection and decision."

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter angered the Hanoi and Viet Cong delegates at last week's 138th session by postponing the next meeting until Dec. 23. Today's announcement was the second postponement within a week.

No War Link

VIENNA (UPI) — The Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) have not been infected so far by Soviet-American differences over the war between India and Pakistan, conference sources said today.

Soviet and U.S. negotiators met for 90 minutes today — the second consecutive day they have met — and scheduled another session on Friday.

The sources said the two teams have been able to keep any "outside issues" from disturbing their talks since SALT began two years ago.

Return To Work

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI) — Thousands of metal workers in the south German regions of North Baden and North Wurttemberg returned to work today following a three-week strike which idled 600,000 West German factory employees.

A spokesman for the IG Metal Union said 71.2 per cent of its members polled yesterday voted to accept a new wage and benefit package which includes a 7.5 per cent pay increase.

Only one quarter of the union members had to approve the package to end what many officials said was West Germany's worst labor dispute in the postwar era.

Off Until Monday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The murder trial of the "Soledad Brothers" has been postponed again.

Superior Judge S. Lee Vavuris granted a defense motion yesterday for additional time to review the files of 200 convicts the prosecution plans to put on the witness stand.

The trial resumes Monday with the first state witness scheduled to begin testimony establishing the death of Soledad prison guard John V. Mills.

Funds To Charity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard, who parlayed a $600 investment into a multimillion dollar business, says he is giving $18.8 million in stock holdings to charity to avoid any conflict of interest.

Packard, who resigned this week, is returning as chairman of the board of the Hewlett-Packard Co. of Palo Alto, the electronics firm he helped found 30 years ago with the $600. The investment had grown to $300 million when Packard came to Washington in 1969.

Packard and his wife did not announce the list of charities to receive the stock.

Nixon Given Firm Grip On Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Congress has handed President Nixon the authority he asked for to continue wage and price controls for another 16 months —along with pay raise provisions affecting millions of Americans which he did not want but apparently will accept.

The legislation was sent to Nixon's desk Tuesday night after a technicality in wording, which had delayed it, was cleared up.

The bill would extend Nixon's authority to impose wage and price controls —such as those under which the Pay Board and the Price Commission currently are operating —until May 1, 1973.

It also would reverse the Pay Board's ban on payment of retroactive raises which were due during but delayed until after the 90-day wage-price-rent freeze which ended Nov. 13. This provision was expected to bring a pay check bonus estimated at between $2 billion and $6 billion to perhaps 2 million teachers and untold millions of other Americans.

Those owed the raises would get them to cover the freeze period if the increases are not "unreasonably inconsistent" with the Pay Board's 5.5 per cent increase yardstick; or if the employer or civic jurisdiction involved had raised prices or taxes in anticipation of paying the increases.

The administration had resisted the retroactive pay provision but organized labor had backed it. Nixon was not expected to veto the bill, however.

The other section of the legislation which Nixon had resisted was a provision ordering a 5.5 per cent pay raise for all military and civilian federag workers —4.1 million persons — on Jan. 1. Nixon had wanted to delay that federal pay raise for another six months as part of his effort to slow down inflation.

The legislation does not contain an exemption from controls for newspaper, magazine the book publishers and radio and television broadcasters as it did at one time during the legislative process.

It does, however, subject the head of the Pay Board and the Price Commission to Senate confirmation within 60 days of when the bill becomes law.

Nuclear Weapon Test In Nevada

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)— Scientists Tuesday set off the 241st underground nuclear explosion by the United States since testing in the atmosphere was banned in 1963.

A nuclear device with a maximum force equal to detonation of 200,000 tons of TNT was exploded 1,100 feet beneath the surface in a weapons-related test, the Atomic Energy Commission said.

No radiation leaked into the atmosphere, the AEC spokesman said. It was the 11th announced U.S. nuclear test this year.

McGovern Hits Indo Bombings

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said Tuesday the American bombing of Indochina is second only to the attempted Nazi extermination of the Jews as "the most barbaric act of modern times."

In a speech to 500 supporters, the South Dakota senator lashed out at the Nixon administration's reliance on airpower in Southeast Asia as U.S. combat troops are withdrawn.

He acknowledged that the air war made possible the troop cutbacks, but compared its effect to the My Lai massacre.

Tanks Comb Plantation For Cong

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese armored units pushed into the giant Chup rubber plantation in eastern Cambodia today and the allied units spotted at least one battalion of the North Vietnamese 9th Infantry Division north of the plantation area, military sources said.

The armored forces moved in to join South Vietnamese paratroopers and reconnaissance units in the massive allied operation against Communists who have long used the rubber producing country as a sanctuary.

The North Vietnamese 7th and 9th Divisions were believed to have taken refuge in the 100-square-mile plantation, which has been out of operation for more than a year because of the fighting.

The U.S. command reported in Saigon that a twin-engine U.S. army plane carrying five Americans and two Vietnamese had disappeared off South Vietnam's northern coast and was presumed down at sea. Military spokesmen also said in a delayed report that two U.S. Navy A7 Intruder jets Monday afternoon fired on two North Vietnamese antiaircraft sites 85 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

Alaska Landowners' Bill Goes To Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Alaska's 55,000 native people will get $962.5 million and 40 million acres of land under legislation given final approval by Congress.

The Senate by voice vote Tuesday passed a compromise bill cleared by a House-Senate Conference Committee. The House passed the bill 307 to 60, and the measure went to the White House for President Nixon's signature.

Final settlement of land claims, which date back to 1867 when the United States purchased Alaska from Russia for $7.2 million, is provided for in the legislation.

In Anchorage, passage of the bill was described as "a dream come true" by Harry Carter, executive director of the Alaska Federation of Natives.

But he said there may be some problems in carrying out certain provisions of the settlement because of conflicting land claims by the state, private industry, local government and the natives.

Walter Hickel, former Alaska governor and former interior secretary, urged that Nixon sign the bill quickly.

"Then we can get down the road toward realizing full opportunity for all Alaskans, both native and non-native," he said.

Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., was the only conference committee member to refuse to sign the committee report. He said passage of the bill would be remembered as a "day of infamy and deceit" by about 200,000 Alaskans who would not share in the natives' gains.

Saylor said the claims of Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts could have been settled for "a miniscule amount" if the job had been done before the discovery of rich oil fields on Alaska's North Slope. Despite his reservations, Saylor urged final passage of the bill.

If Nixon signs the bill the way will be cleared for lifting of a "land freeze" that has helped prevent construction of a pipeline to carry oil from the field to the Alaskan port of Valdez.

The bill gives 220 native villages and 12 regional corporations full title to surface and subsurface rights in 40 million acres.

The natives will be paid $462.5 million over a period of 11 years by the U.S. Treasury. They will receive an additional $500 million from the state of Alaska's share of mineral revenues from publicly owned lands.

Cemetery Worker Held For Extortion

They said La Monaca, 56, and two gravediggers made tens of thousands of dollars by charging 10 per cent on the cost of each tomb.

Egypt Will Fight, Riad Warns Israel

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt will be justified in resuming hostilities if Israel does not accept a United Nations resolution approved Tuesday, Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad said in New York.

"If Israel accepts the resolution, the (Middle East peace envoy) Gunnar V. Jarring could resume his mission immediately," Riad said in an interview with the Al Moumhouriya newspaper. Riad led the Egyptian delegation to the U.N. General Assembly debate.

"If Israel rejects the resolution, then Egypt will have the right to fight in order to liberate its lands," he added.

The General Assembly resolution called for Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab lands and urged reactivation of Middle East talks under Jarring. Jarring's mission was abruptly cut off by Israel earlier this year.

Meanwhile, in Jerusalem, Prime Minister Golda Meir called her cabinet into special session today to brief them on her recent visit to the United States. But the aging Jewish stateswoman kept secret her progress on renewal of U.S. shipments of Phanton jets to Israel, which she discussed with President Nixon on a recent private trip to the United States.

NEW YORK (UPI)—What do Mao Tse-Tung, Martha Mitchell, and Ralph Nader have in common?

Speaking to an Association of Life Insurance Counsel meeting Tuesday, Agnew said jokingly his list included:

Martha Mitchell—A brand new princess phone.

President Nixon—A complete history of China for his forthcoming visit there.

Mao Tse-tung—Also for the visit, a complete history of the National Football League.

The Public Broadcasting Corporation —A videotape revealing newsman Sander Vanocur in an unguarded moment making an objective statement.

More Turmoil Rocks Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Gunmen shot a Protestant reservist in the British army but fled from housewives who kicked and scratched them when they raided the homes of prominent Belfast citizens.

In other action during the night in Northern Ireland, British troops said they shot and killed a 16-year-old boy operating with armed men who attacked an army patrol in the town of Coalisland, 25 miles from the border with the Irish Republic.

In Belfast, gunmen shot and seriously wounded John Garrett, a sergeant in the British Army reserve. He and his wife had opened their door to the attackers Tuesday night, thinking they were book salesmen.

Hub Votes Traffic Light Job

The San Anselmo City Council last night approved a project to modernize the six signals on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard through the city to the Fairfax city limits.

The $75,485 project will be paid with $53,988 in federal funds and $21,479 in state urban thoroughfare funds, said Charles R. Leitzell, public works director. Application for these funds is now being considered by the two agencies, he said.

The council authorized the mayor to sign the agreements for the project when they are prepared.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

CITY CLERK — Accepted with regrets the resignation of Anita Gannon as city clerk effective Dec. 31. She resigned after 19 years working for the city. The council appointed Helen Ragan, part time secretary as interim city clerk until city elections are held in April.

STREET — Accepted Bella Vista Avenue, a private street as a city street and agreed to regulate traffic on it and maintain it in its present condition.

BIDS — Opened four bids for a new fire engine but delayed until next Tuesday awarding the contract to give Fire Chief Frank Sousa time to study the bids. Bids were received from American LaFrance of Elmira, N.Y., for $51,461; Howe Fire Apparatus Co. Inc. of Anderson, Ind., for $50,108; Van Pelt of Oakdale for $50,755 and Ward LaFrance through Albro Fire Equipment Co., agents in Emeryville, for $51,429. The city had budgeted $52,000 for the truck.

APPROPRIATIONS — Approved taking $2,653 from general reserves for fire line upgrading; $4,300 for library from funds received from Marin County, $1,663 for repair of police cars paid by the insurance carrier and $50 for a trash basket paid by Mrs. P. S. Stout.

BENEFIT — Approved paying vacation and sick leave in proportion to the number of hours worked for four part-time employees, if they work more than 20 hours per week average. These were two clerks and two typists. The benefits start Jan. 1, 1972.

SURPLUS — Granted the city manager authority to sell surplus property and scrap, and left it to his discretion how large an item must be approved by the council.

NOMINATIONS — Received nominations of Kenneth Ball and Harold E. Matteucci for one position on the Civil Service Board of Review, but delayed until next Tuesday making the appointment.

LAND — Agreed to buy for $5 legal costs, 13,000 square feet of land along San Anselmo Creek on Forrest Avenue from Marin County to add to Creekside Park.

HOLIDAYS — Approved closing city hall on Dec. 24 and 31, giving all employees, except police and firemen, the day off.

CHAIRS — Appropriated $248 from the general fund to repair the five councilmen's chairs.

CLAIM — Denied a $955 claim from Peter Sagues of 1010 Trillium Lane, Mill Valley for damages allegedly done Nov. 5 to a truck by an overhanging tree branch at 25 Pasadena Street, and referred the claim to the city insurance agent.

EMERGENCY — Introduced an ordinance setting up procedures to follow in event of emergency and creating office of director and assistant director of emergency service. The city administrator shall be the director and shall name his assistant.

DIRECTOR — Set 7:30 p.m. Jan. 5 to meet with the Parks and Recreation Commission in closed meeting to select a parks and recreation director.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. next Tuesday and canceled the regular meeting of Dec. 28.

State Colleges Raises Favored By Trustees

A handful of members from the State College Board of Trustees yesterday voiced support for salary increases ranging from 9 to 24 per cent for more than 12,000 college employees.

The committee on faculty and staff affairs failed to draw a quorum for the meeting at Sonoma State College, but acting as a subcommittee of four members found agreement in recommending the raises.

Staff members had recommended increases ranging from 7.5 to 22.5 per cent. Trustee Alec L. Cory of San Diego proposed the higher increases because data collected in October showed that college employees in the administrative and support staffs lagged well behind comparable classes in private industry and other governmental agencies.

Deadly Fumes In Tunnel Air Vent

PORT HURON, Mich. (UPI) —The State Health Department says there were deadly methane gas fumes in an air vent drilled through a Lake Huron water tunnel shortly before an explosion that killed 22 workers.

The presence of methane was confirmed Tuesday

1,000 Riders, Few Stalls In Marin Buses' Debut

More than 1,000 passengers rode the Golden Gate Bridge District's new local bus system in Marin on Monday's opening day, despite the breakdown of four of the 23 buses operating.

The breakdowns, all blamed on minor manufacturing errors, did not cause delays longer than 10 minutes except for one late in the morning in Novato. It took 45 minutes in that case for a substitute bus to take over the service, district officials reported yesterday.

The passenger count was about double the average daily patronage reported by Marin Transit Systems Inc. after a year of operation. The district's local service, subsidized by the county, took over the private company's limited hourly service and provides half-hourly service throughout much of the county.

The district's full fleet, totaling 154 buses, will be used in the local service to detect bugs before commuter operations begin in Jan. 3, officials said.

Only one breakdown was reported yesterday on the second day of operations, and minor delays experienced Monday were not repeated, they said.

The district's bus transit manager, H. Donald White, said problems detected in any bus promptly were corrected in all the other buses. The problems generally were fittings either too loose or too tight because of assembly errors by General Motors.

In addition to the local riders, district buses carried about 700 passengers on the feeder service to the Sausalito and Tiburon ferries, White reported.

The second passenger count will be made early next week, he said. The constant flood of telephone queries to district offices about the bus service should mean "a good figure" in the next patronage count, he said, but he declined to predict the count.

Airline Rents Liner Decks For Hotel Use

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —The City Council Tuesday approved a 25-year lease by an airline to turn part of the Queen Mary into a hotel.

Pacifica Southwest Airlines agreed to refurbish three decks into a 400-room hotel to be opened within 15 months at an estimated cost of $4 million.

Charges Against Newton Dropped

OAKLAND (UPI) — District Attorney Lowell Jensen today dropped manslaughter charges against Black Panther cofounder Huey P. Newton after three unsuccessful attempts since 1968 to make them stick.

Jensen moved before Superior Court Judge William J. Hayes to drop the indictment because, he said, there was no new evidence and he feared another trial would result in another hung jury.

Newton has been tried three times for the 1967 killing of Policeman John Frey on an Oakland street. He was convicted in 1968 but the State Court of Appeal overturned the decision on grounds of judicial error.

Two separate trials on manslaughter this year have ended in hung juries.

"I feel this is a frustration of justice, but I am compelled to ask at this time for a dismissal," Jensen said.

"I do not feel that we will get other than a hung jury on the basis of the present evidence."

Newton was accused of shooting Frey to death in a gun battle after the policeman stopped him for a traffic violation.

He was charged with murder in his first trial. The jury reduced it to manslaughter and convicted him. He served 22 months in prison before the appellate court reversed the decision last year because the judge gave erroneous instructions to the jury.

The second jury, last summer, was deadlocked 11-1 for conviction. The third, last week, split 6-6.

Newton's attorney, Charles Garry, answered simply, "no," when Judge Hayes asked him if he had any objections to Jensen's motion.

On that basis, the judge said, "the action is dismissed." On Garry's request, Newton's $50,000 bail was released.

There was no demonstration in the courtroom, packed with Newton's supporters, but they broke out into broad smiles.

Garry then rushed off to Judge Redmond Staats courtroom in the same building for a hearing for the Panthers' other co-founder, Bobby G. Seale.

Seale was charged with violating his probation on an old conviction for unlawful display of a weapon. The prosecution contended Seale's actions at the 1969 Chicago Conspiracy trial in which he was sentenced to four years for contempt of court constituted a violation of his probation.

Ex-Employee Claims Cash Really His

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A former employee of Sally Stanford who is on trial for stealing nearly $14,000 from her San Francisco home in July 1970 said yesterday he had had a "mother and son" relationship with the Sausalito restaurant owner.

Hardy Cleveland Harrison, 42, made this claim in San Francisco Superior Court where he is charged with burglarizing Miss Stanford's Pacific Heights mansion.

Harrison admitted entering her home but said the money he took was his and that he had left it in Miss Stanford's safe for safekeeping.

The money, $13,768, including $8,000 in loose change, was recovered within hours after it was taken when two policemen found Harrison slumped over the wheel of a parked pickup truck.

Scattered throughout the cab of the truck were $100 bills and in the back were eight canvas bags, containing pounds of coins.

Harrison yesterday told a jury of nine women and three men that he had operated the parking lot at the Valhalla Restaurant for many years and that Miss Stanford "was my friend for all those years. "I called her Mother," he added.

He said he went to the house to retrieve his money after he stopped running the parking lot and opened up a Berkeley coin shop.

Earlier, Miss Stanford testified that the money taken belonged to her, not Harrison.

The case was due to go to the jury today in Judge Raymond J. Arata's courtroom.

Nod Is Given Apartments

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night approved a 12-unit apartment building on Bon Air Hill.

The unit to be built by Sue Mills Inc. at 66 Via Holon will be a three-story structure on an 18,000 square foot lot, according to the site and plan report.

Residents have complained about high density on the hill, but no one objected to this development, according to John W. Appleton, city planner.

The commisison also referred to the architectural review committee a proposed ordinance making the committee a seven-man board with more influence on the decision of the commission, Appleton said.

Sausalito Dinghy, Motor Are Stolen

A dinghy and an outboard motor, worth a total of $745, were stolen between 4:30 p.m. Thursday and 5:30 p.m. Monday from a yacht berthed in Basin Two of the Clipper Yacht Harbor, Sausalito police said yesterday.

Officers said the items were taken from the rear of a boat belonging to Cecil E. Miller, 18 Edgewood Avenue, Mill Valley. The chains and padlocks which secured the dinghy and motor to the craft had apparently been cut, police said.

India-Pakistan War but could bring it closer. Both New Delhi and Rawalpindi reported more fighting in the Kashmir region 1,000 miles away and in other areas of East Pakistan.

Informed Indian sources in New Delhi said Vassily Kuznetzov, first deputy Soviet foreign minister, was delaying his departure from New Delhi pending developments. They said the Soviet Union was ready to recognize the rebel Bangla Desh government, sign a friendship treaty and send economic assistance.

Pakistan Radio made no mention of the cease-fire message from Dacca but it called the situation there "grim" and said President Yahya Khan would make a radio broadcast to the nation Thursday night.

Reports of the call for a cease-fire first broadcast by All India Radio were monitored by the United States and the information quickly passed on to top U.S. officials in Washington. There was no immediate U.S. comment.

Well-informed Indian sources said that while the contents of Niazi's message could not be disclosed, it was tied in with political efforts underway at the United Nations and elsewhere to bring an end to the fighting between India and Pakistan.

"This is not soleya situation-where Pakistani military commanders are making decisions on their own," one Indian source said.

Head Start Is Seeking Materials

Materials and tools for doing homework and school work are being sought by the Marin Head Start program as Christmas gifts for its students, according to Dany Hayden, parent coordinator for the program.

Needed are slates, wooden puzzles, paint sets, drawing paper, manipulative toys, design materials, magnifying glasses, small scales and books, as well as letter and numeral drawing sets, he said.

Hayden said many of the youngsters who attend the classes do not have the money to purchase materials they need for work outside school.

Donations may be brought to the San Rafael Head Start office, 930 Tamalpais Avenue (the old railroad depot).

Annexations Top Commission Agenda

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission, meeting today at 7:30 p.m. at the Civic Center, is expected to devote most of its time to sanitary district annexations.

The only major annexation to be considered involves a cluster of homes in the Country Club Heights area to the San Rafael Sanitary District. Residents have complained of failing septic tanks.

Lay Teacher Dispute To Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco must show in court next month why it should not be stopped from taking alleged reprisals against lay teachers who went on strike for 3 1-2 weeks at seven Bay Area high schools.

Superior Court Judge Francis McCarty Tuesday set Jan. 19 for the show cause hearing. However, he refused to issue a temporary restraining order against asserted retaliatory action. The order was requested by Local 224 of the American Federation of Teachers.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the National Labor Relations Board today said the teachers' union is expected to withdraw an unfair labor practice action against the archdiocese today.

The Archdiocese said the NLRB had threatened to decline jurisdiction and dismiss the charge unless it was withdrawn before tomorrow. The labor board spokesman declined comment on why the charge was to be withdrawn.

The teachers charged the Archdiocese failed to bargain in good faith when they filed the action Dec. 6.

The Rev. Bernard Cummins, superintendent of schools, denied any reprisals were taken against those who simply went on strike.

However, he said discipline is being meted out to those who took part in a sit-in at the Chancery office.

A spokesman for the archdiocese quoted McCarty as saying: "unlawful trespass could not be condoned as legitimate strike action and does provide proper grounds for disciplinary action by the archdiocese."

Stewart Weinberg, attorney for the AFT, said school officials had agreed to refrain from certain actions the lawsuit claimed were being taken.

These included placing strikers on probation for no reason and removing a teacher from a coaching job, he said.

Some 115 teachers returned to work about a week ago after terms of a new contract were worked out.

However, Father Cummins said he would not sign the pact until a representation election is held.

Lawyers for both sides are expected to meet shortly on plans to hold a collective bargaining election.

"If we're lucky," Weinberg said. "We can get this thing cleaned up before the next court hearing."

with us," Roney said. He would have drowned. We would have drowned, too."

When Roney was safely on the ledge, David rushed to another ledge and pulled Witte from the surf.

"I'm glad I wasn't in the water," David said. "But a wave did wash over me once. Both men were delirious when I pulled them out."

With both divers nauseous and in shock, the youth ran up the coast for aid. He hailed two campers, instructing them to alert park rangers and call an ambulance. He returned to the weakened divers and covered them with blankets.

Rangers arrived with stretchers, but were unable to descent a cliff to get to the stricken men. The youth stayed with the divers for two hours, moving them back from an incoming tide, until they were able to walk out of the area.

"I knew what to do," said David.

Hearing Due In Assault Case

Johnnie Harris, 25, of Richmond, faces a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court on Jan. 11 on a felony assault charge.

He was arrested by San Rafael police Nov. 26 on a complaint by Pamela Black of 45 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, who said Harris had beaten her up following an argument.

Development Issue Will Not Be Heard

The Larkspur City Council will not hear an appeal today by the Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills seeking to build a 224-unit apartment development on Bon Air Hill, according to Barbara Bruton, city clerk.

She said the council will set a hearing on the appeal for Dec. 28. The Independent-Journal reported yesterday the hearing would be at the council meeting today at 8 p.m.

come up with a general realign-absent on business, and Flournoy left the session early.

Reinecke earlier said Californians want and will get from the commission a "reapportionment that is not captive of the incumbents to the public office, one which reflects the one-man, one-vote concept required by the U.S. Supreme Court as well as communities of interest, including the needs of ethnic and minority segments of our society."

Assemblyman Henry Waxman, Democratic chairman of the Assembly Reapportionment Committee and one of the drafters of the lawsuit, said Reinecke's action "seriously interfers with the job of the Legislature in reapportioning itself."

Reinecke said when the legislature adjourned its marathon regular session Dec. 5 without acting on reapportionment, the lawmakers, in effect, stopped the long and complex pre-election processes at the local level.

Gov. Ronald Reagan agreed to add reapportionment to the agenda of the legislature's special session, which resumes Friday. But Reinecke insists any redistricting plan approved by the legislature and signed by Reagan would be unconstitutional because it was not produced during a regular session.

The legislature, on the other hand, contends the commission is invalid because it violates due process and equal protection provisions of the 14th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution and because the State Supreme Court in 1965 struck down geography as a basis for representation in the state Senate.

her teaching to take such a stand.

The controversy surrounding the book, which has been described as a "revolution kit," began in October when a parent (who has no children in Mrs. Franklin's class) complained about it.

Though various groups have objected to its use, the only official complaint over the book, used in a unit on propaganda to illustrate new left philosophy, came from the San Rafael Elks Lodge.

Mrs. Franklin, who once was honored by the Freedoms Foundation for patriotic contributions to youth, offered after the complaint to scrap all 35 copies of the 752-page book and mimeograph portions she found useful.

By board action last night, this is what she now will do.

(Mrs. Franklin figured in a controversy about 10 years ago at Paradise High School in Butte County where she was called un-American. She later won a libel suit against her accusers.)

Last night's unanimous board vote came following a long but polite discussion, in contrast to the October session.

Col. Walter S. Filler, chairman of the Americanism committee for the Elks Lodge, called the book a "revolutionary and pornographic compilation ... neither fit for any educational use or purpose and also unfit to be in any home or viewed by any family group."

(Many objections to the book had been over sections on how to roll marijuana cigarettes and "understanding orgasm." Dr. Plank said presumably Mrs. Franklin will not include these portions for class use.)

Plank also said following the meeting that there are several copies of the book in the school library which will remain there but that all the copies issued to students "seem to have disappeared."

Former Trustee Anita Strom said her concern was over "the new left being sold to students" and asked that all social studies material used at the high school be made available for public review, a request which board president Paul L. Jones said would be met soon.

A high school student, Brian Perkins, called the book "ridiculous," but added he did not support censorship.

American Civil Liberties Union lawyer Robert McCreadie agreed with him, saying that youngsters needed to learn divergent views in a classroom situation. "Do you want your child to go out into the world a total innocent?" he asked.

Many of the approximately 110 persons in the audience had left before the vote on the matter because the board, after listening to the audience, took up other matters before acting on the book matter.

Although trustees refused to endorse Mrs. Franklin personally, they did adopt a motion saying they supported teaching on controversial subjects in a controlled classroom situation in accordance with a board policy.

$70 Billion Defense Bill Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House approved a $70.5 billion defense appropriation bill today and apparently resolved a dispute over funds for the District of Columbia that had threatened to block a quick adjournment of Congress.

That left as the only major stumbling block to adjournment a dispute over whether a Senate end-the-war amendment should be tacked to foreign aid legislation, or whether a resolution should be passed to allow foreign aid spending to continue temporarily at the present level.

Several senators promised to filibuster in an effort to defeat the emergency foreign aid measure. Debate was not expected to begin in the Senate on the foreign aid proposal until late today. Foreign aid was last on the calendar after all other matters were disposed of.

The defense money bill represented a compromise between separately passed House and Senate measures. Its total was about $3 billion less than sought by the administration to finance most Pentagon activities during the fiscal year that began last July 1.

The defense bill was approved on a 292 to 39 roll call vote and sent to the Senate.

No details were immediately available on the compromise on District of Columbia legislation reported reached between House leaders.

Also ready for quick action was another House-Senate conference agreement, this one on extending unemployment benefits.

Proving a stickier problem was the appropriation for the District of Columbia government. House Republicans on the joint conference committee considering separately-passed House and senate bills refused to sign a draft agreement. House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan spent a good part of his day working on them and by nightfall Tuesday said he thought the odds were pretty good the issue could be resolved today.

RIDGE

economic survival, doomed, the residents argue.

Broman appeared before the board yesterday with a suggestion that MUDA become developer of the ridgeland for Cal Development, with options to buy. He also said he could help the group obtain financing. The supervisors told him to present his proposal to the redevelopment agency and housing authority.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, who suggested the month's delay, said the added time would enable further opportunity, meanwhile, for direct negotiations with Cal Development on obtaining an option on the ridgeland. Further, preliminary results of federally funded planning and economic studies of Marin City are due in 30 days, and these might influence future development both within and around the community, Wornum said.

Although voting in favor of Wornum's proposal, Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste went a step further than his colleagues in supporting "absolute control" of the ridgelands by the community and calling for creation of separate administrative staffs for the redevelopment agency and housing authority.

Shepherd has been the chief target of the residents' wrath for developing the mutual release approach.

Cal Development was offered the ridgeland 10 years ago as an incentive to undertake redevelopment within Marin City — a job that was certain to result in financial losses. The firm since has paid $441,000 for the property, but the redevelopment agency last year refused to accept final payment when 50 acres of redevelopment inside the community hadn't been completed.

About 50 community residents protested the transfer before the supervisors yesterday, demanding ouster of housing authority and redevelopment agency members. Their demand was backed by a petition with abut 400 signatures.

Arthur Miller, chairman of the housing authority, said the mutual releases were the "only way to get out" of a "mess" that had been created by an earlier housing authority and redevelopment agency administration.

The ouster bid angered Supervisor John F. McInnis. He said "government would be chaos" if members of government agencies were repeatedly removed because their acts controverted citizen wishes.

DOLLAR

ment agreement" fixing new exchange rates.

In Johannesburg, South African Finance Minister Nicolaas Diederich said a formal devaluation of the dollar would mean "in effect an increase in the price of gold in terms of the dollar."

The announcement sent the value of the dollar plunging against most major currencies in Europe Tuesday.

In Milan, the dollar fell to 601 lire, its lowest exchange rate there since the end of World War II.

Swiss banks suspended major trading transactions involving dollars but said they would continue to exchange dollars for tourists.

In London, the Bank of London intervened in exchange markets with massive dollar purchases to keep the dollar at 2.5190 to the British pound, its lowest since the pound was devalued by 14.3 per cent four years ago.

Japan said dollar devaluation may bring about a quicker solution to the world's monetary instability.

But Americans living in Japan on dollar earnings were glum, their salaries were cut again.

The dollar slumped in Tokyo to 321.90 yen to $1, the lowest level the dollar has been quoted in Japan since the yen was freed from its fixed rate of 360-1 on Aug. 28.

In Washington, Congressional leaders and financial experts on Capitol Hill said they supported President Nixon's plan.

"Glorious," exclaimed Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., an authority on international monetary affairs who has sponsored a bill to devalue the dollar by as much as 10 per cent.

Judge Otto Kerner Is Indicted

CHICAGO (UPI) — Federal Appeals Court Judge Otto Kerner was indicted today on charges of bribery, mail fraud, tax evasion, perjury, and conspiracy with four other persons on charges stemming from race track transactions when Kerner was Illinois governor from 1961 to 1968.

Kerner, 63, named to the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on April 22, 1968, by President Lyndon B. Johnson, is only the fourth federal appeal judge in history to be indicted by a federal grand jury.

The announcement of the indictment was made first in Washington by Attorney General John N. Mitchell and then in Chicago by U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson.

Indicted with Kerner were former state officials appointed by Kerner during his governorship and a Chicago business woman who was secretary to one of the other indicted men. All were named in a 19-count, 64-page indictment returned by the federal grand jury in Chicago.

Kerner, a Democrat often described as "impeccable" in appearance and action, was a protege first of Democratic National Committeeman Jacob M. Arvey and then of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley. His stature was such that President Johnson named him to head the National Commission on Civil Disorders.

There was no immediate comment from Democratic party chieftains about the indictments — but it was sure to be noted the indictments came from a Republican administration. Thompson said Kerner had asked "to be relieved" of his duties as federal judge. He did not say it was a resignation. Thompson said none of the defendants would be arrested and arraignments would be held after the first of the year.

OBITUARIES

NATHAN DUBIN

Funeral for Nathan Dubin, 76, father of Mill Valley artist Leah Schwartz, was today in Los Angeles.

Dubin, a retired meat cutter who lived in Elsinore, Riverside County, died Monday at a Marin County hospital after becoming ill while on a visit to his daughter and son-in-law, Dr. Herman Schwartz.

Dubin was born in Russia and had lived in California 30 years.

In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Schwartz, he is survived by his wife, Rose, of the family home in Elsinore; another daughter, Betty Shrift of Vestal, N.Y., and six grandchildren.

Burial was in Mount Sinai Memorial Park.

MARIE SHEA

Marie L. Shea, 77, a Petaluma resident for 23 years, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Shea was born and reared in Charles City, Iowa, and had lived in Minnesota before moving to Petaluma in 1948. Her husband, Patrick Shea, died in 1970. Mrs. Shea made her home with her daughter, Ann Matteri, 20 Branching Way.

She is also survived by a son, John Shea of Petaluma; a sister, Anna Ripley of Menahga, Minn.; a brother, Russell Haley of Point Reyes Station; and three grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Petaluma, followed by burial at Calvary Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Sorensen Funeral Home.

'LIKE SANTA'S HOUSE'

Ex-Bank Holds A Hoard Of Toys

By MARY LEYDECKER

"We want kids to feel like they're coming to Santa's house," said a volunteer helping decorate the San Anselmo center where Christmas toys for poor children are being collected.

The old brick building at 232 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard — built about 1912 to house a bank and more recently an Economic Opportunity Council office — is rapidly being transformed into a Santa's workshop.

The windows are decorated with Christmas lights and fresh new toys are displayed. Inside, volunteers are sorting and repairing games, dolls, wheel toys and a myriad of other toys.

Project Help, as the program is called, is a coordination of various community efforts, including the Marine Corps' "Toys for Tots," and projects by Scouts, Campfire Girls, schools, civic organizations, store employees and many others.

The EOC pays the rent for the building and provides two vehicles for picking up toys. There is no paid staff — all the help is volunteer, including Robert Collins, who is in charge of the project for the second year.

"We hope to give each child at least one new toy and better, two," Collins said last week.

New toys are being neatly stored in the vault of the former bank, arranged on shelves by their type. "We received some beautiful new toys from the employees at the Emporium," one of the volunteers, Troia Arcieri, said.

More new toys are needed, however, Collins said, suggesting that such gifts from groups or individuals can be brought to the center.

Yesterday a pile of unsorted toys just delivered by volunteers as well as by Marines stood inside the door of the old building.

Beyond what was orginally the bank counter, toys were neatly divided into types, while volunteers sorted and cleaned others.

Collins expalined, "We want this to be like a boutique, where people can select toys."

Instead of the old-fashioned way of distributing toys to needy families at their homes, Project Help allows families to come to the center on Dec. 22 and 23 and make their own selections of what the children really want.

Notices of the center have been sent out with welfare checks and many other agencies tell people about it, Collins said.

"We will probably have a couple of hundred people come in," he said. He added that there are other centers in Novato, West Marin and Marin City, but that many toys from San Anselmo will be sent to Marin City.

A Christmas tree stands on the counter cheerfully decorated, and Miss Arcieri asked that people bring in unused decorations for distribution to the poor.

Along with the toys, the ingredients for Christmas dinner will be given to families coming to the center.

The EOC will provide turkeys and hams, Collins said, but the rest of the food hopefully will come from sorely needed donations of cash and food.

Collins said more volunteers also are needed to sort and clean toys. Volunteers on the two distribution days will also help those who come in, much as store clerks wait on customers.

Looking through the stack of toys, Collins said, "It's amazing how things work out. Here's a wheel that came in several days ago. Today we got a carriage with three wheels — and the other wheel matches perfectly."

More families than ever before are touring caves together, according to a survey taken by Bob Hudson, director of Onondaga Cave on U.S. 66 in Leasburg, Mo.

Drug Pleas Are Entered

A San Francisco man and a Bolinas woman have pleaded innocent in Marin Superior court to illegal drug possession.

James Ernest Davis, 40, of San Francisco and Cynthia Lee Spittler, 21, of 410 Yucca Slreet, Bolinas, appeared before Judge Henry J. Broderick Monday. Davis is accused of possessing cocaine and Miss Spittler of having LSD on Oct. 2.

The two were arrested with three others on Oct. 2 when Marin County narcotics agents raided the home at 410 Yucca Street.

The other three failed to show up in court Monday. Warrants of arrest were issued for:

Every man, woman and child in the U.S.A.*

It would be impossible to count all the automobiles, tractors and farm machines, large and small motors, appliances, electric lights and everything else in the United States that are power-operated.

But the Census Bureau does count the people who use these things: 205 million Americans in 1970, over 25 million more than there were only ten years ago.

*Each one of us uses, on the average, three gallons of oil and 300 cubic feet of natural gas every day—half again as much as we used back in the 1950's. It takes thousands of oil and natural gas companies to supply it all.

Oil and natural gas supply 75 percent of the nation's energy needs: almost all transportation, most of what is used for cooking and heating, about 40 percent of our electricity. In addition, more than 3,000 different products are made from or with oil and natural gas, including paper, paint, perfume, packaging materials, chemicals, medicines, and many others.

It gets more difficult and more expensive every year to supply all this oil and natural gas. The oil companies of America have to search offshore, in the frozen north of Alaska, in marshes and deserts and rugged, remote country throughout the world, to find what you need.

We work to keep America working; to get the most potential, the least pollution, from every drop of oil.

The U.S.A. and its 205 million people use all we can get.

A country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

The Oil Companies of America

Task Forces Progress Is Reviewed

The Tamalpais High School District received its first progress report last night from its four task forces on goals and found one lagging behind the others.

According to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, the board wondered why the Tamalpais High School task force included only two community representatives, but Principal Raymond J. Bell said the task force has not progressed far enough to decide who should be represented or how they should approach the task.

Hawkins said the task forces at Redwood, Sir Francis Drake and San Andreas high schools have drawn up processes for arriving at goals and have begun them.

The Drake task force, which began soon after the board adopted Hawkin's decentralization program in April, has held more than 100 public meetings on goals, the superintendent said.

He said San Andreas and Drake task forces are just beginning hearings.

Hawkins said the four task forces are expected to announce their goals and how to translate them into programs at an April meeting.

The task forces were set up as part of Hawkin's plan to distribute more decision-making authority to the individual schools.

Youth's Leg Broken In Crash

San Rafael police said Stephen G. Metzger, 17, of 16 Denning Avenue, was injured when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by James Houston Williams II, 17, of 472 Cedar Hill Drive, San Rafael, at 8:16 a.m.

Tam Budget Down; Tax Rate Hike Seen

The Tamalpais High School District board has received a preliminary 1972-73 budget of $10,050,396, down about $500,000 from this year.

The budget and income projections were to be discussed last night, but were put over to Jan. 3 because of the length of the meeting.

Although the budget proposal is less than this year's, it would require a tax rate increase. If the rate is held at this year's level of $1.88 per $100 assessed valuation, income will be $9,838,000, according to district figures.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins said the budget will probably be trimmed to keep the same tax rate.

This year, the district dipped into reserves to balance the budget, but will not do so next year, Hawkins said.

The budget estimate does not include any salary increase, but notes that each 1 per cent jump would cost $75,000, or about 2 cents on the tax rate.

The district has a tax rate ceiling of $1.94 according to Frank A. Cassou, business director.

Tamalpais High School District board also:

ON LOCATION — Heard a favorable report on Redwood High School's On Location program for 50 students and decided to hear another report Jan. 3 on proposed changes in the spring program.

FRESHMAN ENGLISH — Received a letter and an oral complaint from Edward Faber of Mill Valley that freshman English at Tamalpais High School is devoted to how to communicate, not to basic skills. Hawkins was directed to report back on the validity of the complaint.

TAX GRIPE — Received a letter from John Murray of Tiburon complaining about high taxes and waste exemplified, he claimed, by high absenteeism and book losses.

NEW TEACHERS — Hired Barbara Lachelt as a part-time science teacher for $8,499 a year and Karen Nelson as a part-time homemaking teacher for $3,826 a year.

LEAVES — Granted leaves of absence to teachers John Mathewson and Susan Dohrmann to do graduate study and to George Suzdaleff to teach overseas next school year.

COACHES — Approved pay totalling almost $11,000 for 24 coaches of winter sports at Redwood, Tamalpais and Drake high schools.

NIGHT TEACHERS — Approved hourly rates from $7.50 to $8.50 for 38 night school teachers.

DINNER — Adjourned from 7 to 8 p.m. for dinner at the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur where the bill to the district was $28.13, Hawkins said.

WAGE FREEZE — Decided to ask the Internal Revenue Service to allow it to pay retroactively 4.8 per cent pay increases to teachers that went into effect Nov. 15 instead of Sept. 1 because of the wage-price freeze.

Fairfax Sets Tennis Club Plan Talks

The Fairfax City Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow with its planning commission to discuss a proposal for a 128-unit housing development and tennis club.

Plans for the Canon Village and Tennis Club at Glen Drive and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard were approved by the planning commission in October, but the council withheld approval and referred the proposal back to the commission last month.

Fears of increased traffic and smog, demand for additional school services and a heightened "impact" on Fairfax were cited by councilmen during their discussion of the proposal.

Following the joint session with the council at the Fairfax Women's Club, the planning commission will consider other business, including a discussion of Marin County zoning of property west of the Fairfax city limits.

'Newsroom' Cutback Due

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The award-winning "Newsroom" television news program is being trimmed by educational station KQED because of financial problems.

A station spokesman said the program will be cut from one hour to a half-hour within the next month.

KQED is cutting 19 employes from its payroll, including three "Newsroom" staff members. Station manager Richard Moore said financial considerations dictate the cutback. He said income from listeners to the non-profit station this year will be $300,000 under the expected total of $900,000.

'Firebombs' Only Aimed At Eyesores

An employee at Grange Debris Box Rentals in San Rafael called police yesterday the minute he found 98 cases marked "missile igniters" and "sky firegrenades" hidden in a shed on the company's property at 2031 Francisco Boulevard.

David Martinez's discovery, however, was not the uncovering of some radical plot to blow up half of Marin.

Instead, police learned, the $5,000 worth of "firebombs" are just sitting there waiting for permission from the Marin County Board of Supervisors to burn the hugh drydocks mired in Richardson Bay off Sausalito.

The proposal, presented to the board a year ago by Fred Grange of San Rafael and Ralph L. Fenner of Tiburon, would cost about $30,000. Supervisor Michael Wornum asked the board in September to include the money in next year's budget.

Meanwhile, Grange and Fenner are faced with the problem of storing what they call the "ignition system" for the proposed high energy burning project.

Fenner said he moved the devices to the shed at Grange's company during the weekend, but failed to tell Grange about it.

He said the devices are not explosive and they are extremely safe. "There's no danger of an explosion," he said.

The drydocks were brought to Marin in 1966 by the late Delmar D. Wise. Following his death, they were sold to the present owner, J. Christopher Roberts, who wanted to create a cultural center on the drydocks. Marin County asked the courts to remove the structures as an eyesore and navigation hazard.

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner ordered Roberts to remove them in October 1968, but Roberts maintains he has no money for the demolition.

The county called for bids last December, but found the cost of conventional demolition would be nearly $75,000.

Cycle Stolen

A 1971 red Honda motorcycle was stolen from the garage of its owner, Guido V. Battaglia, 268 Devon Drive, San Rafael, between 9 a.m. Monday and 2 p.m. yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Santa Cannot Ignore Meters In Sausalito

A plea by the head of a Sausalito businessmen's group that the city hood its downtown parking meters for the next 10 days, until Christmas, was rejected unanimously last night by the Sausalito City Council.

But the council also agreed, in principal, to a suggestion by City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr to lower parking rates in Municipal Lot No. 1 from 75 to 50 cents an hour during the winter months.

The council postponed action on the rate change to determine if the council could have more flexibility in operating the lot and raising and lowering rates if it administered the facility as a parking authority.

In making the request that the council allow free parking in metered downtown zones, Robert D. Bauerle, president of the Sausalito Businessmen's Association, said downtown merchants "are suffering."

The city manager estimated it would cost the city approximately $300 a day in revenue, or a total of $3,000, to hood the meters for 10 days.

"If we planned to do something like this, we would have to budget for it," Councilman Robin Sweeny said.

The council asked St. Cyr and the city attorney to study the matter and report back at its meeting next Tuesday.

The Sausalito City Council also:

COUNTY PLAN — Objected to the following proposals contained in the preliminary countywide plan: Promotion of tourism, construction of roadways in the Marin Headlands, enlargement or expansion of Highway 101, residential developments in agricultural and open space areas and conversion of agricultural or open spaces areas for intensive recreational use.

BRIDGE DISTRICT — Granted a three-week extension of the Golden Gate Bridge District's conditional use permit to operate a ferry service in Sausalito. The district had asked for a 120-day extension of the permit, which expires today. But the council asked for a meeting with district officials next Tuesday to determine if the district's plans to build two terminals in Sausalito, downtown and in Marinship, coincide with the council's wishes as to what the terminals will be.

FUNDS — Authorized the city public works director to apply for $17,500 from the county's urban thoroughfare funds to pay half the cost of building center islands on Bridgeway from Colma Street to the north city limits. The remaining one half of the cost will come from state gas tax funds.

STREETS — Introduced an ordinance making Johnson, Pine and Locust streets one-way, eastbound between Caledonia and Bridgeway.

APPOINTMENTS — Reappointed Audrey Emmons and Paul J. Ronan to one-year terms on the Sausalito Community Appearances Advisory Board.

NOISE CONTROL — Appointed Carl Spring, Raymond L. Roy and Louis Wilkinson to a citizens committee to study a proposed noise control ordinance for the city. The group will also study a similar ordinance recently adopted by the City of Los Altos Hills which St. Cyr said is "more readily understandable to the public" than the one now proposed for Sausalito. The committee is to make recommendations to the council within 60 days.

HEIGHTS — Introduced an ordinance specifying methods of measuring building height in the city.

Another School Bus Approved

The Cotati School District board last night approved leasing an additional bus after hearing reports of crowded conditions.

The board heard that buses are regularly filled to capacity and that teachers have been driving children home because bus seats are not available.

Schools Supt. James H. Davidson said an enrollment increase is expected in January when homes in the new Holiday Park subdivision are occupied and said an additional bus would easily be filled.

He estimated the cost of the bus lease at $6,000 per year.

In other action, the board voted to cancel the Dec. 28 board meeting. The next meeting will be Jan. 11.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

11:59 a.m., Novato — False alarm at Long's Drug store, Seventh Street; testing of sprinkler system set off alarm.

8:05 p.m., Novato — Fire in trash bin behind Glen Five and Ten, 448 Ignacio Boulevard; cause undetermined.

10:30 p.m., Novato — Engine fire in van near 7552 Redwood Highway; caused by carburetor backfire; damage estimated at $100. Truck was driven by Keith Bowman, no address given.

1:10 p.m., San Rafael — Accidental alarm in building at 715 Francisco Boulevard; tripped by workmen.

Park Plaza Plan To Be Discussed

Sausalito's proposed Park Plaza plan, along with recommended changes in the proposal, will be discussed at a joint workshop meeting of the Sausalito planning and recreation commissions at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The session is the third in a series of study meetings.

Tennis Club Gets Nod On Prezoning

The Novato Planning Commission has recommended prezoning of 33 acres at Olive Avenue and Deer Island Lane, where a $3 million tennis project is planned.

Commissioners Mnday recommended planned commercial zoning for the site, expected to be annexed to the city.

The proposed development, to be known as Olive Ridge Tennis Club, will include 22 private courts, six public courts, a stadium and pool.

Attilo Quartaroli, San Francisco contractor, who plans to build the complex, applied for the prezoning.

The commission's scheduled public hearing on the housing element of the Novato General Plan was cancelled because the staff forgot to send out hearing notices. It was reset for 8 p.m. Jan. 3 at the Novato Community House.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

TAMAK ESTATES — Approved a tentative map of Tamak Estates, a 16-lot subdivision on 4.6 acres, north of Vineyard Road and east of Sutro Avenue, submitted by Wayne Womack and Ross Tankersley.

SIGN — Granted James Eaton a permit for an illuminated free-standing sign reading "The Boat Shop" at 7000 Redwood Highway, but limited the height to 18 feet.

HORSES — Granted M.D. McGee a permit to keep six horses on two acres in the 1800 block of Marion Street, but denied a request by George Homenko to keep three horses on three-quarters of an acre in the same block.

Old Dynamite Cache Found

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A plastic bag containing a dozen sticks of deteriorating dynamite was found Monday on the lower end of Radio Road on San Bruno Mountain southeast of here, authorities reported.

Explosives experts from the San Mateo County Sheriff's Office disposed of the dynamite, dangerous because of its advance decay.

Grand Theft Innocent Plea

Thomas H. Thompson, 25, of 1327 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of car theft and grand theft.

He pleaded Monday, and Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 21 as the time for his preliminary hearing.

On Dec. 9, police arrested Thompson in a car which was reported stolen in Oakland.

Innocent Plea To Burglary Charge

Dennis K. Smith, 18, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to a burglary charge.

He appeared before Judge Henry J. Broderick Monday and denied burglarizing a Terra Linda home on Galwy Lane on Nov. 11. The judge set Feb. 28 for trial.

Suit, Jury Probe Threats Ignored; Bus Pact Passes

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Marin County Transit District directors last night approved a long-stalled contract with Marin Transit Systems Inc., ignoring threats of a grand jury investigation and a taxpayer's suit challenging the $190,000 subsidy to the Marin City-based bus company.

The threats were made by Donald M. Van Dyke of Novato, speaking as director of the Marin County Taxpayers Association. His organization's demand for an investigation of the legality of the subsidy will be sent immediately to the Marin County Grand Jury, he told the Independent-Journal following the unanimous approval of the contract.

Federal officials have demanded the contract as their price for approval of a $6.1 million grant to the Golden Gate Bridge District's bus system. The contract must be in Washington this week, or the bridge district must wait another three months to get its grant.

The district's special counsel, Richard J. Smart, was poised to fly the contract back to Washington last night on what he called the "red eye express," but postponed his trip until late today to see whether bridge district officials call a special board meeting to approve minor changes in the contract.

Bridge district directors approved the joint contract on Friday, but the county transit district directors last night changed the method of payment and insurance provisions.

Officials of Marin Transit Systems signed the contract approved Friday by bridge district directors, and said last night they will sign the amended version as well when it is typed-up today.

The first version provided monthly payments of $15,000, for a total over the next year of $180,000. This was changed to $9,000 the first month, $12,000 the second month, $15,000 the third month and $16,000 a month for the following nine months.

James B. Robertson, acting general manager for the county ransit district, said the phased payments were necessary because of time needed to organize demonstration projects under the contract. The projects include transportation for senior citizens, handicapped and health care patients.

A future expansion may include bus service within Point Reyes National Seashore, he said.

The other change in the contract was to shift the burden of obtaining liability insurance from the county to the company, increasing the subsidy up to $190,000 by adding $10,000 for insurance costs.

Supervisor John F. McInnis insisted on this change, arguing the county should not be liable for any accidents the company may have.

The general manager of the Golden Gate bridge district, Dale W. Luehring, said the contract had made the county responsible for insurance in order to reduce likelihood of the state Public Utilities Commission jurisdiction, which could complicate bus operations with its elaborate procedures. Whether the amendment by McInnis would mean PUC jurisdiction over the company was not made clear last night.

The company's subsidized operations over the past year under contracts with the county and bridge districts have been exempt from the PUC because they were under public agencies not subject to the PUC's jurisdiction. If the company operated under the PUC, it could acquire vested rights in the routes it served, another issue both districts want to avoid.

Luehring noted that the company had been receiving $12,000 a month from the county and $3,000 a month from the bridge district for the local services, thus its support would be continued by the new contract — as demanded by the federal government.

The private company had been opposing the $6.1 million grant in a maneuver to get a piece of the bridge district's bus system, at one point demanding one third of the district's fleet of 154 buses.

The bridge district's involvement in the contract was limited to a promise to help the company seek other sources of funds. The contract provides that the county's subsidy will be reduced to the extent that other funds, probably federal, are obtained.

Van Dyke objected to the contract on the grounds that the state law that created the transit district required only one transit system operate in the county, a role already filled by the bridge district.

He also objected that the county's subsidies to both the private company and the bridge district were twice the total taxing power of the county transit district, which raises $365,000 a year with its property tax of five cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Van Dyke argued that the $190,000 subsidy instead should be paid by the bridge district since it was "to buy off" the company in order to free the federal grant.

And if the demonstration projects were necessary, he added, the bridge district could do them more economically than the private company.

The company, "with the assistance of federal government, is attempting to jam this contract down your throats," Van Dyke declared. He urged the board to seek "more appropriate solutions," but offered none.

Van Dyke told the Independent-Journal his organization has about 107 members.

Disability Pay Granted To Lawman

Lt. Thomas Lightfoot — a veteran of 16 years with the Marin County Sheriff's office — has been granted a disability pension by the Marin County Retirement Board.

Asst. County Treasurer Joseph Coffrini said today the 55-year-old officer was granted the "service-connected disability" Monday because of a serious heart condition.

Lightfoot was stricken by a heart attack last Christmas Day and has been under doctor's care since.

The pension will entitle him to 50 per cent of his salary for the rest of his life. His wife will receive the benefits for the rest of her life should she outlive him, Coffrini said.

Lightfoot's last position with the sheriff's office was as the officer in charge of patrols from the main office in the Hall of Justice.

"He was an excellent officer," Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos said today, adding he will be hard to replace.

Mill Valley Doesn't Need Right-Of-Way

The Mill Valley Planning Commission has decided that the city can do without a street right-of-way on which a house has been located for more than 50 years.

Planning director Tom W. Newton said the fact that a house at 55 Janes Street was built partly on the right-of-way came to light recently when owner L. E. (Bob) Robinson attempted to sell the property.

It was discovered that half the house, most of the swimming pool and all of a bathhouse were located on city-owned property, Newton said.

Following an investigation, Newton and city engineer Stanley M. Bala agreed that the city really doesn't need the right-of-way and either should give or sell it to Robinson.

The planning commission agreed, and on Monday told Robinson to conduct a title search to determine if the city holds title to the street or only an easement.

If the city holds title, the commission recommended that the city council sell it to Robinson "for a nominal fee," Newton said. If it merely holds an easement, the commission suggested giving it to the homeowner.

Newton said the house was built on the crook of a hairpin turn on Janes Street before 1920 and the ownership of the land never came to light until recently.

In other business, the commission postponed action on a use permit to allow construction of a private country club in Scott Valley. Newton said commissioners asked for more information on the proposal.

Two Injured In Collision

A Santa Rosa woman and a Petaluma man were injured yesterday in an auto collision at the intersection of Manuel T. Freitas Parkway and Del Presidio Boulevard, San Rafael police reported.

Police said a car driven by Madaline M. Trucker, 27, of Santa Rosa, attempted to turn left onto Del Presidio and collided with a car driven by Elizabeth H. Dienstag, 57, of 791 Bamboo Terrace, San Rafael, who was proceeding east on the parkway.

Mrs. Trucker and a passenger in her car, Guy P. Catenacci, 76, of 1639 Ely Road, Petaluma, complained of pain but said they would see their own doctors, police said.

Freeze Imposed On Creek Docks

Marin County Supervisors ordered a halt yesterday to the issuance of construction permits for docking facilities on Corte Madera Creek pending study of boating's impact on creekside marshlands. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

The board's action came at the urging of conservationists who claimed increased motorboat traffic is threatening what little marshland is left along the creek.

The ban on new permits — issued by the county public works department — does not affect some 12 to 14 permits already issued. Those permits were issued in recent months to apartment house developers whose proposals were the center of controversy last year in Larkspur.

"Corte Madera Creek is as important to its area as Bolinas Lagoon is to the western (Marin) area," Harold Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League, told the board.

He was supported by Joi Losee, Joan Sestak and A. Charles Brouse, members of the Larkspur town meeting group and outspoken critics of creekside development in the past.

They called for an "environmental impact study" by the Army Corps of Engineers to determine whether motorboats should be allowed on the creek and if so what limitations should be imposed to protest marshlands.

In granting the permit ban, the supervisors said the group must talk the Larkspur City Council into requesting the Army study since most of the marshland in question is in Larkspur's jurisdiction, even though the county controls the dock permits.

Such an environmental study has already been urged by the Larkspur Parks and Recreation Commission.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

CLAIM — Authorized payment of $1,475 to Alfred Haro, a former employee of the public defender's office as settlement of his claim that he had been fired before his one-year probationary period was up.

CONSULTANT — Approved a $2,250 contract with Katherine Hall who will serve as a consultant to the county's police community relations project.

ABATEMENT — Continued to Jan. 4 consideration of abatement proceedings against Jack E. and Herbert L. Martin for an unauthorized fill operation at the Bothin Marsh at Dolan's Corner in Tamalpais Valley. The matter was continued at the request of the public works department which said the Martins have agreed to obtain a fill permit.

CONTRACT — Awarded a $78,120 contract to the Filipovich Construction Co. of Orinda to replace culverts on the Panoramic Highway. The firm was the lowest of six bidders.

OVERPASS — Was told that the state does not plan to improve the San Quentin Wye overpass in San Rafael until fiscal 1975-76. The board, expressing concern at the growing number of traffic accidents on the overpass, agreed to ask the state to give the overpass improvements a higher priority.

FAIRGROUNDS — Authorized the expenditure of $94,500 in "surplus" funds from the auditorium and fairgrounds budget for fairground improvement. The funds are left over from other projects.

HOSPITAL — Continued to Dec. 21 consideration of a proposal from Marin General Hospital that county morgue facilities be included in the hospital's master plan now undergoing revision.

LEGAL AID — Deferred to next week action on a request for stopgap funds from the debt-ridden Legal Aid Society of Marin, despite earlier voting 3-2 to grant the money. The legality of the vote — since it involved a transfer of funds — normally healing a four-fifths vote — was questioned by Supervisor John F. McInnis, who voted against the allocation with Louis H. Baar. The officials objected the county was consistently being asked to bail out agencies whose other funding had dried up. Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino upheld the vote's legality in a memo submitted later.

PHONE — Deferred to legal staff a request by the Association of California Consumers, based in Sausalito, to join in a request to the state Public Utilities Commission to reject a new rate increase application by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., and to order refunds from a recent phone rate hike whose validity was questioned under a state Supreme Court decision.

AUDITORIUM — Took no action on a request by McInnis to bar from future county work a contractor whose workmen apparently were responsible for a Dec. 8 flash fire in the Veterans Memorial Building that caused up to $3,000 damages. McInnis said he understood smoking workmen spraying lacquer were responsible for the blaze.

Couple Arrested In Kidnap Probe

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — A Bakersfield couple was arrested today on a Louisiana warrant charging the two with kidnaping the woman's son from his legal guardian.

The Kern County sheriff's office said Ronald Wayne Marney, 28, and his wife, Delores Marney, 26, were booked into the Kern County jail where they were to await Louisiana authorities.

Dock Union Voting On Bay Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— West Coast longshoremen began voting Tuesday on a final offer by shippers in an election required by federal law before the suspended dock strike can resume.

National Labor Relations Board officials said the ballot results of the 15,000 members of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union would be announced Friday.

Dock workers were ordered back to work Oct. 6 under a court order when President Nixon invoked the Taft-Hartley Act, suspending a 100-day walkout that nearly crippled the economy of the Western states.

An injunction under the act expires Christmas Day, but a referendum of union membership on the PMA's offer is required. The ILWU already has announced plans to resume the walkout after the holidays if the union rejects the offer.

The PMA's final offer was made Oct. 4 prior to the suspension of negotiations. Talks could be resumed prior to a second strike.

The union and employers agreed on a 72 cent per hour pay hike in the first year of a two-year pact. However, a second year wage hike, a guaranteed work week, jurisdiction over container handling and a dispute over the hiring of "steady" workers still were unresolved.

Open Safe Looted

Cash totaling $300 was stolen from an open safe at a Gulf service station at 108 Bellam Avenue, between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. yesterday while attendants were out of the office waiting on customers, San Rafael police reported today.

Survey Measures Student Pot Use

A Terra Linda High School survey shows that 50 per cent of the freshmen smoked marijuana before entering high school, the San Rafael Board of Education was told last night.

In a report on various drug abuse programs in the San Rafael high school and elementary districts, teacher William O'Bayley said, "Much more has to be done before they get to us." (Another San Rafael Schools story, page 1.)

He said a poll this year showed about the same number of students were using marijuana (either regularly or infrequently) as last year. "It's here to stay, apparently," O'Bayley, a health education teacher at Terra Linda High, said.

He said, however, that alcohol was a bigger problem with young people than drugs.

As for the effectiveness of the classes he gives on drug abuse, O'Bayley said, "I tell the kids, 'It's not hurting you to hear all this — and if one of you ends up by not hurting your parents, then the program is a success.' "

O'Bayley and other teachers described drug usage as a symptom of other problems and said just handing out information on drugs was not an adequate way to deal with it.

Lloyd Churgin, county drug and alcohol abuse coordinator, suggested that exciting schools which do not bore youngsters are the answer to drug problems.

The San Rafael Board of Education Also:

SABBATICAL — Heard a report from Terra Linda High School teacher Miriam Chown on a sabbatical leave which she spent in Europe studying science fiction.

AUDIT — Accepted an annual auditor's report from Theodore Martin of Sleezer and Eckhofff.

NAMES — Charged the names of the On Location school to Pacific Crest High School and the Work-Study Center to Madrone High School.

APPOINTMENTS — Hired Von Brannon as an instructional aide in the high school district at $2.64 an hour; Jerry Curtis, Albert Lozano and Lindsay Trimble as substitute custodians at $3.29 an hour.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Mary Lou Hurst as an instructional aide at San Rafael High School.

LEAVES — Granted leaves of absence to Dian Hunter and Salvatore Dieli, both high school instructional aides, and Linda Wylei, high school physical education teacher.

GIFTS — Accepted the following gifts: columnar pads valued at $350 from the Johnson family; material for four book cases at Coleman School from the Parent-Teacher Association; paint for Coleman School Library from Jeremy Dwyer; $330 worth of electronics parts from Electronics Plus for an electronics class at Terra Linda High School, and $100 for the San Rafael High School art department from Max Thelen Jr. in memory of Robert French.

Opposition Voiced To New Controls

HAMPTON, N. H. (UPI)— Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles believes the news media should be exempted from wage-price controls.

Yorty, campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, told a news conference Tuesday the action of a congressional conference committee rejecting a proposal to exempt media from wage and price controls could permit "subtle censorship by federal appointees of the Nixon Administration."

Sanitary Board Reelects President

Dougljs de La Fontaine was reelected president of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District last night and Eber D. Russell was chosen secretary to replace Beverly V. Wheeler, who was defeated Nov. 2 in her bid for reelection to the board.

Russell said new board member John N. Radovich, an electrical engineer, was welcomed.

'Ultimate Indiscretion' Committed

Most people suffer only embarrassment when they commit an indiscretion, but a young man who committed the ultimate faux pas — at least as far as Marin County sheriff's deputies are concerned — ended up in jail yesterday.

Sheriff's deputies in Marin City said they got a call at 9:30 a.m. yesterday of a suspicious person on Erica Road in Tamalpais Valley.

They arrived to find a man, who gave his name as Gary Bernard Schwartz, standing in the rain in a driveway at 1040 Erica Road. He appeared to be intoxicated, officers said.

He was asked to step into the patrol car to get out of the rain, officers said, which he did. He then astounded the deputies by pulling out a marijuana cigarette and lighting it.

Schwartz, who gave no age or address, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing marijuana to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Deputies said they suspect the name the man gave is an alias.

Quake Triggers Alert For Wave

HONOLULU (UPI)—The U.S. Coast and Geodetics Survey's Honolulu observatory said today that a tidal wave watch was cancel.ed after negative tide reports were received from stations at Shemya, Attu, Adak and Japan.

The tidal wave watch was issued after a severe earthquake occurred at 10:30 p.m HST Tuesday in the area of the east coast of Kamchatka in the Aleutians.

The preliminary magnitude of the quake was set at 7.8 on the Richter Scale.

The tidal wave watch was cancelled at 2:10 a.m. HST today.

Passenger In Good Condition

A Kentfield girl was reported in good condition at Ross General Hospital today with injuries suffered yesterday when a car in which she was riding struck a utility pole in San Rafael.

Susan L. Gehrke, 16, of 2 Tioga Lane, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut right knee, multiple scrapes and possible head injuries and then transferred and admitted to the Ross hospital.

The driver of the car, Steven W. Washington, 16, of 23 Sandalwood Court, San Rafael, was treated at Marin General for a head cut, the hospital said.

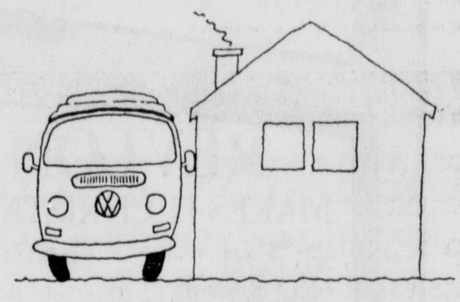
Washington told San Rafael police he was driving on Las Gallinas Avenue, near Cedar Hill Drive, at 11:55 a.m., when he dropped a cigarette between the seats of his car. In searching for the cigarette, he swerved, drove over a divider and struck the pole, he said.

Ship At Vallejo Has Tight Squeeze

VALLEJO, Calif. (UPI)—It was a tight squeeze, but the submarine tender Nereus helped by 10 tugs slid through the causeway between Mare Island Naval Shipyard and the mainland with a half-inch clearance Tuesday.

However, one of the tugs smashed into the drawbridge section of the causeway, ripping out 30 feet of pilings, knocking the bridge six inches out of line and causing damage estimated at $250,000.

VOLKSWAGEN OF AMERICA, INC.



Add another room to your house.

Just drive up in a Volkswagen Campmobile.
The only problem you'll face is what to call the room.
After all, it could be a bedroom. (The Campmobile comes furnished with a full-length double bed, a kid's bed and a hammock.)
Or a study. (The Campmobile has a worktable and a reading lamp.)
Or a kitchen. (There's a cupboard, dining table, icebox and, yes, the kitchen sink.)
Or maybe you can just consider it a place to go when you want to get away from it all.

OLD SWEDISH CUSTOM

Wearing a crown of burning candles and a star, Sandy Demarta takes a pastry. But for the rest of the day yesterday she was Santa Lucia at the Viking Pastry in San Rafael where she works. In the old Swedish custom, the eldest daughter, wearing a crown of candles, served coffee and pastry to her parents in bed on the shortest day of the year. She sings "Santa Lucia" as she wakes the family for their breakfast. The fire department might frown down on the old custom, but today's girls now generally wear crowns of battery lighted bulbs.

Two States Are Lashed By Winds

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tornadoes and severe winds lashed Missouri and Illinois early today, overturning house trailers, tearing roofs off homes, downing power lines and causing other extensive damage.

At least one death was reported in Springfield, Mo., and eight persons were injured in the Poplar Bluff area. A 125-mile stretch of southeast Illins was struck by the storm, which caused extensive damage but no reported injuries.

High wind warnings were issued for Illinois this morning in anticipation of a second onslaught of winds that had hit Missouri.

The National Weather Service also issued tornado warnings for four northern Indiana counties—Starke, Marshall, St. Joseph's and Elkhart.

Several county roads in Illinois were blocked by the storm damage and telephones were cut in the cities of Flora and Newton, state police said.

Wind gusts in excess of 50 miles an hour were reported in St. Louis, Mo., and at Columbia, Ill., winds were clocked at 68 miles an hour. At Polo, Ill., winds reached 70 mph and at Springfield winds were clocked at 72.

At least 10 persons were injured Tuesday night when eight tornadoes raced across Arkansas.

Arkansas state police said the injuries resulted when a small tornado apparently touched down at Cotter and Flippin, small towns about five miles apart in Marion County.

Freak tornadoes and thunderstorms also slashed across Texas from west to east late Tuesday, damaging many homes and businesses and injuring several persons.

All-night squads of police patrolled downtown Hurst, a Fort Worth suburb, to prevent looting of weather-damaged businesses.

At least 10 tornadoes, some seen in clusters, chewed through the area around Fort Worth, Dallas, Sherman, Waco, Cleburne and Corsicana.

A tornado also struck Halls, Tenn., early today causing from $25,000 to $30,000 in damage when it blew the roof off a local Tupperware plant. A house trailer was also blown over and the occupants were treated and released at Dyersburg Hospital.

Petaluma Youth Ask Role In Tax Election

Students should play a role in promoting the March 21 tax rate increase election, the Petaluma Board of Education decided last night.

Nancy Barlas, student representative to the board, said that students deserve to have a part in the election promotion since they have the most to gain from it. She said she believed her classmates would be willing to launch a door-to-door campaign to explain the need for increased taxes.

The board has called the election to seek an increase in the elementary district tax rate from $1.83 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.71. The high school district tax rate would go from $1.55 to $2.23 per $100 assessed valuation, if voters approve.

The board agreed with Miss Barlas that students should be directly involved and said a joint campaign with adults should be launched. Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer suggested the board appoint a steering committee in January to lead the drive.

Board Member Daniel B. Plumley said he has encountered hostile reaction to the tax increase because of alleged educational frills in the system and said the district must fully explain its programs and put misconceptions to rest if the election is to succeed.

Voters last February defeated a tax rate increase election by a margin of two to one. The elementary district has operated for 13 years without a tax rate increase and the high school district for eight years.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

YEAR-ROUND — Heard Dr. Dan Montgomery report that the study committee on the extended school year is progressing well and that questionnaires for the general public and school staff members are being prepared.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired and set salaries for three teachers including Linda Gallagher, $4,943; Dorothy Tanguay, $1,135; and Kathleen Willhite, $4,011.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of teacher Yvonne Aaseth due to maternity.

MEETING — Canceled the Dec. 28 board meeting and set the next meeting for Jan. 11.

Ice Used More For Controlled Cooling

NEW YORK (UPI) —The use of ice instead of water by industry for controlled cooling is growing, says a trade source.

Some examples, according to Borg-Warner's York, Pa., Division, producer of ice making machines for 86 years: In construction, ice is sometimes mixed with concrete to reduce shrinkage and increase the strength of the mixture; meat packers put ice in hot dog and sausage meat to keep cutter blades of their meatgrinders from overheating; rubber companies use ice to keep latex from sticking to rollers.

Jury Trial In Burglary Case

Thomas Eric Grayson, 21, and Robert Louis Arnett II, 22, both of San Rafael, have been scheduled to be tried by jury in Marin Superior Court on a burglary charge, beginning Feb. 7 next year.

Both men pleaded innocent to the charge Monday before Judge Henry J.Broderick of Marin Superior Court.

They were arrested Nov. 24 and charged with the burglary of the Jack G. MacPhee home on Woods Street in San Rafael.

A Homer For Women's Rights— In Novato Parks Youth League

A Novato woman fighting for women's rights on the baseball diamond has won a concession from the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission.

Commissioners on Monday reversed an earlier decision against letting girls play in the Farm League, according to Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director.

They ruled that girls could play in the league if there aren't enough girls to form a separate girls league, Adams said.

The Farm League serves youngsters, 9 through 12 years.

The ban was protested by M. Elizabeth Smith of 6 June Lane who said that girls should be permitted to play since half the population is female.

"Arbitrary exclusion of girls is crippling to their self esteem," she said, when the ban was imposed after two girls played in the Farm League last summer as an experiment.

The ban against girls will remain in the Peewee League, which serves players, 7 and 8 years old.

Commissioners also nominated the Marin Garden Club and Edward T. Ghirardo of 213 Grand Vista for the annual service awards presented by District One of the California Parks and Recreation Society.

The garden club, which has donated $2,000 worth of plants, was nominated as the organization which has done the most toward improvement of park and recreation facilities, Adams said.

Ghirardo was nominated for his work in flag football and basketball, 10 years with Y Indian Guides, his work with the West Marin Parent-Teacher Association and his service as chairman of the bond drive for the Novato Boys Club.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also:

POOL — Received a letter from the San Marin High School Parent-Faculty Club urging the city to proceed toward building a community pool at the school.

BASEBALL — Received a report from Adams that the engineers, grading contractors association will grade the Olive School playground for a Little League diamond Saturday, weather permitting, as its contribution to the program.

ATTENDANCE — Received a report from Adams that attendance at program last month was 27,822, up 4,122 from November 1970, a gain he attributed both to the Saturday playground program and to overall increased use of facilities.

Marin Plan Recommendations, Objections Move To Council

San Rafael Planning Commissioners got down to specifics last night and unanimously adopted a list of objections and recommendations to proposed revisions of the Marin County plan.

Commission recommendations will be sent to the city council for review and, if adopted, will then go to the City-County Planning Council. The city-county council has asked that each city respond to the proposed plan by December 30.

The commission objected to the plan's limiting any intervalley connecting road between Terra Linda and Sleepy Hollow to emergency vehicles and bus traffic; to loosely defined open-space allowances for the Lucas Valley-White Hill connector and the San Rafael Waterfront Parkway across the San Rafael Canal; to possible loss of a ferry site near the Civic Center; and to a county "superagency," for planning with veto power of the government agency plans.

Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner urged the commissioners into action when he told them "other cities have reviewed the plan and made suggestions; we haven't done that in this city."

Commissioner James Dougan agreed. He said a written report from the city would be more effective than his "standing up at the City-County Planning Council and voicing my objections and the mayor's." (Dougan was referring to a city-county council meeting earlier this month when he said San Rafael would not support a county superbody with a veto power over the city).

The commission agreed that a review agency, established to study planning proposals of countywide importance, is essentially a good idea. But, said commissioner Alan Kay, "final action rests with the city."

Hotchner said, "We recognize that we'll work with the county; we're just making a point to the county planning commission of how we have to react and improve what's going on."

Hotchner said he hoped the cities and county would share an equal position on any planning review board.

As to county transportation plans, the commission decided it was to San Rafael's best interest to have an inter-connector road that will alleviate some of the city's traffic congestion. By limiting the Terra Linda-Sleepy Hollow road to emergency vehicles and buses, downtown San Rafael would bear the brunt of too many cars, the commission decided.

Hotchner also objected to the plan's policy statement that "the Lucas Valley-White Hill connector and the San Rafael Waterfront Parkway across the San Rafael Canal should not be built unless the proposed open space is secured simultaneously."

Hotchner said, "We're shown blobs of color on the map for open space. The open space area is vague and undefined and can be interpreted in any way."

The commission approved Hotchner's phrase that the parkway be built "consistent to our general plan, with view and access to the bay."

The commission also agreed with spectator Pricilla Bull, who said the removal of a ferry site at the Los Gallinas estuary near the Civic Center is inconsistent with making the Northgate-Civic Center area the hub of the county."

The plan suggested looking into "the possible civilian air use of Hamilton, or a ferry site to serve Novato."

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

TENSION LINE — Approved a new style of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. high-tension line pole, to be erected in East San Rafael, but made no commitment to purchase it.

INTERSECTION — Asked for public response to the intersection of Bellam, Jacoby and Sims streets. Hotchner said the city engineer is already designing plans that would accommodate heavy traffic easier, but would like some city response.

SIGNS — Completed sign ordinance review by saying all facia signs will consist of individual letters which will be raised and may be mounted on a cabinet. Commissioner Joseph J. Garbarino also said that some A-frame and I-frame signs in the Northgate will be reviewed for compliance.

RESERVOIR RD. — Granted conditional approval for a three-lot subdivision at Reservoir Road and Woods Street, owned by Clara Habekoss.

OPEN DECK — Granted conditional approval of open-deck encroachment to within two inches of side property. Jerry Miles, owner and applicant said he would remove the deck if his neighbor so wished.

DEBRIS BOX — Gave conditional approval to Fred Grange, 2029-2031 Francisco Blvd., to extend the expiration date of debris box storage and repair yard to April 15.

HELICOPTER — Extended permit to helicopter service and mobile office, 1637 Francisco Blvd., Cagwin, Dorward, Crowell and Vasley, owners.

FILL — Approved placement of 350,000 cubic yards of fill on undeveloped 54-acre site.

BOARDING HOUSE — Denied rooming and boarding house use at 421 Mission Ave. to Jesse and Claire Rudolph.

STORAGE — Granted conditional approval to storage area addition over existing platform and dock, 4244 Redwood Highway, Ken Testa, owner.

WAREHOUSE — Gave conditional approval to existing warehouse, 97 Louise St., L. H. Leonardi, owner. An additional 2,275 square foot area is to be used for storage.

AMENDMENT — Granted conditional approval to 26 Mark Drive, owners Joseph and Ann Morrison, for permission to hold occasional warehouse sales.

BUILDING — Granted conditional approval to 518 B Street, Mrs. L. Lamme owner, for proposed three-story apartment structure located on rear portion.

Double Burglary Case Sent To Superior Court

Christopher Kevin Greene, 20, of Mill Valley yesterday waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to superior court to answer charges of burglary and concealing stolen property. He is scheduled to appear in Marin Superior Court on Monday.

Green was arrested Nov. 21 by Fairfax police and charged with burglarizing the John Kelly residence on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Fairfax on two occasions, Nov. 7 and Nov. 21. He also is charged with concealing stolen property.

Enjoy Dominic's smoke-filled rooms.

With everyone quitting smoking these days, it's really hard to find a good smoke-filled room any more. Well, we'd like to point out that we not only have more (we think) and better (we know) meeting and banquet rooms than anyone else in Marin, but also now offer a unique and heretofore unobtainable service. We will pre-fill your meeting room with smoke, in advance. Prices vary with the service, from economy (Mexican cigarette) to deluxe (imported Havana cigar). At least 24 hours notice, please.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS are fine little tidbits, ideal for entertaining during the holidays. Well-seasoned pea puree, shown here, makes a good stuffing.

During the festive season, when hostesses like to offer special treats, a tip might be taken from the English hostess where the "savoury" is an important part of every good dinner. The word covers any number of little tidbits that complement and contrast with the main dish.

Here, for example, are two "savouries:" Pea-stuffed mushrooms and mushroom cheese fondue. The latter is chummy snacking, for each snacker, in turn, spears a small mushroom and dips it into a well-seasoned hot melted cheese concoction. (The Swiss fondue pot over its alcohol burner is ideal, but a chafing dish or small electric hot plate will do.)

Stuffed mushrooms are always popular on the hors d'oeuvre tray. Serve them raw, baked or broiled. Medium mushrooms are best — the two-bite size. Make up your own stuffing and for that you can start with well-seasoned ham, chicken livers, clams, shrimp, meat or fish paste; cheese; egg salad; seasoned crumbs, generously buttered. Or, as shown here, a smooth seasoned pea puree.

You can use either fresh or canned whole mushrooms for appetizers.

PEA-STUFFED MUSHROOMS

- 1 pound medium-size fresh mushrooms
- Oil
- 2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen peas
- 4 strips bacon
- ¼ cup minced onion
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 2 tablespoons dry white wine or water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground white pepper

Rinse, pat dry and remove stems from mushrooms. Brush caps with oil and arrange, cup side up, on an ungreased baking sheet. Finely chop stems to measure 1/2 cup (save remaining stems for use in soups or stews).

Cook peas according to package directions; drain. Puree in blender until smooth; set aside. In a small skillet fry bacon until crisp; crumble and set aside. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons bacon fat. Add the 1/2 cup chopped stems and the onion; saute five minutes. Stir in flour; cook one minute. Stir in wine.

Combine pureed peas with sauteed mushroom mixture, crumbled bacon, salt and white pepper; mix well. Fill mushroom caps with mixture using a pastry bag or spoon. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) 10 minutes.

Yield: 20 to 30 stuffed mushrooms

MUSHROOM CHEESE FONDUE

- ¾ pound small fresh mushrooms or
- 2 cans (6 to 8 oz. each) whole mushrooms
- 1 can (10-¾ oz.) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
- ¼ cup dry white wine or apple juice
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon onion powder
- ⅛ teaspoon ground red pepper
- ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- Paprika

Rinse, pat dry and trim stem ends of fresh mushrooms or drain canned mushrooms. In a small saucepan combine soup, wine, mustard, onion and garlic powders and red pepper. Heat thoroughly, stirring constantly. Turn into fondue pot or chafing dish. Sprinkle with parsley and paprika; keep warm. Spear mushroom with fork and dip into fondue.

Yield: 8 portions

Baking Captures The Spirit

All through the house, the spirit of the holidays is captured in the inviting fragrance of home baking. Cakes and cookies, traditional to the season, are baked not only to serve the family and friends, but also as gifts from the heart and hearth.

Try your hand at a simple recipe for holiday tea cakes. A modern version of an old Czechoslovakian recipe, the rich round miniature balls are made with a basic batter of sugar, butter, flour and chopped nuts.

They have a lemon flavor and a hint of spiciness that comes from using an American flavoring short-cut: lemon flavored instant tea powder. These cakes are rolled in confectioners sugar for a frosty look.

When company drops in serve the holiday tea cakes with glasses of fresh brewed tea with lemon slices and sugar cubes. And, as the Czechs do, wish your guests "Dobrou chut!" which means, "Have a good appetite!"

HOLIDAY TEA CAKES

- 1 cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup sifted confectioners sugar
- 2 tablespoons lemon flavored instant tea powder
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2¼ cups sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup finely chopped pecans

In large bowl, blend butter, confectioners sugar, lemon flavored instant tea powder, and vanilla. Combine flour and salt; slowly add to butter mixture. Fold in nuts. Chill at least one hour.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

Form dough into ½-inch balls. Place on ungreased cookie sheets and bake 10 to 12 minutes. Roll in confectioners sugar. Cool on rack; then roll in confectioners sugar again. Makes about six dozen tea cakes.

Needn't Be Drag

Planning the dinner vegetable needn't be a drag if you let your imagination take over. People from the British Isles know how tasty brussel sprouts can be; take a tip from them and serve yours next time lightly tossed with some chopped, toasted walnuts and crisp pieces of diced bacon sauteed with an equal measure of minced onion.

Best Fish Buys

Best fish and shellfish buys in the West between Dec. 15 and Jan. 15 will be canned tuna, rockfish fillets, Pacific oysters and Dover sole fillets, according to the National Marine Fisheries Service of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

THE EUROPEANS

Immigrants Brought Spicy Recipes

During the holiday season spicy aromas drift about in kitchens in the upper Midwest, where homemakers are occuped with the Christmas baking.

This part of the country was settled by immigrants from norhtern and middle Europe — Germany, Scandinavia, the British Isles, Belgium, the Netherlands, Finland and Russia.

In families of German extraction, cookies would seem the preferred Christmas treat. Centuries ago in Germany, they began hanging pretty cookies — or amusing ones — on the Christmas tree for the delight of children. Spicy ones, too, for most spices came to Germany at the same time as the Christian religion.

Cookies and lavish holiday breads come from Scandinavian ovens, as often as not redolent of cardamom, a favorite spice in the land of the midnight sun. Mince pies, for the British, symbolize the magnificence of the gifts of the three wise men.

The Belgians and the Dutch make big, nutmeg-spiced cookies cut into the shape of Santa Clauses. These they call "speculoos." Finnish Christmas baking is a good deal like that of Sweden, Norway and Denmark. In Russia, Christmas sweets in days gone by included spiced honey cakes and a sweet nut bread.

From this part of the U. S. comes this recipe for eggnog cake.

EGGNOG CAKE

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 cup sugar, divided
- 2 eggs, separated
- ½ cup orange juice
- ½ cup light rum, divided
- 1½ teaspoons grated orange peel
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- Eggnog cream filling
- Chocolate bittersweet frosting

Sift flour with baking powder, nutmeg, baking soda and salt; set aside. In a large bowl cream butter with ¾ cup of the sugar until fluffy. Add egg yolks; beat well. Blend orange juice with ¼ cup of the rum, orange peel and vanilla extract. Add alternately with flour to the butter mixture. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; gradually beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar until stiff but not dry. Fold into batter.

Turn into two buttered eight or nine-inch round cake pans lined on the bottom with waxed paper. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 minutes or until cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pan five minutes, then invert on wire rack, peel off paper, and cool thoroughly. Split each layer crosswise. Sprinkle each layer with remaining ¼ cup rum.

Yield: One nine-inch layer cake

EGGNOG CREAM FILLING

- 1¼ cups milk
- 5 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- ¾ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons rum
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg

In a small saucepan combine milk and flour. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Cool. In a small mixing bowl cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Stir in rum and nutmeg. Add cooled flour mixture by the spoonful, beating until light and fluffy.

CHOCOLATE BITTERSWEET FROSTING

- 4 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1¼ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- ¾ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 2 tablespoons hot water
- 2 eggs
- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened

In a small mixing bowl combine chocolate with sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg; beat well. Gradually add hot water; blend until smooth. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Add butter and blend until smooth.

Spot Of Sunshine

Homemade marmalade brings a spot of sunshine to any breakfast table; next time you make some add walnuts and a dash of vanilla extract to enhance the tangy orange flavor.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT T. HANSEN
Former Sharon Lynn Wright
(Bridal Faire Novato Photo)

Robert Hansen Weds Sharon Lynn Wright

Sharon Lynn Wright and Robert T. Hansen were married on Dec. 4 at the North Marin Assembly of God Church in Novato.

Sharon, the daughter of Chief and Mrs. James D. Wright of Mill Valley, chose Patricia Greer of Hayward as her maid of honor. Her bridesmaids were her sisters, Mrs. Anthony Hoke of Novato and Mrs. Joseph Pita of Castro Valley.

The couple went on a wedding trip to Monterey following a reception at The Meadows in Terra Linda. They will live in Petaluma.

The bride was graduated from San Marin High School and is employed at Glen Five and Ten Store in Mill Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hansen of Petaluma are the bridegroom's parents. He was graduated from San Marin High School and is employed at the Novato Auto Sales. He is the brother of John Hansen, Marilyn White and Carolyn Womack, all of Petaluma. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Frederickson of Novato are his local grandparents.

Terrazzo Is Popular Flooring

Terrazzo, old as ancient Rome, is popular again today as flooring in the home. Cleaning the flooring is easy by following some tips:

Sweep the floor daily. Once a week, or as needed, wet-mop it with an all-purpose household cleaner, following the instructions on the label.

Jack Jones And His 'Lady Luck'

DALLAS (UPI)—Jack Jones makes his living singing beautiful, sad songs about love that didn't work out. But Jones, who is in the process of the third divorce, still thinks marriage has a future.

"I love women too much," he said. "I love the way they think, I love their company."

His marriage to Gretchen Roberts, an airline stewardess from Dallas, will be dissolved sometime next month. He was married before to Lee Lawrence, the mother of his 10-year-old daughter, and to actress Jill St. John.

"I THINK marriage is still something that can work," the lanky singer said. "As much bad luck as I've had with women, I still love and respect them.

No"I predict that in the next 200 years, if our society has not become a Roman Empire and fallen on its face, marriage will still be around and work just fine for most people."

However, the singer said, "I don't think it will be mandatory in society to be married."

Jones thinks a lot of marriage reforms are necessary and would be healthy for society.

"The best way for marriage to be a beautiful thing and continue as a tradition in civilized society is for some of the legal hangups to be thrown away," he said.

FOR EXAMPLE, he said, "Many men have to live in fear of financial settlements, alimony and child support ... that if it doesn't work out, then they're throwing away half of what they own. Most of the legal aspects just cause bitterness and greed."

"I may sound like I'm bitter, but I'm not," he added.

Jones, who's spent 14 of his 33 years in show business, said he is on the road 40 weeks of the year.

The son of singer Alan Jones, he knows show business life and said it seems to be a built-in risk and handicap for marriages.

"I have to travel and if she travels with me, she has to give up part of her freedom and she is less of an individual. She sits in a hotel room while I'm under the spotlight.

"Why should I have all the identity?" he asked.

JONES SAID when he sings his early hit—"Wives and Lovers" —he really means it, to say love has a chance. He wowed a recent Dallas audience with his ambitious presentation of "That's The Way I've Always Heard It Should Be," his musical pitch for love.

It features a recording of Carly Simon singing sadly about the disadvantages of love with backdrop of slides of lov-

Christmas Party Set At Golf Club

By MOLLY MARIN

Magic and balloon animals will be a part of the entertainment Sunday for the family Christmas party for members of the Marin Golf and Country Club in Novato.

A clown will be on hand to lead the fun, beginning at 4:30 p.m., and Santa Claus will arrive an hour later bearing gifts for the small youngsters. A holiday songfest is scheduled and party guests will dance toorchestra music and have a chance to lead the band themselves.

A dinner will be served in the evening, featuring family menus that appeal to children.

FOLLOWING A five-year tradition, Mr. and Mrs. William Monroe of Mill Valley invited friends to join them in cutting Christmas trees in Napa on Saturday. They hired a commuter-size touring bus for 45 friends and children, served a picnic lunch, cut trees and later enjoyed dinner in Sonoma.

THE DAY after Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. William Hambrecht and their five children will hold open house from 4 to 7 p.m. at their Beach Road home in Belvedere. About 100 guests are expected for a buffet and champagne punch.

A BRIDAL shower and luncheon were given last Wednesday by Mrs. Benjamin Cook and Mrs. Robert Edelstein of San Anselmo in honor of Caroline Marie Ballachey.

Caroline became the bride of Joseph Howard Womack yesterday in a ceremony in San Anselmo. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ballachey of San Rafael.

TRIPLET DAUGHTERS were born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. William Lyon of Petaluma. Their first children, the babies have been named Shelley Elizabeth, Eileen Fay and Molly Ann Lyon.

Warnings On Yule Toy Gifts

One way to prevent children's accidents is to guard against giving a toy, however well made, to a youngster not ready to handle it. Any toy can be unsafe when given to a child at the wrong age. Here are some ideas of what may be considered "unsafe" for a child's Christmas.

Up to two years, the hand-to-mouth age — Unsuitable are electrical toys. Avoid giving any sharp edged toys, or those with loose attachments that can be swallowed. Best bets are sturdy rattles, washable rubber-squeak toys, large balls, blocks and toys of the push-pull variety.

Two to four, the exploring and pretending age — Movable toys, such as trucks, should not have easily removed parts that can be swallowed, nor wheels that have sharp pointed axles. Plastic toys should be impact resistant acetate or soft polyethylene. Avoid plastics that break leaving sharp edges.

Four to six, — Unsafe at any age are flammable toys and costumes. Avoid shooting or target toys that endanger the eyes. Even those that come with suction sups become dangerous when the cups come off.

Electrical toys are not recommended for any child under six. Battery operated toys are generally safer than the plug-in variety.

Six to eight — Avoid anything large or complicated. Tools should be the right size for the child. Adult-size hammers and saws are dangerous in small hands.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Christmas Season Separates Neurotics From Blithe Spirits

DEAR HELEN:

Am I weird? With every year, I hate Christmas more. It wasn't so bad when the kids were tiny and we got into the Santa routine, but now — it's just one terrible task after another. I start feeling blue after Thanksgiving, and by mid-December I want to crawl away somewhere and hibernate until the New Year.

Cards are such a hassle. They mean nothing — just an increasingly expensive way to say "I had to send one because I know you will, darn it."

And gifts! You give a stupid present because you'll get a stupid present, and who wants them? You worry because you may spend more (or less) than your friends or relatives spend on you.

Holiday parties? I drink too much to forget how tired I am.

I wish I could take a three-week vacation at Christmastime and spend it in the Fiji Islands or someplace remote and inaccessible, where I could forget all that junk.

Does anyone else feel the same? — YULE GHOUL

DEAR Y.G.:

Psychologists say that Christmas, more than any time of the year, separates the neurotic from the happy-go-lucky. Those with a touch of misery imbedded in their psyches let it all hang out during their December doldrums. People who enjoy life may like it even better as the holiday season approaches.

Most of us are neither completely neurotic nor wholly carefree, so we all feel a certain dread mixed in with the Christmas cheer. But if the commercial aspect, the hassle, bad memories — and even the carols and reverence — turn you into a quivering zombie, then I'd suggest you take that trip to the Fijis, (or to a nearer place you can afford). You'll be a lot happier for it, and so will your friends and relatives.

There are days like today — with shopping still undone, cards unwritten, and a cold coming on — when I'd give a lot to join you! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

As the Christmas rush is upon us, I'm reminded of past shopping problems, and prompted to offer some suggestions which would apply year round, but are especially appropriate for this season:

1. When selecting purchases, double-check such things as size, color, etc., before you enter the check-out lane. Going back for an exchange takes up everyone's time, including yours.

2. If you are bargain-hunting, be certain what you have is the same brand name as what is on sale. If it's a "three-for" be sure you don't get four or two.

3. Don't expect busy store personnel to be experts concerning gifts. How do they know what size shirt a man wears who "is about six-foot and used to play college football" or what a six-year-old girl who enjoys climbing trees wants from Santa?

4. If you can't find the item you want, ask one of the clerks in the department. Don't expect the cashier at the check-out stand to know details about every department in the store.

5. Be sure, when paying by check, to have identification ready. Or . . .

6. Have your money ready for the cashier, and try to keep pennies handy for change-making.

7. For your own sake, be certain you save receipts. You can't expect an exchange or refund just because you have an honest face.

8. In all your Christmas shopping, try to put yourself in the other person's place. Do everything you can to speed things up because everyone else is probably just as tired of fighting crowds as your are. — JOYCE O.

Vows Said In San Anselmo

For the afternoon nuptials yesterday, Mrs. Daniel S. Bratt of Canoga Park was the only bridal attendant. Best man was William Tinsman of Torrance.

Caroline is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ballachey of San Rafael and the sister of John M. Ballachey, serving with the Navy at Long Beach, and of Mrs. William Perry of Mountain View.

She is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and attended San Jose State College. She is employed with American Airlines in Los Angeles.

Joseph is the son of Mrs. Ralph Womack of Humboldt, Kan. He is a graduate of Humboldt High School and attended Kansas University. He is employed with Holiday Airlines at South Lake Tahoe. Lawrence Womack of Sunnyvale is his brother.

Television Toys Boon For Ad Writers But Not Children

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Toys are for kids. But some of the newest playthings are providing more fun for ad writers than for children. Manufacturers are also getting a big kick out of them.

It will come as no surprise to many parents that the latest kind of toy is called the "television toy." It may not look unusual, but it is.

This kind of product is a symbol of today's world. It would not even exist if it were not for television. In fact, this type of toy is not advertised anywhere else, because it is designed and produced for the television market, where ads can be directly aimed at children.

The unique nature of the "television toy" was described at recent hearings of the Federal Trade Commission by Stephen L. Bluestone, former editor of toy commercials for the National Association of Broadcasters' Code Authority, an industry group watching ethics in advertising.

The TV toy, said Bluestone, is "one of the few product categories . . . created because of television and presumably would not exist were it not for television."

OTHER CHARACTERISTICS of such a product include:

The fact that price is never disclosed in the advertisement

The fact that there are always more accessories to buy after the main item is purchased.

The fact that most toys are active and work at the flip of a switch, making the child a spectator who can become bored quickly.

The fact that the toys work better on the TV screen than they do in the living room after they are purchased.

"Consumer reaction to the poor quality of TV toys in 1970 reached a new peak with our customers. We had more complaints on the type of toys on television thanat any time in our history."

BUT BUSINESS has only expanded. Mattel, the best known name in TV toy advertising, has grown from practically nothing in 1955 to annual sales of more than $288 million.

The file on Mattel at the Federal Trade Commission has also grown. The company recently signed a consent order prohibiting the firm's advertising to children to use any distortion of a toy's performance, any "fanciful and misleading brand names," or any unfair and deceptive TV commercials for "Hot Wheels" and "Dancerina Doll."

The Broadcasters' Code of ethics cautions advertisers to "avoid presumptions that a toy requiring a material investment can be had for the asking." But, according to Bluestone, the Code is not enforced very well.

"I have not yet seen one commercial," he told the FTC, "that implies or states that any toy cannot be had for the asking. The violation is committed by almost every toy commercial on the air."

Aaron Locker, a lawyer representing the Toy Manufacturers of America Inc., told the FTC why toy makers use TV so much:

"NO MEDIUM other than television can affordably reach enough prospects with sufficient impact in the time available to do the job. This is especially true because much of the volume anticipated is from new items which need quick and clear introduction."

ers in New York City, on the beach, in parks. Jones chimes in with a counterpoint argument that love and marriage do go together like a horse and carriage.

Jones got top reviews from Dallas critics, who praised his new maturity. "His new delivery carries the added value of a certain poignancy," said one.

"Yea," he kidded, "I'm an old wise man now." But he wasn't smiling.

Jones said he's working on a half-hour musical show for next year and hopes to do more summer stock and more movies.

"In the future I plan to learn as much about this business as I can, spend some time on my boat and," he pulled out the grin again, "of course, go out with lots of girls."

Entertainers Set Treat For Yacht Club's Youngsters

Three Bay Area performing artists will present a program for the annual children's party at the Sausalito Yacht Club Sunday, from 1 to 3 p.m. Christmas musical adaptations will precede the traditional arrival of Santa Claus by boat.

Allen Seaman and Rosalind and Michael Reno will entertain the children with excerpts based on Dr. Seuss, and musical adaptations will be played in French comedie belles artes style. Seaman, who teaches in Ross and at the Mill Valley Recreation Department-sponsored children's theater workshop, is appearing in "Native Son" at the Boarding House theater in San Francisco. Mrs. Reno is appearing in "Gypsy" at San Francisco State College.

Party chairman Mrs. Harold Thomas Rogers will be assisted by Mmes. Donald Anderson, Chris Jeppeson, John Steele and R. William Whitaker. Mrs. Steele has created two gingerbread houses as special gifts.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Jeppeson and Lowden Jessup.

Elves aiding Santa will be Cynthia Steele, Jennifer Jessup, Carol Anderson and David Wallace.

THE TAMALPAIS High School Chapter of the American Field Service will have its Christmas party on Sunday, from 4 to 6 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harold I. Griffeath in Sausalito. All AFS exchange students in Marin High Schools are invited.

Hostesses will be Liesa Greensfelder, Evelyn Shiro and Vickie Goodman.

THE NOVATO Newcomers Antique Study Group will hold its third anniversary breakfast at the home of Mrs. Edgar Garland in Novato at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

An old fashioned Southern breakfast will be followed by the members' visit to the home of Mrs. John Mani, who has a collection of early American furniture and Meissen.

THEIR ANNUAL Christmas Holiday Hoedown will be held by the Novato Stump Jumpers Square Dance Club on Saturday evening. The group will dance to the calling of Dave Milano, from 8:30 to midnight at Novato High School.

Retirement Home Sets Golden Event

Aldersley, the Danish retirement home, in San Rafael is celebrating its golden anniversary of founding this month, and a gala celebration was given there Sunday for some 250 guests.

The original building, known as the white house, which housed the home's first residents 50 years ago, still remains as the social hall and was the setting for the party.

Greetings were extended by the King of Denmark by the Danish Consul General in San Francisco, Per W. Frellesvig, who presented as a gift for the home a large colored photograph of the Danish Royal family. King Frederick and Queen Ingrid visited the home in 1960 and came previously in 1939 when he was the Crown Prince.

Marin directors for Aldersley are Mmes. Robert Humphreys of Tiburon, Jack Shapiro of Mill Valley, Harry Wall and Lawrence Bentzen of San Rafael.

Reno Wedding For Future Novato Pair

Mary Theresa Boccabella of San Anselmo became the bride of Dayton Eugene Smith of Vallejo in a Saturday afternoon ceremony in Reno, Nev.

Mary's sister, Mrs. Thomas H. Daley of Napa, was her matron of honor, and Thomas Daley served as best man for the bridegroom.

A reception was held in Reno, and the couple left on a wedding trip to Las Vegas and Southern California. They will live in Novato.

Mary is the daughter of Mrs. Dominic J. Boccabella of San Anselmo and the late Mr. Boccabella.

She is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and the College of Marin and is employed with McGraw-Hill Book Co. in Novato. She is the sister of Ralph J. Boccabella of Novato and John D. Boccabella of San Rafael.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Smith of Vallejo are the parents of the bridegroom.

He is a graduate of John Swett High School in Crockett and is an Air Force staff sergeant serving at Travis Air Force Base.

Christmas Tree Safety Hints For Every Home

Christmas trees are a potential serious fire hazard, so keep your tree outside until you are ready to use it.

An artificial, flame-proof tree is the safest. For the many, however, who find it difficult to part with the traditional live tree, remember to stand your tree in a base that is constantly filled with water.

Many fires begin because the live, cut tree dries rapidly in our heated homes, so keep the tree away from sources of drying heat, such as the radiator or fireplace. Also, be prepared with a pail of water standing nearby at all times or with a home fire extinguisher.

HAVARTI

the Danish cheese for people of pronounced taste

Say it to yourself: Ha-var-ti. It rhymes with "a party", and that's when some people serve it. Don't fall into the same trap: make Havarti, the mild, mellow, creamy-yellow, lacy-patterned Danish cheese, an everyday affair. For luscious snacks, sandwiches, casseroles. So say "Ha-var-ti", and say it often. At your grocery or supermarket, of course.

Patrolman Cross-Examined In Hearing On Firing Of Orr

By LARRY MOWELL

Under cross-examination last night, Fairfax Patrolman Alan R. Wernstrum ticked off causes of low morale under fired Chief James R. Orr, but otherwise repeated testimony he made Saturday.

The only significant change in his testimony before the Fairfax Board of Review was that while clerk matron Marsha S. Kittelman gave him orders, he did not know if the orders originated with her.

He had testified Saturday that her orders did not seem to be from the chief. When asked by board chairman Freeman Blake about the apparent contradiction he replied, "I would receive orders from the clerk matron, but I would not be told the source of the orders."

He said the clerk now tells him who gave the order except when issuing an order over the radio, the latter situation not requiring such information.

Wernstrum's testimony was completed at 9:10 p.m., but the board adjourned rather than hear only part of the testimony of the next witness, Sgt. Andy Grimes, who is expected to give lengthy testimony.

Shaw objected to partial testimony since the next session will not be until 7:30 p.m. Jan. 5. The board adjourned until then in deference to the holiday plans of City Atty. Wallace S. Myers.

Wernstrum's testimony lasted about an hour last night and was mostly a rehash of points he and other witnesses had made previously.

Under Shaw's questioning, he stuck by his account of being denied access to schooling although he said he never made written application. He also said going to school would have cut into his patrol time.

He reiterated complaints of gaps in evidence rules and lax security and again said — despite a list of rules on chain of command mentioned by Shaw — that the chain of command was faulty because Mrs. Kittelman violated it.

The witness did amplify his comment made Saturday that morale was "on a rather low note." Prodded by Shaw for causes of the alleged morale problem, he pointed to occasional shortages of report and log forms, lack of rotating lights on patrol cars and other equipment shortages. Other factors were maintenance difficulties on cars, lack of training classes in the department and Orr's refusal to set up a community relations program, Wernstrum said.

He conceded the chief had told him some of the equipment difficulties were due to a money shortage.

Wernstrum's testimony came after the board huddled for almost half an hour. Blake said after the meeting the board agreed in the closed talk they should not do or say anything that might make it appear they are leaning to one side or the other. He would not elaborate on any specific behavior that precipitated the discussion.

The board is acting as judge and jury of Orr's appeal. The chief was ousted after nine years by City Admin. Robert E. Crowe on Sept. 30. After the city council upheld the firing on a 3-2 vote, Orr appealed to the board of review.

Orr is charged with making Mrs. Kittelman a policewoman without authority to do so, showing favoritism to her, engaging in improper social relations with her, drunkenness, failing to set up necessary police procedures, threatening officers and a cadet, dismissing parking tickets without justification or explanation and failing to report a minor charged with buying liquor to the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

About 40 persons attended last night's hearing.

Power Failure Blackens Gate Span; No Accidents

The Golden Gate Bridge was blacked out by a power failure for almost eight hours last night.

Fortunately, it was a clear night — since the failure also killed power to foghorns and aircraft warning lights atop the 746-foot towers.

No accident was reported during the blackout, which started at 8:20 p.m. and lasted until 4:06 a.m.

The bridge's emergency generator, which district directors voted Friday to replace, did not work. It is supposed to power the fog horns, lights and other essential devices. Replacement of the 34-year-old standby unit will cost an estimated $177,000.

A Pacific Gas and Electric Co. spokesman said the initial cause of the failure was a blown fuse in a switch at Marina Boulevard and Baker Street in San Francisco. A 12,000-volt underground circuit also malfunctioned, he said.

It was the longest blackout in memory, bridge officials said.

Felony Burglary Charge Reduced

He was arrested on Nov. 29 and accused of burglarizing the home of Richard K. Johnson on Ross Avenue in San Anselmo on Nov. 24.

After a preliminary hearing yesterday, Judge Robert A. Smallman found evidence insufficient for a burglary charge but held him to answer to a misdemeanor charge of receiving stolen property.

Jewett pleaded innocent to the misdemeanor charge and was to appear for a pre-trial conference today in Marin Municipal Court.

Uncover Sex, Librarians Told

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Sex should be brought out into the open," the chairman of the U.S. Commission on Obscenity and Pornography said Tuesday.

Dr. William B. Lockhart told the California Library Association that the nation should begin a massive program of sex education "designed to create a healthy attitude toward sex."

Sex still is kept under cover in terms of discussing it in a frank and open way, Lockhard said.

Greyhound Permitted To End Runs

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Greyhound Lines, serving Marin commuters since 1941, yesterday won permission to terminate the service when it is taken over by the Golden Gate Bridge District on Jan. 1.

The Greyhound application was approved routinely by the state Public Utilities Commission. The PUC long had agreed to the discontinuance of the service after the bridge district started its own bus system.

The district started local bus service within Marin on Monday.

The PUC, however, denied Greyhound's bid to reduce service from Marin into the Sonoma Valley area. The commission ruled that this service must be continued until the bridge district expands its system so that it can handle this area as well.

The district may extend service to the Sonoma Valley within a year, the decision noted.

Greyhound will continue to offer long-distance bus service through Marin and Sonoma.

Computer Hookup For Sonoma State

A federal grant has enabled Sonoma State College faculty and students to link with resources of the Northern California regional computer network headquartered at Stanford University.

The $25,400 National Science Foundation grant will partially finance the use of the large computer for the academic curriculum. Sonoma State has matched the federal grant with $45,000 for the two-year program.

A terminal on campus will allow students and faculty direct access to the sophisticated IBM-367 computer at the Stanford complex. The computer has a billion-word capacity.

Sonoma State is the only state college participating in the computer network, but plans are under way to establish permanent terminals which would link all 19 California state colleges to their own computer networks.

Heading the Sonoma State program is Les Brooks of the chemistry department, assisted by Dr. Thomas Nelson, mathematics; Wallace Lowry, management, and Barry Godolphin, psychology.

Faculty members will be instructed in the use of the computer as a teaching and research tool. One of its primary values is the instantaneous response of an answer which might take weeks to work out.

Brooks said the computer will be used by a variety of departments.

Vanished Courthouse Will Be Seen Again

The old Marin County Courthouse is now a parking lot, but the building will star in a "world premiere" movie Friday.

The movie entitled "World Premiere: They Call It Murder" will be show at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 4.

The two-hour movie, adapted from the works of mystery author Earl Stanley Gardner, was filmed at the old courthouse on Fourth Street in October 1969 as a pilot for a series. The series did not pan out.

Hutton plays Doug Selby, a big city lawyer who becomes fed up with the city and heads home to Madison County, where he is elected district attorney. In the pilot, Selby investigates a swimming pool murder tied up with gambling, a questionable car crash fatality and a large insurance claim.

Japanese Zoo Slays Animals

YAMAGATA, Japan (UPI) -A lion at Yamagata's zoo usually is fed at 8 a.m., so he suspected nothing when the men approached his cage. Instead of breakfast he got a bullet in the head.

The management of a financially distressed zoo killed 10 large animals to cut feed costs Tuesday, over the protests of local people and Japan's Society for the Protection of Animals.

Sacrificed to the zoo's economy program were two lions, a kangaroo, a zebra and six other animals.

Venereal Disease Class Report Due

The Shoreline Unified School District Board will hear a report on a proposed venereal disease instruction program at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Tomales High School.

Trustees also will consider leasing 2.7 acres of land near the old Bloomfield School to Sonoma County for recreational use.

First Sperm Bank Opened

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Idant Corp Tuesday officially opened the first of 20 "frozen sperm banks" it plans to start in 20 U.S. cities by the end of 1972.

Twenty-three deposits made within the last 10 days were already in the bank's nitrogen vault that is kept at 321 below zero. The average age of the first depositors was 25. The youngest was 21.

Morton E. David, Idant president, said banks will be opened in 20 American cities, hopefully by the end of 1972. He said the sperm bank system also will be launched in England and Japan by 1973.

New Curbs Sought For Strip Mining

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., have introduced legislation that would require strip miners to obtain federal permits for their operations.

They said the permits would be necessary until the states adopt strict strip mining standards under federal supervision.

Tanker Hijacked

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia (UPI)—Naval authorities at Boca de Ceniza on Colombia's northern coast reported today the hijacking to Cuba of a Liberian tanker with 22 crewmen aboard.

Priceless Bass Violin Is Stolen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 250-year-old Testore bass violin, one of fewer than 25 known to exist in the world, has been stolen from the home of a retired musician.

The 7-foot violin belonged to Aaron Guterson, 69, who played for 30 years with the San Francisco Symphony orchestra.

Guterson said someone who apparently had a sophisticated knowledge of musical instruments climbed up a drain pipe Saturday night and entered a window of his two-story house.

"The violin was extremely rare," said Guterson, who has played with Sergei Rachmaninoff, Yehudi Menuhin and Jascha Heifetz. "It was made about 1715 by Carlo Antonius Testore in Italy."

Guterson, who acquired the violin in 1929 for another bass violin and $1,000, said the stolen instrument was "priceless."

"It would be difficult to place a money value on it," he said, "certainly it is worth many thousands of dollars."

Guterson said his home is full of musical instruments.

"But the thief only took this one valuable bass violin," he said. "I think he took exactly what he wanted to take."

Marin Civic Ballet Readies 'Nutcracker'

A 90-member cast of the Marin Civic Ballet will present Tschaikowsky's "The Nutcracker" in four performances next week at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The ballet will be presented through the civic ballet association at 2 and 8 p.m. on Dec. 19, and at 2 p.m. on Dec. 20 and 21.

Jane Thelen of San Rafael will dance the lead in the Sugar Plum Fairy, with David White of Corte Madera dancing her partner, the Cavalier.

Kathi McCormick of Terra Linda will dance the role of the Snow Queen, with Charles Perrier of Fairfax as her partner, the Snow Prince. Cynthia Harvey of Novato will be the soloist in "Waltz of the Flowers."

The cast is directed by Leona Norman, who founded the Leona Norman School of Ballet in San Rafael and helped found in 1950 the Marin Civic Ballet, which readies young people for professional careers.

Miss Thelen, 16, is a student at San Rafael High School. She started dancing at the age of 5 in the party scene from "The Nutcracker" and has appeared at the Regional Ballet Festival in Fresno. In 1969 and 1970, she was selected for summer study at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

White, 17, is a student at Redwood High School. He started dancing when he was 8. In 1963 he danced with the Leningrad Kirov Ballet and the following year, with the Royal Danish Ballet. He studied at the Banff School of Fine Arts in Canada in 1969 and '70.

Lagunitas Pupils Get Extra Help In Study

Students in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades get more individual instruction as well as more electives under the new program started this year, it was reported to the Lagunitas School District board Monday night.

Supt. William E. Johnson said that the staff gave a comprehensive report on the flexible program that started in September. Under it, a student may be placed in a smaller group and receive more individual attention in such subjects as reading and arithmetic. The students must learn the basics of education, but at the same time, are given a choice of eight electives above the usual curriculum.

The teachers work together, so a class may turn into a team teaching project for part of the day and with teaching in smaller units at other times during the day, Johnson said.

The Lagunitas School District board also;

BUS — Awarded an $11,025 contract to Isi-Wisness International of San Rafael for a 66-passenger bus to be delivered in 60 days. This was the only bid received.

ELECTION — Agreed to holding a candidates' night if requested by the two candidates for the position on the board created by the resignation of Eugene Di Basilio who moved from the district. The candidates are Donald Lethridge and Richard Sloan. The election will be Jan. 11 at the same time the electors vote on keeping the 90-cent tax override for another two years. The tax will expire on June 31, 1972 unless renewed.

OFFICES — Approved closing school offices during the week between Christmas and New Year, but allocated some clerical and maintenance work for that period.

LEASE — Approved transferring the lease on the old school building from Barbara Berensmeier to the San Geronimo Art Center Inc. There is no change in the $80 per month rental.

COMMITTEE — Asked volunteers to meet during the holidays to work for the Jan. 11 tax election, but did not name anyone to a committee.

GOALS — Agreed to review on Jan. 10 the school goals as presented by the town hall group on Nov. 29.

FUNDS — Received notification that the district has $1,905 additional funds, making a total of $12,355, in Elementary-Secondary Education Act funds and authorized the staff to revise the program to spend the additional money.

PROGRAMS — Appropriated $328 to pay half, with the Parent-Teacher Association matching the funds, to take 900 students and teachers from the district to cultural programs.

REPORT — Received a request from the State Department of Health on venereal disease in elementary grades. This report will be incorporated into a course of study on the subject being prepared by the state.

RECOGNITION — Gave special recognition to David Maris who donated the materials and his time to install lights on the stage of the multiuse room at the Lagunitas school.

CLOSED SESSION — Held a closed session to evaluate personnel.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 10 at the San Geronimo school.

Museum Fetes Five Centuries

ROME (UPI)—The world's oldest public museum marked its 500th birthday today by offering free admission.

The Capitoline Museum, founded by Pope Sixtus IV Dec. 15, 1471, announced it was throwing its doors open until the end of the week without charging the usual 32 cents.

Greek and Roman art works on display at the museum, located in two buildings on the Capitoline Hill, include such masterpieces as the statues of a dying Gaulish warrior and what is known as the "Capitoline Venus."

San Diego Names Its City Manager

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —Acting City Manager Kimball H. Moore, 53, will take over as city manager of San Diego, succeeding Walter Hahn Jr.

The surprise announcement of Moore's selection came Tuesday during a closed door session in which the city council was scheduled to consider Hahn's request that he be placed on terminal sick leave, clearing the way for a new city manager.

Reagan Signs Textbook Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill requiring that public school textbooks include "accurate portrayals of both men and women in all types of roles" was signed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure by Assemblyman Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles, provides that books and teachers' manuals adopted after July 1, 1975, for use in elementary and high schools include the so-called accurate portrayals.

The bill triggered some questions when it won final legislative approval in the Assembly last month.

Rohnert Park Panel To Eye Need For Bond Vote

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission has agreed to weigh carefully a possible park bond election in the spring.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said the commission finished its study of park needs at its meeting Monday and designated projects with a total cost of $194,625.

Pekkain said the funds included $90,500 for improvements to Benecia Park and pool and $65,200 for Alicia Park. Improvements planned include an enlarged pool area, new turf, landscaping, parking lots and permanent bleachers.

The commission said it would reach a final decision on the bond issue and amount at its Dec. 27 meeting and send a recommendation to the city council.

Pekkain said the commission agreed that if the proposed county parks bond issue is approved next spring, the Rohnert Park share of $80,000 would be used for the development of new parks in the Holiday and El Colegio areas.

Toll-Free Car Numbers Double

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The number of car pools taking advantage of toll free lanes during morning commute hours on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge has nearly doubled.

Before the 30-day experiment began last week, only about 800 cars carrying three or more persons crossed the bridge in the three hour rush period. A total of 1,985 car pools were counted Tuesday.

About 23,000 automobiles normally cross the bridge during the 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. period. Two experimental toll free lanes for car pools were started in an effort to reduce congestion.

Marinwood Rec Panel Appointments Proposed

The Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission has recommended to the Marinwood Community Services District board that two commission members be reappointed.

The commission recommended reappointment to new two-year terms of commissioners David Paoli and Leland Spencer, according to recreation director William A. Gordon.

At its meeting Monday, the commission approved purchase of a slide for Las Gallinas Park, at an estimated cost of $200, and a four-track slot car racing track for the community center for up to $125, Gordon reported.

The commission also authorized repair of chuckholes in the community center parking lot for $125 and voted to accept wood chips for park use from Boy Scout troop 64 of Marinwood, which will collect and mulch wood throughout the community in January.

Now under development by the U.S. Bureau of Mines is an incinerator that can burn 400 tons of refuse daily and generate 15,000 kilowatts of electrical power in the process.

LEGISLATURE IN REVIEW

The Special Session Brings Results Of 11 Months' Work

(EDITORS NOTE: The 1971 legislature met for a record-setting 11 months. This is the third in a series of articles examining what the lawmakers did and did not accomplish. It concerns taxes.)

By DENNIS J. OPATRNY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A special session of the Legislature accomplished in two days what the 1971 regular session failed to do in 11 months—approve payroll withholding of state income tax and balance the state budget.

The Legislature during its regular session also failed to pass any major tax reform program, although politicians of both parties have been promising property tax relief for years.

After bickering nearly a year on taxes, legislators adjourned the 1971 session without acting on withholding, which the governor said was needed to balance the budget.

Before they could complete clearing out their desks, Reagan called legislators back into special session to act on taxes.

In rapid succession during the second day of the special session, the Assembly and Senate passed a $501 million tax bill, including withholding to plug a $310 million budget deficit. Another $150 million will finance university and state college construction projects, buy parks and beach property and repair earthquake-threatened schools.

While major tax proposals languished and died, lawmakers did pass a bill exempting candy and chewing gum from the sales tax while imposing the same levy on take-out hot foods.

Sponsors of the hot foods tax said certain establishments—with chairs and tables—were required by the state Board of Equalization to collect the tax. But in shops with no chairs or tables, the tax was not collected. The bill will tax such items as fried chicken, pizza and fish and chips.

The net gain to the state between exempting candy and taxing take-out hot foods will be $16 million a year.

Proponents of rapid transit won a victory during the session with a bill to extend the 5 per cent sales tax to gasoline, beginning July 1.

The levy, which will hike the cost of gas about 2 cents a gallon, will generate $170 million annually, of which all but $3 million will go to counties. The $3 million will finance state transportation planning.

Roughly $130 million of the counties' money will be earmarked for public transportation and another $37 million may be used for any purpose.

Counties with populations exceeding 500,000—except San Bernardino—will be required to use their share of the money for some kind of transportation. Smaller counties can build roads with their funds.

Another bill passed subsequently earmarks $720,000 of the sales tax on gas to pay for bicycle paths constructed by the state.

Also hitting the driver's pocketbook is a bill increasing the cost of vehicle registration from 2 per cent of the car's market value to 2.65 per cent.

It is estimated to raise $76 million the first year—about $6 a car —with the funds funneled back to counties to help them in their financing problems.

A small tax increase will also be felt by drivers when they renew their licenses. A measure to print them in color calls for the price of a license to rise from $3 to $3.25 to pay for it.

Sportsmen will begin paying more as the lawmakers boosted hunting and fishing license fees for the first time in 13 years.

The cost of a hunting license will climb from $4 to $6 and the charge for a deer tag will go up from $2 to $3. Fishing licenses will be increased from $3 to $4. The overall cost from trout fishing will go up from $5 to $7.

Another bill passed and signed allows 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to be levied on the property taxpayer to finance earthquake-proofing of schools.

New Tennis 'System' Is Delayed

A reservation system to free Mill Valley's municipal tennis courts for use of city residents isn't needed until after the rainy season ends, Mill Valley's parks and recreation commissioners have decided.

The new system was to have been instituted immediately on weekends in order to free one tennis court for the exclusive use of residents, but commissioners voted Monday to delay the system until spring.

In the meantime, cards should be issued to residents, the commission decided, in order to avoid a rush when the new procedure is implemented.

Under the system, one court would be reserved for residents, and they would be required to pay $1 per hour for its use.

The commission's recommendations must be approved by the city council.

The panel also decided to prepare plans for planting a median strip between Miller and Presidio avenues near the Mill Valley Lumber Co. and to construct a curb there.

Neighbors have complained that the lumber company uses the strip while unloading supplies. The commission also requested cost estimates of the landscaping and curb work required.

Weaving, Musical Program At College

Music and a demonstration of hand loom weaving will be presented in the Darwin Hall foyer at Sonoma State College Friday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Willie Van Der Heyden will demonstrate the use of a color harp loom she designed especially for the college. Miss Van Der Heyden will also perform on the lute and sing French renaissance songs. Kirby Wilkinson will accompany her on the classical guitar.

Yule Lights Decorate Station's Antenna

A spokesman for the radio station said that if one of the nearly 80 feet of lights goes out, the rest will continue to shine, unlike many smaller strings of lights.

STILL, COSTLY PROBLEMS TO SOLVE

Few Ecological Gains Seen During '71

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) —One of the nation's foremost ecologists doesn't think there was much real improvement in depolluting the nation's environment in 1971 and he is not looking for miracles in 1972.

Dr. Barry Commoner, director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems at Washington University in St. Louis, and a member of the board of directors of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, put it this way:

GAINS ARE LOCAL

"I would say the main progress is being made in the area of local and state rules. The really serious action has been on those levels rather than on the federal level."

As an example he cited the ban on all detergents in some localities, and to a lesser degree the elimination of phosphate detergents in others.

"The fact thatone county stops the sales of detergents doesn't stop detergent pollution. But it does show that if they can perfectly well get along without detergents in Suffolk County (New York), why not elsewhere?

We must convert the whole industry back to soap."

Dr. Commoner said that the replacement of soap, a natural product, by detergents, a synthetic one, is typical of the impact of post-World War II technology. The result is that detergents produce pollution, while soap, attacked by decay bacteria, usually within a sewage treatment plant, emerges into the waterways as plain carbon dioxide and water.

Asked in an interview whether such local and state actions as banning detergents had a significant over-all impact on improving the environment, he said:

"No, there haven't been any significant environmental improvements, just isolated cases."

And as he sees 1972: "Nothing's going to happen overnight."

"I am definitely of the opinion that the Nixon Administration has turned away from its apparent commitment to environmental reform," Dr. Commoner said, pointing to the president's support of the SST and opposition to the new clean water bill.

ECONOMY FIRST?

"We have to do something about the environment, President Nixon seems to be saying, but we musn't touch the inviolable economic system. Well, we have Phase I and Phase II for the economy, why can't we have Phase I and Phase II for the environment?"

Until the nation acts, the problems will remain, he said, "and we no longer have the luxury of evading them if we are to survive. What I'm saying is that I know we haven't done what is needed if we are to survive."

Part of his view is dictated by the vastness of the project as he sees it.

HIGH COST SEEN

"My view is that very sweeping changes in the ways we use productive resources are needed and this will put quite a crimp in our economic system," he said. "Scientific method and technology are absolutely essential here. We must recognize the inherent faults in our present science and technology. I'm not antiscience, but science, is not something that was handed down in golden tables from a mountain. It is essential that scientists re-examine how they operate and the way in which they separate the disciplines.

"Our technology is fragmented and aimed at increasing productivity and profits, without taking into account resources and ecology. We need a renaissance in science and technology directing it toward human welfare."

As examples he cited studies being carried on at his school on the problem of rats, and the ecology of the dog in the city — both, as he put it, "coupling real problems in the real world with the best scientific knowledge available."

What he believes science and technology must eventually do is conduct an "ecological impact inventory for each productive activity, which will enable us to attach a sort of polution price tag to each product."

The inventory would cover, for instance, such items as the flip-top aluminum beer can which would carry a high ecological price tag, and the steel beer can, which would carry a much lower tag. Freight-hauled by rail, according to Dr. Commoner, is ecologically cheaper than that hauled by truck. Natural fibers carry a lower ecological price tag than synthetics.

"If pollution price tags become familiar to the public, the people would make judgments, say, on using a fliptop beer can," Dr. Commoner said. "I'm convinced that value judgments would be made by citizens of this country."

Ecologists, environmentalists and conservationists also need to work more effectively, according to Dr. Commoner, who is author of the book, "The Closing Circle" (Knopf).

"That's one reason why I wrote my book," he said, "to try to pull together the threads. Until now certainly it has been like the blind man and the elephant —with one group it's beer cans, with another polulation, with another birds in the woods.

"This (ecology) is a very comprehensive study and you must understand the relationship between your issue and the total picture. Some young people in environmental groups are doing that, setting priorities."

He does not, however, believe that scientists should hand down solutions, calling that "elitims," nor does he believe the President should issue orders ("I don't think a President would know what orders to issue"). Instead he believes the public should be presented with alternatives.

"The most important step is for our political leaders to undertake a great national debate on fundamental economic and ecological issues involved in production changes, because huge changes are necessary and they can't be made without debate.

"The issues must be raised in a serious way, brought squarely before the public and public discussion carried on to where there is a clear understanding of what the alternatives are. I hope we have the sense and political leadership to organize a vast overhaul.

"We must institute a great national debate to find proper solutions that the people are willing to support. The result would be more sweeping changes than the New Deal or Teddy Roosevelt and the Trusts. The hope I have is that, as people understand what is needed, it will emerge.

"We must mobilize the resources and the mass conscience of the country to face the issue."

One of the things that will be hardest to face is the cost. Dr. Commoner said:

"My guess is, we will have to spend $50 billion a year."

I-J SUBSCRIBER QUIZ

Survey Measures Favorite Reading

Independent-Journal readers who responded to a survey last month placed state news, international news and editorials at the top of the list of what draws their interest among regularly run features and stories in the paper.

(Those surveyed were not asked about their opinion of top interest local stories, such as the Golden Gate Bridge District's new bus system, Angela Davis, the August violence at San Quentin or the proposed location of the Renaissance Faire in Lucas Valley.)

The survey was made through questionaires which were distributed to two subscribers on each newsboy's route. Of the 1,600 forms distributed, 29 per cent were returned, considered a high response by the surveyer.

Those polled were asked to compare a list of randomly compared features and types of stories and to check in each case, which feature is read more frequently.

OTHER FAVORITES

After state and international news and editorials, the readers said they preferred "Names in the News," human interest features and letters to the editor followed by Marin Magazine cover stories, the weekly round-up of residential burglaries and reports of professional sports events and court proceedings.

Most popular columnist was Helen Bottel, who writes "Helen Help Us."

That the readers said they more frequently read reports of planning commission meetings than they do of the board of supervisors' meetings indicated to the surveyor that residents of a bedroom community are interested in events which will affect their property values and life style.

Three syndicated columns, "Bowling Tips, "Stars Above" and "Boating" were the least read, the survey indicated, but the surveyor noted that columns such as these often have an intensely loyal following of certain readers.

The poll indicated that I-J readers do not primarily read the features that staff members thought they did. In a poll of staff members, the television log, national news and stock market quotations were marked 1, 2 and 7.

TYPICAL READER

The readers' response suggested, the surveyor said, that readers depend on other sources such as "TV Guide," the Wall Street Journal and television for these types of information.

The profile of readers obtained from those who responded to the survey showed the typical respondents to be members of a highly stable upper middle class household.

Whether this was typical of I-J's actual readership was not known, the surveyor said.

The fact that most of those who returned the survey were not young persons may account for the low ranking of the comic page although the surveyor indicated it might also be due to a changing attitude toward comics or the particular selection of comics in the newspaper.

Officials at the I-J are weighing results of the survey for possible additional coverage in the future on certain types of features.

Hearing Set On Property

The Marin Community College District board will hold a public hearing today on an easement for a sidewalk and concurrence in the sale of gas station property for use in widening Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in Room 101 of the science center at the College of Marin in Kentfield.

Long opposed to widening the thoroughfare, the board gave in Dec. 9 after learning the board of supervisors had authorized a suit if the college board did not cooperate.

Jail, Probation Set For Heroin

William Perry Wolfe, 23, of San Rafael must serve nine months in jail and remain on three years supervised probation for possession of narcotics.

He was sentenced Monday in Marin Superior Court by Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Wolfe was originally charged with selling a gram of heroin to a narcotics agent last June 3. On Nov. 23, after negotiations with the district attorney, Wolfe pleaded guilty to narcotics possession, a lesser offense than sale of narcotics.

Christmas Stories, Song Program Set

A Christmas program of stories and songs for children will be presented by Kathy Sternberg of Novato from 10:30 to 11 a.m. next Tuesday in the children's room of the San Rafael Public Library, 1100 E Street.

Santa Claus is expected to visit the program.

Former Servant Denies Burglary

Bruce Damien Klopstock, 25, of 908 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, has pleaded innocent to a charge that he burglarized a Kentfield home Dec. 8.

Judge Robert A. Smallman on Monday ordered Klopstock to appear for a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court on Dec. 21.

Klopstock was arrested by sheriff's deputies at the home of Gilbert E. Atencio, 20 Hill Drive, Kentfield. Atencio told deputies he heard noises in his bedroom about 12:20 a.m. and caught Klopstock, his former houseboy, rummaging through the dresser.

Clausen Again Winner Of Conservative Award

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, has won another distinguished service award from the Americans for Constitutional Action.

Clausen, recipient of several of the annual awards by the conservative organization, was among 168 congressmen cited for "devotion to those fundamental principles of good government which serve to promote individual rights and responsibilities, a sound dollar, a growing economy and a desire for a strong national defense."

Thirteen of California's 38 congressmen received the awards, which also went to Reps. Barry M. Goldwater Jr., R-27th District; John G. Schmitz, R-35th District' and John H. Rousselot, R-24th District. Rousselot formerly headed national public relations for the John Birch Society, and Schmitz is a member of the society.

The American Music Conference reports there are millions of adults who used to play instruments.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Guess who was born today, Dec. 15, and became famous as:

1. The richest man in the world? Now 79 years old, this son of a wealthy oil operator took the advice of his father and multiplied his inheritance by shrewd investments into a fortune worth more than $1.2 billion: (A) H.L. Hunt; (B) Alfred P. Sloan, Jr.; (C) J. Paul Getty.

2. A Protestant religious educator? Completing his Ph.D. at the University of Iowa, he became head of the same college's School of Religion, besides producing innumerable tracts, plays, and articles, such as his "The Will to Believe": (A) Marcus Bach; (B) Norman Vincent Peale; (C) Billy Graham.

3. A successful American author? This University of Michigan graduate tried her hand at free lance writing in the 1930s and by 1943 had turned out one of the best sellers of her time, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn": (A) Mary Stewart; (B) Betty Smith; (C) Agatha Christie.

4. A talented Broadway playwright? Unhappy as a schoolteacher and journalist, he found his vocation in the theater, giving the stage such original drama as "What Price Glory" and "Anne of the Thousand Days" (A) Sherwood Anderson; (B) Maxwell Anderson; (C) Eddie Anderson.

ANSWERS

1-C (J. Paul Getty); 2-A (Marcus Bach); 3-B (Betty Smith); 4-B (Maxwell Anderson).

All Luck And No Thought Makes South Very Dull Boy

South thought he was lucky when he picked up 15 points in high cards. He was sure of it when his partner was strong enough to jump to game. And South was even surer when the opening lead gave him a free finesse. It didn't seem right for all this luck to addd up to a minus score.

LOW HEART

South played the low heart from dummy at the first trick, taking advantage of the lucky lead that gave him a free finesse. East won with the king of hearts and did some thinking about life and other such deep matters.

South obviously had the queen and jack of hearts, so there wasn't time to develop and run the hearts. Since spades offered the only sensible chance, East shifted to the deuce of spades.

Declarer won but had to let West in with a diamond in the process of developing nine tricks. West promptly led another spade, and East took three spade tricks to defeat the contract.

TOO MUCH LUCK

South went astray when he took advantage of the lucky opening lead. He should make sure of the contract by taking the ace of hearts at once. Declarer then develops the diamonds.

South is then sure of five diamonds, one heart and two club. If the defenders get active, they must develop a ninth trick for declarer in spades or hearts. If they defend passively, South can develop a second heart trick by himself and thus make sure of his game.

The obvious moral to this little tale is that a player who is blessed with high cards must play them correctly to make a plus score with them. There's another moral from East's point of view: Take full advantage of an opponent's errors and you don't need the preponderance of high cards.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A K 7 2
♥ - K 10 9 8 6 4
♣ - 6 5.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

The fine high-card structure and the six-card heart suit make this hand just barely worth an opening bid.

Masked Rider Attacks Mayor

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) — Mayor Charles Beatley was driving down the street to his city's annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony Monday night when he noticed a masked face in the back seat of his car.

Then he saw two paws. It was a racoon.

He left the animal in the car and decided to take it home after the ceremony was over But the racoon had other ideas and attacked the mayor, biting his fingers and arm.

It turned out the animal belonged to a neighbor, to whom it was returned—in a cage.

20-Year Term For Dope Trading

BANGKOK (UPI) — Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn Monday night summarily sentenced to 20 years in prison a man charged with possessing and trading in heroin, opium and morphine.

Thanom, who as chairman of the National Executive Council has promised a nationwide creackdown on crime, ordered the sentence for Chaiwaen Sae Mh, arrested Dec. 7.

Thanom's crackdown on crime followed the Nov. 17 coup which dissolved Parliament and imposed martial law throughout the kingdom.

Marin City Ridgeland Deal Is Radio Topic

The proposed exchange of title to choice ridgeland property above Marin City for flatland in the community will be discussed by a panel of four persons on radio station KTIM's Marin Sounding Board program at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Panelists will be Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency; Arthur Miller Jr., chairman of the housing authority board; Nesbit Crutchfield, director of Marin City Employment Service, and Thelma McKinney, a member of the Marin Human Rights Commission.

The redevelopment agency and its sister organization, the county housing authority, have agreed to release 167 acres of ridgeland to California Development Co. in exchange for title to flatland within Marin City.

That property is now held by California Development, which has failed to meet development commitments.

Residents, fearing that loss of the ridgeland would endanger community self-destiny hopes, have objected to the trade.

Questions may be phoned into the broadcast, according to moderator Kitty Oppenheimer. The program will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Heavy Trial Expense Bill Is Now Law

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation providing state reimbursement to counties for hugely expensive murder trials has been signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill, SB 1633 by Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding, will trigger state reimbursement when costs exceed the amount a county can raise with a property tax of 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Previous law provided the reimbursement for costs over the amount raised by a 10-cent property tax.

In Marin, that will mean the state will reimburse the county for all costs over $365,000 under the current assessed valuation.

The new law, however, will not apply to the trials of Angela Y. Davis and Ruchell Magee since they already are covered by a special new law, AB 644 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Bagley's bill, signed last month by the governor, will provide state reimbursement for almost half of some $1.5 million estimated as the cost of the two pending trials.

Marler's bill, of course, would apply to any future costly trials in Marin, but apparently does not cover as many security costs as Bagley's bill.

Marler introduced his bill after the arrest of accused mass slayer Juan Carona in Yuba City, which is in the senator's district.

Four Given Marijuana Sentences

Four men arrested in a marijuana raid in Santa Venetia one year ago have been sentenced to probation and county jail terms.

Kevin Sumner Orr, 20, of Ross — two years' supervised probation and county jail from Feb. 1 to June 15 of next year.

John Robert Oates, 21, of San Rafael — two years' supervised probation and six months in county jail.

James Steven Preston, 20, of San Anselmo — three years' supervised probation and county jail from Feb. 1 to June 15 of the next year.

John Russell Warne, 23, of Corte Madera — three years supervised probation and four months in county jail.

The four were arrested in December of 1970 and charged with possessing and selling marijuana.

On Nov. 8 this year, Oates, Preston and Warne pleaded guilty to selling marijuana, and Orr to possessing pot for sale.

Plunges To Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An unidentified woman plunged to her death Tuesday night from the 26th floor of a downtown hotel. Her body wound up on a first floor ledge.

Three Years' Supervised Probation

David Stuart King, 26, of Billings Mont., has been sentenced to three years' supervised probation for possession of hashish for sale two years ago.

He was sentenced Monday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court. The sentence is identical with the one meted out to King's partner in crime, Jeffrey David Wyard, 26, of Missoula, Mont., on Dec. 6.

They both pleaded guilty Nov. 1.

Narcotics agents arrested the pair at the Fountain Motel in Mill Valley on Dec. 16, 1969, and seized 50 pounds of hashish worth $134,000 and about $24,000 in cash.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales asked that both men be sentenced to state prison, but a probation report recommended probation on grounds that the men have been rehabilitated and are working steadily in responsible positions.

Recycling Revealed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The Ohio Department of Natural Resources announced today that it has begun using recycled paper. The announcement was printed on recycled paper.

Plea Set For Friday On Morals Charges

William Thomas Hutchings, 28, of 194 Central Avenue, Woodacre, is scheduled to plead Friday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of sex perversion and indecent exposure.

Hutchings was arrested Dec. 7 on a warrant charging him with committing perverted acts with a 13-year-old girl in San Anselmo on two occasions last March and exposing himself to an 11-year-old girl in San Rafael on Nov. 21.

Dick Tiger Dies At 42

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick Tiger, former middleweight and light heavyweight champion of the world, died in his home town of Aba, Nigeria Tuesday after a short illness according to a press officer of the Nigerian Mission to the United Nations. He was 42.

Dr. Harry Kleiman, who attended Tiger while he was hospitalized at the Polyclinic, said his patient was "a very sick man. He was being treated for a liver ailment. Our observation, both Dr. Gordon's (Donald) and mine was that Dick had developed cancer of the liver."

Tiger, who retired from the ring after his July 15, 1970 fight with Emile Griffith, had a career record of 61-17-3 with 26 knockouts.

He tried vainly to get other matches after the Griffith fight but he had to settle for a security officer's job at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Several months ago Tiger was admitted to the Polyclinic Hospital here to undergo observation and tests. He remained in the hospital a week and then left for Nigeria, apparently not a well man. He was said to have a liver ailment.

Tiger, a gentle man out of the ring but a fierce competitor once he laced up the gloves, came to fight in this country in 1959 and, under the tutilege of

Marin Tars Crush Napa Quint, 91-64

By RON LENT

E equals MC squared, or . . .

Elation equals Marin Cager Conquest. This offshoot of the Albert Einstein theory of relativity manifested last night in Kentfield when the host College of Marin Tars again dumped Napa College, 91-64.

Although the Tars could not divide atoms, they managed to master the Chiefs for the second time after beating them 86-42 in the college of Marin Invitational Saturday night. Despite the 27-point differential, winning coach John Panagakis was disappointed.

"We don't want to run. We've got to play pattern basketball. In the second half, we did that, and we held them to 21 points.

"That was the difference right there," he added.

After allowing the Napa quintet 43 points in the opening half, the Tars settled down to methodically dismantle the green and gold clad cagers.

The outstanding floor play of guards Joe Smith and Joe DeMaestri was instrumental in the Marin surge after intermission. The pair repeatedly pilfered Chief passes to break open a close, 52-43 score garnered after the first 20 minutes.

Forward Joe Casteel, an eventual ankle injury victim, began the second half pyroantics with a cross-under layup in widening the lead to 56-45. Smith followed with two more buckets and it was a 15-point disparity at 60-45.

Center Neil Traub, played perhaps his best game, batted in a missed shot and it was 66-50. On the ensuing sequence, Smith stole a pass and motored in for another layup.

Burdened by foul problems and a 19-point deficit, the visitors began emptying the bench. Eventually, the Tars returned the complement but not before Smith deposited three more field goals for a night's total of 22 points. His running mate DeMaestri accounted for 14, two more than Traub.

"Traub played very well," Panagakis enthused after watching his team increase its record to nine wins in 10 outings.

Napa — Johnson, 4-1-9; S. Bakker, 2-2-6; Dumont, 6-4-16; R. Bakker, 7-1-15; Miller, 7-4-18. Totals — 26-12-61.

MARIN — Casteel, 3-4-10; Herrnberger, 4-1-9; Green, 2-2-4; Smith, 10-2-22; De Maestri, 6-2-14; Traub, 4-4-12; Flynn, 1-0-2; Purcell, 3-0-6; Groshong, 2-0-4; Small, 2-1-5; Blasingame, 0-1-1. Totals — 37-17-91.

San Rafael Cagers Whip Armijo

Drake, San Marin Also Win Non-League Games

By LEW CODDINGTON

Bill Lechner dramatically seized control of a chaotic basketball game, scoring nine points in the decisive third quarter to lead San Rafael High School to a 48-40 victory over visiting Armijo High of Fairfield last night.

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Drake edged Montgomery at Santa Rosa on two free throws by Tom Carlisle with nine seconds left, 52-51; Terra Linda lost to Santa Rosa, 71-57; and San Marin swamped Healdsburg, 67-35.

San Rafael (4-3) was trailing by six points early in the third period when Lechner, a 6-foot-3 post man, went to work. First he passed to Doni Canfield to set up a successful jump shot.

Then, in rapid succession, he dropped in a layup, tipped in a shot, sank a free throw and scored a layup on a fast break. Presto — a 27-21 deficit had suddenly become a 30-27 lead.

Later, Lechner got two more tips and sank a shot off a rebound. He finished with 20 points, hitting nine of 15 shots from the field on a night that was marked by cold shooting for both teams.

"Bill has those good moves under the basket," said San Rafael coach Mike Diaz. "He's developing. We're still searching for the right starting five combination out there. I didn't start Bill tonight because I wanted him to come in and maybe fire things up a bit."

He certainly did that.

San Rafael shot 29 per cent, hitting 22 of 77 shots, which means the Bulldogs made only 21 per cent of shots Bill Lechner didn't take. Armijo was worse, 16 of 58.

San Rafael dominated the boards, 50-29, including an almost unbelievable 18 offensive rebounds in the first half. On several occasions, the Bulldogs got five or six consecutive shots and didn't make any.

Canfield added 12 points, and Wayne Lechner, Bill's brother, contributed eight, including two key layups late in the game. The Lechner brothers' height (Wayne is 6-5) was decisive against the smaller visitors. Bill got 12 rebounds and Wayne 10.

San Rafael's defense forced Armijo to go two and three minutes between field goals on several occasions. Although few fouls were called, it was a rough, slam-bang game on the part of both teams.

BILL LECHNER
Disarms Armijo

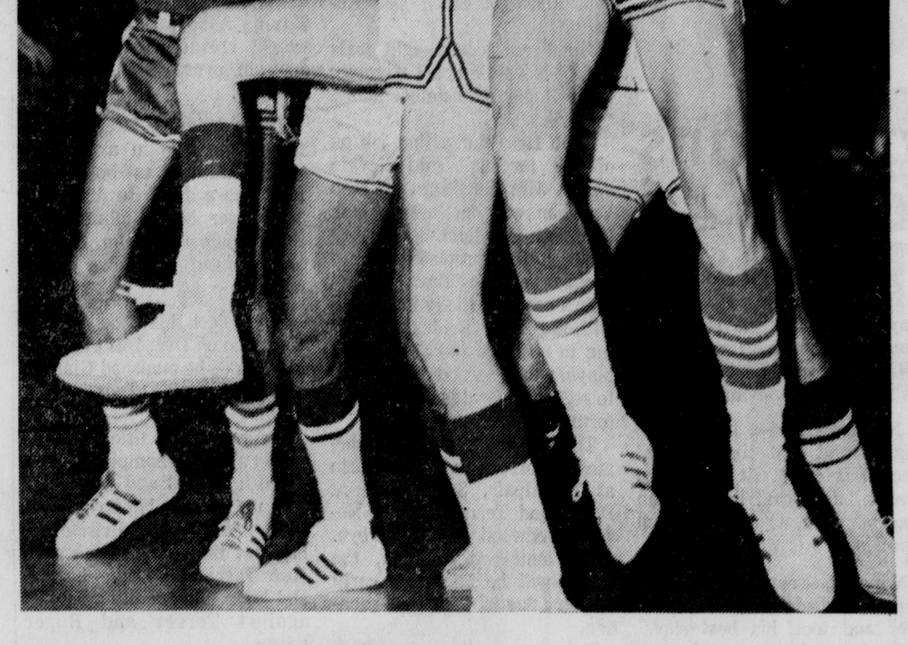
Drake High (4-4) welcomed two new players to its ever-growing "hero of the day" club against Montgomery. The Pirates trailed, 52-49, with about a minute left, but Dennis Daly sank two free throws to cut the gap and then Carlisle hit his game-winners.

Neither team ever led by more than four points. The key to the game was the Pirates' ability to break even on the boards with the taller hosts. As is becoming a habit, Drake used its bench effectively — ten players scored, and both Daly and Carlisle were substitutes.

Nobody hit double figures for Drake. John Channell and Daly had nine; Mark Daubenfeld, Phil Wilkinson and Jit Singh had eight. Channell and Daly each grabbed eight rebounds. Drake got 11 more foul shots than Montgomery, and although shooting worse from the line, made five more points.

San Marin (2-4) made 11 of 16 shots in the third quarter to sprint away from Healdsburg and break a three-game losing streak. Hoza Wright connected for 18 points and Fred Doar 11.

See PREPS, page 33



DANCING DUO — San Rafael's Mark McCarthy (glasses) and Armijo's Kent Abel twisted and cavorted in an effort to get in position for a rebound. Doni Canfield (32) of San Rafael and Lonnie Spencer (rear) of Armijo watched the dance. San Rafael won last night, 48-40.

Giants' Film Intrudes On Football Frenzy

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Here I am, right in the midst of a 49er drive for a championship, the excited voice of Lon Simmons filling my ears, but flashing before my eyes are images of Giants hitting baseballs and sliding into home plate. Giants? Baseball?

Sure enough. With the 49ers only five days away from their game against the Detroit Lions, a game in which victory would mean a division championship and a spot in the playoffs, I am seeing the likes of Willie Mays, Willie McCovey, Ken Henderson, and, of course, Gaylord Perry.

THEY, AND ALL the rest of the Giants are filling the screen in front of perhaps 150 guests of the Giants' organization. It's the press showing of, "More Flags to Follow," a Giants' film about the 1971 Western Division championship season, narrated by KSFO's Simmons. The film followed a luncheon yesterday in the El Dorado Room of the Jack Tar Hotel.

The picture had barely started when the image of Gaylord Perry dominated the scene. There he was, wiping away the perspiration, staring down for the sign, and then letting one go toward the plate. Had film makers Kenneth and Mark Allen known Perry would not be around for the 1972 season, it is doubtful he would have had such a starring role, although it was warranted by his contribution for the season.

There were some funny scenes, some errors and bad throws, but mostly it was a picture of plusses, as is expected of a promotional flick. The accompanying music had all the drama of a Darryl F. Zanuck production.

MOST OF THE film was taken on the field, much of the footage shot on the green-carpeted Candlestick Park playground. There was McCovey bashing home runs, Mays running the bases, Chris Speier making incredible plays, Bobby Bonds smacking a double, Alan Gallagher sliding into base on his belly, Dave Kingman hitting one of his pinch-hit home runs, Juan Marichal, Perry and Jerry Johnson pitching.

Some of the film took you off the field, for a stroll down the streets of Montreal, Canada; in the Giants' locker room in San Diego, the champagne flowing and splashing over the happy players who had just won the division title on the last day of the season.

Some of the stars of the show were sprinkled among the audience. There was manager Charlie Fox, also third base coach John McNamara, Tito Fuentes, Gallagher, Rich Robertson, Russ Gibson, Henderson, Steve Stone, Jim Barr, Don Carrithers, Jim Davenport and all the front office people from president Horace Stoneham on down.

FOX, CALLED UPON for a short talk, said, "It's great to watch all the good things of the season without all those frustrations in between."

Fox talked glowingly of the trade in which the Giants obtained lefthanded ace Sam McDowell from Cleveland for Perry. "We got a younger man from the American League and had to give up a fella we all liked. There is no doubt he'll be great for the Giants," he said about McDowell. Then he added, "We're still looking for another pitcher." He didn't say, but I suspect the whole Giants' organization has been scanning the want ads without much luck.

Well, anyway the film, "More Flags to Follow," will be available for group showings free of charge beginning next Monday. To book the film, interested groups should get in touch with the Giants' Film Library at Candlestick Park either by letter or phone.

Madden Questions Ref's Call

OAKLAND (UPI) —Did an official's boo-boo cost the Oakland Raiders a playoff shot?

John Madden believes so after viewing films of the 16-14 loss at Kansas City last Sunday, but he admits he can't be sure.

The play came when the Chiefs were backed up in a second and 10 situation on their own 7. Nemiah Wilson dived for the ball and either did or did not intercept. The officials called it an incomplete pass.

Then Len Dawson's completions to the great Otis Taylor and an interference call helped a 90-yard drive that wound up with a Jan Stenerud field goal to decide the issue.

"It sure looks like he caught the ball," Madden says after viewing films of Wilson's effort. "But the picture is from the press box angle and his back is to the camera so I can't be strong enough about it."

He adds though that "it was a judgment call, so there's nothing we can do about it now."

Madden also confirmed that all-pro cornerback Willie Brown broke his thumb during the second period and played the rest of the way with the injury.

The Raiders host Denver in the final game Sunday. The injury situation and the coach's wish to see some of his younger players mean that plenty of new faces will go for the Raiders.

G. Washington Guest Speaker

San Francisco 49er wide receiver Gene Washington will be guest speaker at tomorrow's meeting of the 49er Junior Minor Club at the Mill Valley Community Recreation Center, 180 Camino Alto.

Four tickets to the 49er-Detroit Lions game on Sunday will be given away, as well as an autographed football and club T-shirts.

A National Football League movie also will be shown. The club, which will meet at 7 p.m., is sponsored by the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department.

Hardman Working On Counterpunch

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Just as a fastball pitcher needs a good changeup, a hardcharging defensive lineup can use another move or two.

That's why the 49ers fine defensive end Cedrick Hardman says "I haven't been happy with my play in the last few games."

Hardman has reached the quarterback an amazing 16 times this season, but says that opposing lineman have recently been taking away his best move (a strong, quick thrust to the outside.)

"It's my fault and I know it. I've got to develop another good move, a counter to take advantage if they overplay me," said the second year man from North Texas State as he readied for Sunday's Candlestick Park crucial against Detroit.

Defensive coach Paul Wiggin agreed that "Cedrick has played fine football, but he's right about the moves. Every great defensive lineman has to have two good ones—one to force an overplay and the other to take advantage of it."

Wiggin said he and Hardman were working on a new one, but declined to discuss it.

Meanwhile, Greg Landry of Detroit warned the 49ers that his Lions planned to knock the 49ers out of the playoff. San Francisco can automatically qualify if they beat the Lions.

"There could be some natural letdown, but most of us will be up for San Francisco," he promised. The Lions are 7-5-1 and last week were mathematically knocked out of the playoffs.

NBA ROUNDUP

He's Still Learning; Lakers Win No. 22

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Elmore Smith is only in his fourth year of competitive basketball and has a lot to learn. The Philadelphia 76ers, however, think the 7-foot Buffalo Braves' center is grasping the fundamentals too quickly.

Smith scored 23 points, grabbed 22 rebounds and blocked 10 shots Tuesday night as Buffalo posted its first victory over Philadelphia since entering the league. The 117-110 decision kept the 76ers from gaining ground in the Atlantic Division.

"I've got a lot to learn about playing offense," Smith admits, although he did hit on 11-of-17 floor shots. Smith was never a regular in high school and became a starter for the first time as a Kentucky State sophomore.

"Elmore has always been good defensively," says Buffalo Coach Johnny McCarthy. "He blocked 11 shots in one other game this season. He'll develop into a top offensive player because he's got all the shots. He just hasn't played enough basketball."

Walt Hazzard led Buffalo with 26 points, while Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia posted a game high 29. Hal Greer scored 17 for the 76ers, giving him a career total of 20,883 to move ahead of Bob Pettit into fifth place on the all-time NBA scoring list.

Los Angeles won its 22nd consecutive game by beating Portland 129-114, Milwaukee topped Houston 106-98, Boston clipped Chicago 116-08, Phoenix stopped New York 110-100, Seattle clobbered Detroit 103-86 and Cleveland downed Baltimore 88-85.

Limantour Fishing Is Banned

Fishing will be banned in Limantour Bay and 1,000 feet offshore of Point Reyes from Chimney Rock to the Point Reyes Lighthouse, effective next March 1.

The ban was part of a series of new regulations enacted by the California State Fish and Game Commission last Friday in Sacramento.

It goes only part way to meet an effort by the National Park Service, backed by Sen. Alan Cranston, to outlaw fishing in all waters of Point Reyes National Seashore.

"The commission didn't feel it was necessary to outlaw fishing entirely to preserve nature in the national seashore," Leslie F. Edgerton, its executive secretary, told the Independent-Journal.

One sort of fishing was outlawed along the entire Point Reyes National Seashore coast for 1,000 feet out to sea, however: the taking of marine animals by scooping out the water.

Edgerton said this ban was aimed primarily at "school children who come with buckets and capture the small marine animals." It does not apply to sport fish, he emphasized.

Edgerton said about 200 people attended the commission meeting Friday, many of whom were interested in the Point Reyes regulations.

The National Park Service had asked that all Point Reyes waters be closed. The commission's decision was a compromise, Edgerton indicated.

"About four landowners" opposed the closing, he said. "The Sierra Club and that type all showed up in support of it."

Questioned as to whether pressure for closing had been brought by California's two senators, Edgerton said Senator Cranston had written supporting the National Park Service position, but Sen. John V. Tun-

WATER POLO

Trojans Regain Top Spot

Terra Linda's tight team defense was again the determining factor as the Trojans regained undisputed first place in the Marin County Athletic League water polo race with a 10-2 victory over Tamalpais yesterday.

Novato knocked San Rafael out of a first-place tie with a 14-8 upset triumph, but San Rafael protested the game. Redwood defeated Drake, 11-3, and San Marin was idle as the first half of the 12-game season concluded.

"Our key is defense," said Terra Linda coach Charles Metz, whose team has a 5-1 record. San Rafael, Novato and Redwood are deadlocked for second at 4-2.

"It's hard to single out any individuals, but Ted Gazulis, Keith Strange and Todd Gulich did very well."

Jon Fearn scored four goals and reliable Fred Turkheimer added three for Terra Linda.

"Bob Hess did a fine job on offense for us," said Novato coach Jim Settlage. "Brian Vaughan was outstanding both onoffense and defense."

San Rafael protested on two grounds, alleging first that Novato's coach verbally interfered with the game by illegally talking to officials and San Rafael players and second that Novato's goal apparatus did not conform to regulation.

The second round-robin begins tomorrow, with San Marin at Tamalpais, San Rafael at Drake and Terra Linda at Novato. Redwood draws the bye. After tomorrow's action, the teams will be idle until early January due to Christmas vacation.

The standings:

Terra Linda 5-1, Novato 4-2*, Redwood 4-2, San Rafael 4-2*, San Marin 3-3, Tamalpais 1-5, Drake 0-6.

trainer Jersey Jones, fought his way to the middleweight title.

On Oct. 23, 1962, in San Francisco, Tiger captured the World Boxing Association's middleweight crown with a 15-round decision over champion Gene Fullmer.

Three months later he retained the title in a rematch with Fullmer as both men fought to a draw. In August of 1963 Tiger beat Fullmer to a bloody pulp in Ibadan, Nigeria and stopped him after seven rounds.

Tiger lost his title to Joe Giardello on Dec. 7 of that year but in 1965 he punished Giardello over 15 rounds to win it back.

Tiger lost his title again to welterweight champion Emile Griffith in 1966 and decided to step up with the big boys in the light heavyweight division. In his first title try he decisioned Jose Torres on Dec. 16, 1966, and later successfully defended against Torres and Roger Rouse.

But on May 24, 1968 Tiger was knocked out for the first and only time in his career by Bob Foster in the fourth round and relinquished the light heavyweight crown.

Oregon State Combines Men's, Women's Phys. Ed.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

CORVALLIS, Ore. — Oregon State University has created a unisex physical education department with a woman as its head.

School officials said yesterday the departments of men's and women's physical education had been combined and Dr. Charlotte L. Lambert named head of the combined department. Former men's department head Arnold W. Flath will serve as assistant director.

School spokesman James W. Long said "all professional physical education courses will be open to both men and women students, except when considered physiologically unsuitable, and will be taught by qualified instructors regardless of sex."

But Dr. Long said that the remodeled PE buildings still provided separate locker and shower facilities for men and women.

Tennis

LOS ANGELES — A $108,000 suit was filed in Superior Court yesterday against the Southern California Tennis Association and Pepsico Inc. by professionals Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals.

Mrs. King demanded the tournament replace an official after she bitterly protested a call. When the official was not replaced, the finalists left the court. Their prize money of $4,000 was withheld.

Mrs. King and Miss Casals, in their suit, complained that the tournament had not provided "trained and competent referees."

In their action, the pair asked for $4,000 in prize money, and $50,000 apiece in general damages.

MEXICAN-AMERICANS CHEER

Gala Night For Fight Fans

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)— It was a gala night Tuesday for 14,713 fight fans, most of them Mexican-Americans, when their favorites, welterweight champion Jose Napoles and bantamweight king Ruben Olivares, successfully defended their titles.

But it was a sad night for banty challenger Jesus Pimentel, who at 31 ended his professional boxing career by losing to Olivares on an 11th round knockout.

Napoles, 31, a Cuban-born resident of Mexico City, scored a unanimous but fairly close decision over Hedgemon Lewis, 25, of Hollywood, in the first championship fight at the Forum.

The gross gate for the extravaganza promoted by George Parnassus was $255,585. Parnassus picked up another $100,000 for ancillary rights— closed circuit television and radio to Latin America. The champions were each guaranteed $90,000 and the challengers $25,000 for a total of $230,000.

Pimentel, the perennial no. 1 banty contender, ended his career with a record of 78-7—85 fights, and he knocked out 72 opponents.

"Father time—you just can't beat him," he said in his dressing room. "Olivares is a great champion."

Now a resident of Mexicali, Mexico, Pimentag has a ranch near El Centro, Calif., and will retire there.

He gave it his best shot but in the words of his manager, Harry Kabakoff, "Jesus fell apart in the seventh and eighth rounds."

Olivares, 23, who has lost only one fight and won 66, chose to slug with Pimental for the first four rounds. He had knocked out 62 foes so his manager, Eddie Futch, told him to try to take Pimentel early.

It was a mistake. Slugging toe-to-toe, Olivares came out of an exchange in the third round with blood streaming from a cut on the left side of his head. He said he got butted.

In the fourth round, Pimentel caught Olivares with a right, flush on the chin. The champion's knees buckled but he did not go down.

After that he stood off and bombarded Pimentdl with lefts to the head and rights to the body, then closing in.

In the sixth round, Olivares had Pimentel on the run with a hard right to the body, caught him with two left hooks to the side of the head; then dumped him through the ropes with a straight right to the chin.

Pimentel sat on the apron for the count of six, climbed back into the ring, took the mandatory eight-count and then went winging after the champion again.

Pimentel kept coming and Olivares kept pounding him from then on.

In the 11th, Kabakoff stepped into the ring before the round was over, motioned Pimentel to his corner and pointed a finger at the champion and said, "Ruben, you're the winner."

Referee George Latka called it an 11th round kayo since there is no provision for a technical knockout under California rules.

Latka had Olivares ahead 8-1, judge Lee Grossman 9-3 and judge John Thomas 9-2.

In the dressing room, Kabakoff said, "Jesus will never fight again. Five years ago he would have knocked this guy out."

Olivares didn't argue. All he said was, "Pimentel has a lot of courage—guts."

The Napoles-Lewis match was not as well received by the fans as the windup.

The Latinos kept rooting for Napoles to make Lewis his 47th kayo victim but the champion got arm weary and Lewis was a difficult moving target, dancing as Napoles was advancing.

Napoles, 145 1-4, has won 66 fights and lost five. Lewis' record is 40-4-1. At 144 3-4 he was a half pound lighter than the champion, who looked much stronger.

Napoles, from the start, bored in disdainful of Lewis' fists and took his best shots without too much trouble except in the 12th round. Lewis caught him with a right to the chin with 10 seconds to go. Napoles staggered but recovered quickly.

Referee Larry Rozadilla had it 8-6 for Napoles. Latka, a judge in the first fight, gave Napoles a five-point margin, 94. The other judge, John Thomas, scored it 8-7 for Napoles.

If we've said it once, we've said it 176 happy holidays.

Salmon Not Using Nicasio

Nicasio Creek in west Marin will not be a return route for silver salmon this year, but the fish will find another way to spawning grounds, an official of the Department of Fish and Game assured the Independent-Journal yesterday.

Silver salmon, returning from their three-year stay in the Pacific Ocean, normally enter Marin County through the tidewaters of Paper Mill Creek and then head upstream, some branching off to Nicasio Creek and others staying on Paper Mill Creek until it winds its way through Samuel P. Taylor State Park and the eventual spawning grounds.

The fish that headed up Nicasio Creek — the creek's flow aided by releases from Nicasio Reservoir — would get as far as a trap, where a Department of Fish and Game employee would put them in a tank truck, transport them to the other side of the reservoir and release in the small creeks upstream.

Many of the newborn salmon were lost later when the spring rains came, sometimes washing out the traps upstream from the reservoir. The department decided to curtail the Nicasio Creek spawning because of "continual diminishing returns," according to Eldon Vestal, fisheries management supervisor for the Department of Fish and Game's Yountville office.

Water will not be released from the reservoir this year, so salmon shouldn't be attracted by that tributary, according to Vestal.

"The returning salmon will instead go up Paper Mill Creek," said Vestal.

Nicasio Creek's fish trap will be kept in working order to serve as a backup for the department's traps on the Noya River in Mendocino County, the department's principle source of silver salmon stock.

Marin Municipal Water District provides funds to the Department of Fish and Game to pay for stocking of fish in streams cut off by the district's dams. There is $5,800 earmarked for the purchase and planting of 40,000 silver salmon and 5,000 steelhead yearlings (about 4 or 5 inches long) in Paper Mill Creek next spring. These fish will head out for the ocean to live, returning to spawn and die three years later. Because of commercial fishing and natural obstacles, a five per cent return of these fish as adults is considered good.

The Christmas Rush Hits High School Basketballers

The Christmas rush is here.

With the last full weekend before the Christmas holidays coming up, all eight Marin County Athletic League basketball teams will be in action, four in single games Friday night and four in tournaments running tomorrow through Saturday.

Redwood (6-0) makes the long trek north to play in the Yuba City tournament. Tamalpais (4-2) makes the short trip south for the El Camino tournament in South San Francisco. Marin Catholic (3-3) and Novato (3-4) make a joint journey to Santa Rosa for the Rose City tournament.

Friday night's games find Drake (4-4) hosting Hogan of Vallejo, 6:45; Terra Linda (3-5) entertaining Harry Ells of Richmond, 8; San Rafael (4-3) greeting Vallejo, 8; and San Marin (2-4) travelling to Crockett to play John Swett, 8:15.

The Vallejo-San Rafael game will mark the first meeting between San Rafael star Doni Canfield and his former teammates. Canfield scored 29 points for Vallejo against San Rafael last year before his family moved to Marin County.

Vallejo is considered one of the better teams in the North Bay League, although the Apaches were upset by Drake earlier this year. San Rafael, struggling for the right starting combination, was cheered by the emergence of Bill Lechner as a scoring threat last night. He scored 20 against Armijo of Fairfield.

Drake apparently is determined to make this season interesting. Five of the Pirates' eight games have been decided by five points or less, including the last three contests.

Hogan of Vallejo, Drake's foe, has met one Marin County opponent so far. Terra Linda defeated the Spartans, 70-51, and Drake is similar to Terra Linda in many ways — small, quick, aggressive, with a hard-working bench.

San Marin, fresh from an ego-boasting victory over Healdsburg, may finally have hit its stride. The Mustangs got scoring production from 11 players in their last outing, with Hoza Wright and Fred Doar hitting double figures.

Terra Linda is in the throes of a three-game losing streak, the result of running into too many tough teams at once. The Trojans have lost to regional powers Petaluma and Santa Rosa and caught a hot Novato team in the Drake Tournament.

Marin Catholic and Novato may collide again in Santa Rosa. Novato won the meeting in the Drake Invitational by 22 points, but the Wildcats did an abrupt about-face, whipped two foes, and now look for revenge.

In first-round play, Marin Catholic meets Montgomery of Santa Rosa at 8 p.m. tomorrow, and Novato faces Cardinal Newman, also of Santa Rosa, at 9:30. Winners clash in Friday's semifinals.

Newman has a strong team, but Marin Catholic almost won an earlier clash, slicing a 21-point deficit to one and finally losing by three. Conversely, Novato played Montgomery earlier, also losing by three. Believers in comparative scores can have a field day trying to analyze those.

Redwood, fresh from a tournament victory at Riordan High in San Francisco, plays Marysville at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Yuba City. The unbeaten Giants have been getting high-scoring, error-free play lately from their fine guards, Mike Connor and Sam Farb.

ney had not entered the controversy.

Edgerton said three hearings had been held on the new regulations: in Los Angeles, San Diego and (at Friday's meeting) Sacramento.

He said the Fish and Game Commission is required by law to adopt all new regulations in December of each year, and to hold hearings at Los Angeles and Sacramento, and in alternate years, at either Los Angeles or Redding. It has no authority to schedule its hearings closer to the affected areas, he said.

PREPS

"We finally put it all together," said coach Andy Frauenhofer, back from a bout with the flu. "Good shooting, good rebounding, good team play." San Marin shot 47 per cent on 25 of 43 shots.

Terra Linda fell victim to Santa Rosa's slick Allen brothers, Chris and Tom, who combined for 43 points. Twelve-point efforts by Brian Wall and Mark Lowey could not offset the splurge.

In junior varsity play, San Rafael smashed Armijo, 58-40; Drake battered Montgomery, 72-43; and San Marin lost to Healdsburg, 65-50.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Moored, Anchored Differences Noted

A lot of boaters still like to use old salty expressions, and if you're a purist at the nautical jargon you'll recognize the difference between being "anchored" and being "moored at anchor."

The difference is pretty subtle, but this is it: You're "anchored" if you merely use an anchor, or two anchors, at the bow, or stern, so that a boat is able to swing through a full circle — 360 degrees. But the original meaning of being "moored at anchor" indicated that two anchors were being used, one at the bow and the other at the stern, so that the craft couldn't swing, but kept the same heading.

Being anchored means that a craft is prevented from drifting, but being moored at anchor means that a craft's position is fixed.

It's being a little too precise to use such expressions these days, because it's likely nobody would know what you meant. But many boaters like the old jargon, and I've heard anglers who have never seen the sea, boating on an inland lake that never existed before the Corps of Engineers built a dam, refer to "port" and "starboard" rather than left and right.

Mooring, or tying up a boat, either power or sail, is done by mooring lines. The lines are made fast to cleats or bitts. Large ships tie up to bollards, which are just larger versions of bitts.

However, there's much more to securing a boat or handling one in mooring procedures than merely knowing some of the terminology, as many of the questions we've been asked this past summer indicate.

Q. I'm told synthetic ropes such as nylon are best for anchoring. Is this so?

A. Very much so. Nylon is unquestionably the best because of its elasticity. It has springiness not found in natural fiber ropes such as manila, hemp or sisal, or in other synthetics such as dacron or polyethylene. However these elastic qualities aren't desirable where the rope must not stretch as in such applications as sheets and halliards on sailing craft.

Q. What's a fairlead?

A. It's a hole or conduit for a chain or rope on a boat. In pleasure boating we generally call them chocks.

Q. My boat broke away from it's mooring and almost hit a million-dollar luxury craft. The rope broke under the strain. Would I have been to blame if damage had resulted?

A. Every precedent in admiralty law says that the owner is responsible for the damage his boat does. If the rope broke, it's your fault. You should have had a tougher mooring line.

Q. Is it compulsory to carry an anchor on inland waters?

A. This is a matter of state law. More and more states are legislating amendments to their boating laws requiring pleasure craft (usually those over 26 feet) to carry an anchor and 50 feet of anchor line or chain. Check your state boating law.

Q. What is considered good practice in the way of anchors and line on a medium (28-foot) cruising boat.

A. Most safety agencies would suggest TWO anchors both capable of holding the boat in rough weather and 200 feet of line, chain or cable. One anchor and 50 feet of line is the suggested minimum for boats between 16 and 26 feet.

Q. I was towing a light sailboat to dock and yanked all the hardware off its decks. Is there a safe way to tow?

A. Cleats that are intended merely for tying up won't stand the strain of towing. The thing to do is to pass a rope right around the boat to be towed in a loop or bridle, then pull on it. The rope may be supported by light ties at various points around the boat.

Q. Where I park my boat there is constant wave action from passing boats and the wear on lines and fenders is terrible. Any suggestions?

A. For lines use dacron or nylon. These materials resist abrasion better than others. Also try "chafing gear." Put short lengths of old rubber hose around the mooring lines at points of wear. For fenders or bumpers try the kind that slide freely on the tie rope.

Q. Coming downwind in a sailboat to dock, is there a proper sequence in taking in sail?

A. It's a must — lower the aft sails first. Keep jib up to provide steerage, but drop it well before touching the dock and coast in. Don't try coming downwind until you have been shown how by an expert. It can be a dangerous maneuver if there is much wind. Better to pick a landing where you can come in up-wind. You have better control and can stop faster.

Seattle's Cage Debut Is Success

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Seattle had made its debut in the West Coast Athletic Conference basketball league a resounding success.

The Chiefs called on St. Mary's Tuesday night for their first-ever WCAC game and also the first conference game of the season and emerged with an 111-88 win over the Gaels.

Chico State got a career high of 38 points from Rich Nelson in disposing of Dominguez Hills 94-69.

Warriors Hope To Snap Pair Of Cage Streaks

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors wouldn't mind breaking a couple of streaks this week.

For starters, they would like to snap their own six-game loss skein when they host Philadelphia Thursday night at the Coliseum Arena.

Then they journey Friday night to Inglewood to play the Lakers and will try to snap the 22-game win streak of Los Angeles, longest in NBA history.

NFL Playoffs On Dec. 25-26

The post-season play begins Christmas Day, 10 a.m., Pacific Standard Time. Minnesota, the National Football Conference Central Division champion, will host the NFC Eastern king, either Dallas or Washington.

At 1 p.m., the American Football Conference Eastern Division ruler, Baltimore or Miami, visits Kansas City, the AFC's Western champ.

On Sunday, Dec. 26, the AFC Central kings, Cleveland, entertain the AFC's fourth qualifier, Baltimore or Miami.

Los Angeles or San Francisco, the NFC Western champions, play the NFC's fourth qualifier, either Dallas or Washington. The Western champs will host the game at 1 p.m.

Although the playoff situation remains in flux going into the season finales, this weekend, the races will be decided by Sunday night.

For example, Dallas can clinch the NFC Eastern title and a shot at Minnesota with a win Saturday over St. Louis. If the front-running Cowboys lose and Washington defeats Pittsburgh Sunday, the Redskins, not the Cowboys will trek to Minnesota. Should both Dallas and Washington triumph in the regular season curtain closers, Dallas would face Minnesota, while Washington travels to either Los Angeles or San Francisco.

The muddled West Coast situaiton will be clarified Sunday. Should the San Francisco 49ers defeat visiting Detroit, the prospectors will entertain the fourth qualifier.

If the Rams win and the 49ers lose, the Los Angeles contingent will take the San Franciscans' place in the playoffs. Should the Rams drop the finale Sunday to the Steelers in Pittsburgh and the 49ers falter against Detroit, San Francisco would be in.

Like the NFC's Western Division plight, the AFC Eastern Division heads into the last week without a king. Although Baltimore leads runnerup Miami by a half-game, the Dolphins could cop the crown by defeating visiting Green Bay, while New England upsets Baltimore.

Goaltending Renews Seals' Playoff Hopes

OAKLAND (UPI) —Now that the California Golden Seals are getting a little goaltending, they may wind up in the National Hockey League playoffs yet.

The Seals have given up a league high of 124 goals in 31 games this season, worst goals-against average in the league.

But after an opening seven-game homestand that produced two ties and five losses, the Seals gave up on Gary Kurt.

But veteran Lyle Carter and rookie Gilles Maloche have turned things around a bit and Meloche is exceptional in that he seems to have the number of mighty Boston.

The Seals hope their goalie tandem will keep up the good work when Detroit comes to call Friday.

Ted Williams Talks About Improvement

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Ted Williams, making his first trip to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, thinks the Texas Rangers of 1972 will be considerably improved over the Washington Senators of 1971.

William, in his fourth year as manager of the ball club, said players like slugger Frank Howard and pitcher Denny McLain are going to have to make certain concessions but overall the team should have a better record because they will be playing in a new division and a new ballpark.

Williams, the last major leaguer to hit over .400 in a season, stood on the second deck of Turnpike Stadium, glanced out to the short fences and said:

"I think the ball park really looks like it's going to be a fine ball park."

Williams said Tuesday he has been trying to find out whether the park, the former home of a minor league baseball team, favors right hand hitters or left hand hitters.

"Despite the fact therearen't that many home runs hit on the minor league level there's going to be a lot more hit on the major league level," Williams said Tuesday.

But Williams said he still would not hesitate to trade for one of his sluggers if he could get a good quality younger ballplayer.

"You're certainly going to have to have a balanced attack on your club," he said. "As of now Howard and Don Mincher are our two power hitters — No. 1 and 2, right and left, as far as power is concerned.

Williams said the club should be improved because of the development of younger players who will pressure the veterans of the team. He said the team's record will improve because the team was switched from the east to the west division "and we won't have to see Baltimore as much."

He said Oakland will still be the team to beat in the American League West.

"Oakland really helped themselves with their trade," he said. "Any time you get an outstanding pitcher (Ken Holtzman) and someone to replace the real good ballplayer you give up (Rick Monday) I have to feel they strengthened themselves."

Red Wings, Leafs In Hockey Victories

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Delvecchio, who reached his 40th birthday a little more than a week ago, assisted on all four goals Tuesday night as the Detroit Red Wings beat the Vancouver Canucks 4-3.

The veteran center, a Red Wing since 1950, assisted on a pair of second period goals by Mickey Redmond and set up third period scores by Al Karlander and Gary Bergman. Karlander, Delvecchio's linemate, finished with a goal and three assists.

In the only other National Hockey League game, Ron Ellis, Dave Keon, Paul Henderson and Jim Harrison all chipped in with goals as the Toronto Maple Leafs downed the St. Louis Blues 4-2. Ellis, Harrison and Keon connected in the first period and Henderson in the middle period as the Leafs handed St. Louis its first loss at home this season.

Andre DuPont and Terry Crisp scored for the Blues.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, CPA

Some More Tips On Switching Income And Deductions To 1972

Here's some more information on switching income and deductions from 1971 to 1972.

If we postpone income to 1972, we can use the tax money for an extra year.

On capital gains the long term capital gains alternative tax rate is increased in three annual steps; for taxable years beginning in 1971, it is 32.5 per cent. Actually the alternative tax will not exist after 1972 and thereafter. But, the effect of the 50 per cent capital gains deduction and the maximum 70 per cent rate for individuals makes a maximum 35 per cent on long term capital gains.

If your total gains are no more than $50,000, ($25,000. in the case of a married person filing a separate return) the old capital gains maximum rate of 25 per cent continues to apply. But, if your net capital gains is going to be in excess of $50,000 then it might be to your advantage to take that gain in 1971 rather than pay the higher maximum tax that will apply in 1972.

Here are some possible transactions for tax savings in 1971.

If you are an investor in the stock market and you have a large gain that you would like to nail down but don't want to pay the tax this year you might consider going short against the box.

SHORT STOCKS

This is a technique for selling the stock short and replacing it with a stock you own at a later date. Your broker can help you on this.

If you have a big loss which you would like to take this year but you would like to keep the stock, you might consider saving your tax loss by buying a convertible in the same company, if the company has a convertible. Check this with your broker.

Suppose you have a gain on a stock purchased June 15, and you would like to be sure your gain is long term, be sure that you don't sell before tomorrow. You have to hold for six months and one day, otherwise your gain will be short term.

Suppose you have long term gain on a stock you want to sell but it is about due to pay a dividend, should you wait and collect the dividend?

SELL IT NOW

Don't wait, sell it now. It will probably decline in value the amount of the dividend right after the dividend is paid and the dividend would be taxed as ordinary income; but if you get it as an additional price of your stock it would be taxed as long term capital gains.

If you have some big losses and you would like to get out of the market but you don't want to write off only $1,000 a year of losses against other income, one thing you can do is to sell the stocks and take the losses and immediately buy bonds which are selling at a discount.

When the bonds mature you get capital gains and you have carried over your capital losses which would offset them. This could help with your capital loss situation.

Now is a time to look over your deductions and pay them before the end of the year if you want the deductions this year.

That would be your charitable contributions, your interest, deductible taxes, medical expenses, etc.

Quarterly Profit

BEVERLY HILLS (BW) — Tassaway Inc. has reported that for the three months ended Oct. 31, the company had total revenues of $940,102 (including $500,000 licensing fee for England, Scotland, Wales, Northern Ireland and Eire), which resulted in a net profit for the period of $53,000. For the like period last year, revenues totaled $130,000, resulting in a loss for that period of $120,000.

Tassaway showed total revenues of $1,136,324 resulting in a loss of $380,993 for the first half of its fiscal year. This compares to total revenues of $269,412 which resulted in a loss of $401,518 for the like period last year, according to Robert P. Oreck, president of the company which manufactures and distributes a unique, disposable menstrual protection product.

Dividend Rate Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Directors of American Building Maintenance Industries increased the dividend rate on the company's common stock from 24 to 25 cents on an annual basis, the maximum increase allowable by price control regulations. The increased quarterly dividend of 6¼ cents was declared for payment Jan. 31 to shareholders of record at the close of business on Jan. 14.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Special Windows Aid Trade At Mill Valley Bank Branch

Remodeling recently completed at Wells Fargo Bank's Mill Valley office at 18 Miller Avenue includes an exterior walk-up teller window and a special inside teller window for Mill Valley merchants.

Branch manager John P. McNamara hopes that this eventually will lead to most single transactions being handled at the exterior facility and merchants and multiple transaction customers inside.

New wall to wall carpeting has also been installed on the main banking floor.

SIDNEY A. RUDD of Larkspur has been elected executive vice president and a director of Kingswell Bros., Ltd. of San Francisco, a manufacturer and distributor of bronze bearings and bearing metals which has been in business since 1855. It is said to be the largest manufacturer of bearings in the United States. Rudd will also continue as controller of the company.

Rudd Presber

PHILIP C. PRESBER of Belvedere has been elected vice president of URS Systems Corp., urban and environmental planning and design firm. A financial analyst, he joined URS last year as director of operations analysis. He was formerly assistant vice president of Eaton and Howard, Inc., a Boston-based investment management company.

PAUL W. CANE of Greenbrae, manager of public relations at Bechtel Corp., has been elected president of the San Francisco Bay Area chapter of the Public Relations Society of America.

Cane Sill

BEVERLY A. SILL, assistant vice president and manager of the Corte Madera office of Crocker Bank, has been elected president of the Marin County Clearing House Association.

Joseph Martino, vice president and manager of the San Rafael office of Wells Fargo Bank, is the association's new vice president. Reinhold F. Bergstrom, manager of Security Pacific National Bank's San Rafael office, was elected secretary-treasurer.

A ONE-DAY WORKSHOP for prospective owners and managers will be held next Monday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Federal Building, Room 15018, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco. It will cover business organization, marketing strategy, financial planning, legal questions, insurance business taxes and record-keeping.

Attendance (no fee) is by advance registration with the office of the Small Business Administration, San Francisco.

REAL ESTATE: Annual listing contest of Home and Land Co. resulted in the listing of over 60 properties with a total value of $3.3 million. Winner William Nelson gets a 10-day all-expense-paid trip for two to Hawaii. The company has increased its sales volume by 65 per cent over last year . . . Frank Howard Allen and Co. is projecting Marin County multiple listing sales of over $105 million for this year — and predicting an even better record for 1972 — $115 million.

Wall Street Feels Profit Taking Drag

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks were mixed in moderate trading after about two hours today.

Analysts noted that despite a general feeling of optimism in the financial community, profit taking dragged down selected specialty issues that had been in higher gear since Thanksgiving.

Recently monetary news was regarded as bullish for stocks, but many traders were awaiting developments at the forthcoming monetary negotiations in Washington between the United States and its major trading partners.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were STP Corp. down more than a point on over 20,000 shares, Syntex fractionally lower on 16,500 shares, and Teleprompter down slightly on around 15,000 shares.

On the Big Board, steels and motors were fractionally mixed. So were chemicals, airlines and aircrafts.

Gold mining stocks backtracked, with Dome Mines the weakest in the group. It lost a point.

Corning Glass fell around 3, but IBM and Zenith added more than a point each.

Fiscal-Year Revenues Revealed

PORTLAND (BW) — Trans Pacific Leasing Inc. has reported consolidated revenues of $14,218,000 for the 1971 fiscal year ended Aug. 31 and after-tax earnings of $101,000.

Earnings per share were equal to 25.4 cents on the average number of shares outstanding during the year. These figures compare with fiscal 1970 revenues of $7,282,000 and earnings of $349,526, equivalent to 85 cents per share.

Utah International

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — A regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share on the outstanding common stock of Utah International Inc. has been declared by the board of directors. The dividend is payable on Jan. 14 to shareholders of record at the close of business on Dec. 31.

Special Dividend

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (BW) — The board of directors of Safe Flight Instrument Corp. have declared a special dividend of three cents per share on common stock payable on Jan. 18 to holders of record Jan. 5.

Burgermeister Sold To Hamm's

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Meister Brau Inc. of Chicago has announced it is closing its Burgermeister brewery here and selling the brand name and business to Theodore Hamm Co. for an undisclosed amount of cash.

The agreement calls for Hamm's to acquire the Burgermeister brand, but not the city-block brewery bounded by Tenth, Bryant, Eleventh and Harrison streets.

Hamm's will produce Burgermeister beer at its own breweries in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Boise Cascade Tells Acquisition

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Boise Cascade Corp. has reported completion of land acquisition for its Waikoloa development on the northwest coast of the island of Hawaii.

Boise Cascade spokesmen said the option on the final 5,000 acres had been exercised, bringing the number of acres planned for the project to 31,000. No purchase price was disclosed.

Net Earnings

TACOMA (BW) — American Marine Industries Inc. has reported net earnings of $158,090, or 33 cents per share, for the nine months ended Sept. 30, on total revenue of $3,242,595.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Technical Moves: How They Work

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My stock transactions have always been the straightforward sort, either I buy or sell at the market. Can you explain some of the more technical maneuvers such as limits and stops, and so forth? — T.P.

A. The two areas on which you might wish to place restrictions are share price and duration of order. These limits may be specified when placing wither purchase or sale orders. If an order is entered for an indefinite period, terminated only by its execution or cancellation, it is a GTC or good-till-canceled order. A day order on the other hand expires at the end of the day's trading session if it is not executed. A third possible time restriction is a fill-or-kill order, which if not transacted immediately is canceled.

Price may be modified in three ways with orders, either at market, limit or stop. Your previous transactions were at market, that is, executed at the prevailing market price when the order is entered. In a limit order a price above the current trading level is specified for a sale and below market level for a purchase.

If you are interested in purchase of a stock trading in the low 40s you might place a GTC order to buy at 38. This would be executed only at the limit price or at a better price. On a sale the execution would take place at the limit or above. However, should a stock approach the limit but not reach it, the transaction would not take place. For this reason you should follow prices closely if a stock is approaching its limit level.

The third price restriction, the stop order is placed in the case of a sale below the market price and on a buy above the market. On the buy side, the stop either protects a profit or limits the loss on a short sale. A stop order to sell below the market is used to restrict losses or protect gains on long holdings. The danger here is that once the specified price is reached, stop orders become market orders and if there are others ahead of yours they are executed in sequence which could result in a transaction several points lower than anticipated.

Marin Firm Helps Clean Up Alameda County Air

A Marin County company has gifted the Alameda County city of Newark with 10,000 cubic feet of clean air a minute.

The gift was made through Leslie Salt Co. which purchased a "scrubber" from Encont Corporation of San Rafael for the salt company's plant in Newark.

The 3,600-pound stainless steel scrubber has been hooked up to the plant's ventilation system and will clean emissions from the building into the atmosphere.

Encont, headquartered at 134 Paul Drive, Northgate Industrial Park, specializes in the design, manufacture and installation of pollution control equipment for industry.

None of Encont's air-cleaning machines have been installed in Marin, the company's president, George Mora, said, because of the lack of heavy industry which uses the equipment.

The company's name, Mora said, stands for environmental control engineering.

Insurance Firm Merge Vote Due

Shareholders of Western Travelers Life Insurance, San Rafael, will meet Dec. 21, to vote upon a merger between Western Travelers and a wholly-owned subsidiary of Marlennan Corp. of Chicago.

Under the terms of the proposed merger, each minority shareholder of Western Travelers will receive one share of Marlennan common stock for each 16 shares of Western Travelers capital stock.

Directors of Western Travelers have already approved the proposed merger.

Merge Agreement

LEXINGTON, Mass. (BW) — Raytheon Co. and Iowa Manufacturing Co. have reported agreement in principle to merge Iowa Manufacturing with Raytheon.

New Bus System May Fill Long-Felt Need

Marin has half of its new bus system, and will get the other half on Jan. 3.

Golden Gate Bridge District's entry into the Marin bus transportation picture under the style of Golden Gate Transit immediately showed up some scheduling problems. But we expect they will be all ironed out by the time the Christmas holidays are over. We hope so, anyhow.

One particularly strange one, which made a busload of College of Marin students late for class on Monday, was routing of the interurban bus via San Rafael's Second Street and then over Highway 101 to the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard turnoff to reach the college. We can't imagine who dreamed that one up. Certainly it was no commuter!

THERE WILL BE OTHER "bugs" as the system continues and is expanded. The bridge district people are not seasoned bus system operators, although some of them have some experience in that line. They will make mistakes. It may be some time before the operation is discernably superior to those of Marin Transit Systems and Greyhound Bus Lines —except for nicer, newer buses.

But if the district is dedicated to providing better public transportation for Marin, as it seems to be, this could be the dawn of a new day.

FOR YEARS in this column, we have been advocating a system of bus transportation in Marin which would both connect with San Francisco commute buses and provide a convenient way to get from one city to another within the county.

The Golden Gate Bridge District has the makings of such a system. On Jan. 3, when it takes over the other half of Marin's public transportation from Greyhound — the commute bus runs — it will have an integrated system providing transfer from the intra-county buses to the inter-county ones.

This, too, is sure to have a few "bugs" at the beginning which will have to be worked out. We expect to see quite a few schedule changes in the next few months —which will be annoying, but necessary.

But such a system will correct one of the major deficiencies in the county's transportation for many years past — the paucity of local bus transport, and its lack of correlation with the commute buses.

Greyhound has not cared to improve that service. It has been trying for a long time to get out of the commute business, and was not interested in anything that would increase it. The long lines are its moneymakers.

EXPERIENCE ELSEWHERE indicates that no matter how much the bridge district improves the service, it will not be a money-maker. But if it provides Marin with a better system of transportation, we see no reason why it should be expected to return a direct profit as well.

Wider highways and bigger parking lots don't make profits either.

Specter Of State Deficit May Be Merely Mirage

SACRAMENTO — There is serious doubt that the $500 million revenue act of 1971 was necessary — the one enacted last week at the so-called special session of the Legislature.

Some legislators question its necessity. Others question its magnitude.

The enactment of the tax increase does put an end to a quiet but bitter struggle which has been going on within the Reagan adminstration for several months.

On one side, the Department of Finance has been warning of a $330 million deficit and pressing for the tax hike.

On the other side, a few key executives have maintained that an upturn in the economy and sizeable reductions in expenditures make a deficit unlikely and the tax increase unnecessary.

A SMALL BAND of legislators also seriously question the need for the tax hike. Assemblyman Bill Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, is one of them. Along with 14 other legislators he voted against the bill.

Campbell feels there may well be a surplus, rather than a deficit, by the end of this fiscal year. He also believes the finance department has grossly underestimated the amount of money the state will gain from withholding.

A comparison of state revenues and expenditures for July through September this year with the same period in 1970 seems to fuel Campbell's doubts: For the three-month period in 1971, the state's revenues were 14.72 per cent higher than in the comparable span in 1970; expenditures, for the same period, were only 9.4 per cent higher, 1971 over 1970.

In other words, the state's revenues are increasing at a faster rate than expenditures. Projections of the growing gain of revenues over expenditures have raised serious doubts about the predicted deficit.

DESPITE THESE CHANGES in outlook, the Department of Finance refused to alter its early-year predictions on the $330 million deficit. One legislator was moved to comment, during the debate on the tax bill, "We have been unable to get an honest estimate from finance." Which is not strange. The Department of Finance is an enclave of money-hungry bureaucrats surrounding three captive political appointees.

There seems to be a similarity between the state's present financial picture and that of 1958.

In 1958 the state was emerging from the 1956-58 recession. The Department of Finance warned Gov. Goodwin Knight he faced a deficit of $100 million. Knight asked the legislature for a tax increase to cover the anticipated red ink in the $1.7 billion budget.

The 1958 legislature, led by an economy bloc, refused to go along with Knight. It scoffed at his predicted deficit and defeated his tax proposal.

As it turned out, the economy bloc was correct. Rather than a $100 million deficit, there was a $73 million surplus.

The trend lines of the 1956-58 era bear a striking resemblance to the lines of 1970-72. If the same percentage error in finance's revenue projections were to occur, the state could end the fiscal year with a surplus of $300 million rather than a deficit of $300 million.

Even with the distinct possibility of a surplus, most Republican legislators were unwilling to risk having to vote for a tax increase in 1972. That, plus the pressures of his advisers in finance, caused Governor Reagan to go along with last week's $500 million tax bill.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Selfish Reasons Lead To Too Many Pets

I have been reading news articles and letters to the editor in the Independent-Journal about the thousands of dogs and cats that are put to sleep because they do not have a home. It is simply a problem of too many puppies and kittens for the number of homes available.

I have the privilege of practicing veterinary medicine in this county and so I have ample opportunity to observe people and their pets. Seldom does a day go by that I don't hear, "I want my dog to have puppies at least once because someone told me it makes a better dog out of them" or "I want my children to see my dog have pups." Some people seem to believe that a female dog or cat derives some psychological or physiological benefit from giving birth to a litter of puppies or kittens. Many others are even more selfish and only want their pet to reproduce because they want their children to watch. Both of these beliefs are resulting in the birth of animals that will eventually find their way to the "gas chamber."

As far as I can tell, a female animal derives no benefit at all from exercising her reproductive abilities.

To the people who want their children to learn about reproduction, I would say, learn it somewhere else instead of using your pet for a laboratory animal and causing the deaths of more animals.

Ways To Utilize College Suggested

There were approximately 3,000 high school graduates in Marin in 1971; if (supposedly) 50 per cent of them go to College of Marin this would amount to 3,000 students in a two-year period — the college is currently enrolling 7,000 according to the College of Marin District Newsletter. Local property owners are just unwilling to build more college space that will be for other uses and other students than a two-year continuation program. If expanded uses are indeed desirable they will have to be funded by other than local property taxes.

We read of tests being given high school graduates in other areas which, if passed, allow up to five credits toward a degree in each of six subject areas. That could be a total of 30 credits or better than one year of college work saved (to the student and taxpayer). We recommend that such testing be looked into for possible application here in Marin County.

Before more new building (and new taxation) is undertaken, all possible facets of using facilities on the Kentfield campus should be explored. How many classrooms are presently empty during what hours? How many are given over to non-credit courses? How about using buildings phased out elsewhere by diminishing elementary school enrollees; at Hamilton Field or empty store buildings?

Can the cluster concept of building be justified in light of today's high costs — extra roofs, extra walls and glass areas, walkways and entrances, etc — plus the additional costs for heating and cleaning this highly expensive type of construction for public buildings?

Improper Flag Display At Doughboy Statue

May I call your attention to the latest fiasco regarding the so-called Doughboy Statue which formerly had a place of honor in front of the courthouse and has now been placed at the Marin Civic Center complex.

The statue has been placed at the northeast corner of Civic Center Drive and the road leading past the Marin Veterans Memorial Building. The statue is on its pedestal facing approximately south with a wall of cement encircling the platform on which it sets. The end of this wall of nearest the Memorial Building formed into a circle to hold the flag pole, which has been erected.

The sad part of the whole complex is that the flag will now fly from a position against regulations for the display of our national flag, namely in the place of honor to the statues or speaker's right.

For authority on display of the flag I refer to the following publications: DoD Gen-5: DA PAM 360-501: NAVPERS 92591B:AFP190-1-31 and NAVMV 5901 (Rev-63)

Briefly when the flag is on a platform, in the chancel of a church, on a stage etc. it is always on the right of such place as the speaker, preacher, etc. faces the audience.

Therefore if we are going to have only one flag pole at this memorial it should be placed on the left as you face the statue just the reverse at which it has been placed.

We have spent so much of the taxpayers' money now on this entire complex and so much more has been allocated or proposed that it seems to the writer that we could afford two flag poles at this memorial and fly both our national and state flags in a proper manner.

If money connot be found to correct this at once I will be willing to start with a donation...

Planning Review Not 'Super-Agency'

Hooray for the old I-J! Your editorial of Dec. 7, did speak to an important issue, the implementation of a countywide plan. The "super-agency" which you described in the editorial would, indeed, be a disaster. Any setup in which the cities would have to "go hat in hand" to the county would be politically unacceptable. Neither should such an agency get involved in strictly local issues, or do the work which is already done by others.

Instead, we have suggested that, after the adoption of a countywide plan, a review agency be created with well defined, limited authority to rule on issues of county-wide or area-wide importance which are in conflict with the countywide plan. This agency must have representation from all the cities and the county, and its staff, if any, must be responsible to the entire agency and not any one of its members.

The small measure of local authority which the county and the cities would surrender to the review agency would be returned to them many times over in their voice on that agency. Many issues, particularly in the field of public health and safety, are already decided on this basis. This would be a reasonable and effective way to resolve questions that affect more than one community. Seen in this light, the review agency would not endanger home rule, but rather help home rule to survive in a society of increasingly complex and difficult issues.

I fear that if local governments cannot get together and solve their common problems jointly, state or federal government may step in to do the job for us. To agree voluntarily on a joint course of action will not be easy, as we have learned from the expericnce of the City-County Planninc Council. On each issue there will be winners, and there will be losers. But I am sure that on the whole the people of Marin County would be on the winning side. And that, I think, is what we are all concerned about, the welfare of all of the people in Marin County.

United Nations' Inability To Act Is Price Of Soviet Membership

WASHINGTON — To understand how the Russians render the United Nations feeble and futile by the use of the veto, it is well to look at its origins.

It is generally assumed that this nearly total veto was something which the United States wanted as well as the Soviet Union.

This is not true.

The Soviet Union wanted an unlimited veto. The United States wanted a very limited veto.

The Soviet wanted the right to veto anything which the Security Council might say or do.

The United States wanted only to be able to apply the veto to Security Council sanctions — that is, to a decision which would commit the U.S. to military action.

In advance of the final drafting of the U.N. Charter at San Francisco, the United States conceded the total veto to the Soviet Union for feat Russia wouldn't join.

1 — The right to determine the agenda of the Security Council and thereby to prevent even discussion of any matter it didn't want discussed.

2 — The right to prevent the Security Council from advancing even a peace proposal either to stop a war or to avert it. (The Russians used this veto twice last week to keep the Security Council from calling for a cease-fire in the Indian-Pakistani conflice.)

3 — The right to veto any decision the Security Council might wish to take which would involve the use of U.N. peace-keeping forces either to restrain aggression or to resist it.

The United States wanted the veto limited to the third item. But to please the Russians the United States accepted this all-inclusive veto in the draft of the U.N. Charter which the Allied powers (Britain, Russia, America and China) put together at Dumbarton Oaks during the war. The United States also agreed to give the Soviet Union three votes in the General Assembly (its own, the Ukraine and Byelorussia) which no other country possesses.

WHEN THIS DRAFT of the U.N. Charter was put to the 50 founding nations at the San Francisco conference, most of them revolted against the sweeping veto.

The smaller nations did not want any veto for anybody. The Russians were adamant. They said they wouldn't budge. And it looked for a time that the conference would break apart. Every other provision of the U.N. Charter was settled except the issue of the veto.

To avert the collapse of the conference, President Truman sent Harry Hopkins to Moscow to plead the case with Stalin for at least some slight concession on the veto.

Stalin made a minute concession. He agreed to drop the demand for the right to preclude any item going on the Security Council agenda the Kremlin would rather keep off.

The smaller nations accepted. Thus the Security Council was not kept from talking, only from acting.

MOSCOW PLEDGED at the time it would not use the veto "capriciously."

The Russians explained that they would not allow even a Security Council majority of 11 nations to ask an end to the Indian-Pakistani fighting. They argued that a cease-fire would be unfair to India unless a settlement was acceptable to both sides.

This position condoned violation of the U.N. Charter because under the charter all members are pledged not to use force or the threat of force to settle any dispute.

The U.N. will remain powerless so long as the veto remains all-powerful.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Ralph Bunche Did More Than Survive Insults

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — The death of any man who has been prominent for long is likely to spin our memory back to the first time we ever heard of him. So with Ralph Bunche, who was classified prominent when he reached a level that was very middling indeed by standards of Washington protocol, because then so few men of his race were publicly noticed at all.

We knew about Louis Armstrong, Duke Ellington, Bill Robinson and maybe Paul Robeson in the middle '40s, but that was even before Jackie Robinson broke in with the Dodgers. As for a black diplomat, most Americans could not imagine such a character unless he was wearing a swallow-tail coat and rolling his eyes in a skit in the "Silas Green from New Orleans" minstrel show.

That was when most newspapers still ran the word Negro between commas after the name of any black man in the news — especially crime news, which was virtually the only route by which blacks were allowed into print. The measure of a paper's enlightenment in most cities was not yet whether it omitted that designation, but whether it dared begin it with a capital "n."

THAT WAS WHEN many papers, not just in the South, never referred to a black wife as Mrs. Smith — it was "the Smith woman" instead. That was when one smalltown weekly, the first paper I ever worked on, ran a regular page headed "Colored News," with accounts of graduations and weddings and promotions from private first class to corporal, and nobody thought of it then as an insult. Instead it proved how liberal we were, because the opposition papers confined their "colored news" to copyings off the Saturday night police blotter.

Under such circumstances, a black barber's orphaned son like Bunche had to sneak, or be sneaked, into public office. On his record, he was a token Negro in the State Department long before law and custom made token Negroes a common fixture in government and business. And despite the strength and brilliance he demonstrated over the following years, I still have the impression that his brains and character alone would never have given him that chance except for two things: the fact that he was Dr. Ralph Bunch and the fact that his skin was lighter than that of most whites.

It was only after he was valedictorian of his high school class, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of UCLA, a master of arts and doctor of philosophy at Harvard, an advanced student at Northwestern, the London School of Economics and Capetown University and a professor at Howard that he joined the War Department — and then as a highly specialized analyst of African and Far Eastern affairs. When he moved to the State Department in 1944, it was as head of the division of dependent-area affairs, which also meant dealing with dark people.

Still, all his degrees and the pigment in his skin did not insulate him from the same realities faced by other less special blacks — not even in the midst of the well-educated and the presumably open-minded class of men known as diplomats.

MY COLLEAGUE, Paul W. Ward, on the diplomatic beat for many years, recalls that when the American delegation prepared to travel to the first United Nations conference in London in January, 1946, none of Bunche's fellow diplomats was eager to share a stateroom with him. When one compatriot found this out and volunteered to room with Bunche, it was not an Ivy League professional but a Boston Irishman — the late Michael J. McDermott, who had no Ph.D. but got his first job with the government in World War I on the basis of his typing speed, and wenton to serve as State Department press officer through World War II.

Bunche survived that snub. He already had been through other incidents that sound so familiar now, such as the time he helped obtain special permission for blacks to attend the original "Porgy and Bess" in the week it played Washington's National Theater. He and Gunnar Myrdal had been chased out of Alabama while researching Myrdal's book, "The American Dilemma," which was cited in the Supreme Court's 1954 decision against school desegregation. Even after he was famous, he was barred from New York's West Side Tennis Club until the club changed its mind — at which point he declined its invitation to join.

He survived all those insults, and a man of his intelligence could not help but know he was being patronized when he first entered government service in the days when black pride was still a private thing. He had his own. With it, he perserved until his name became synonymous with the United Nations, and almost by main force he brought peace to Palestine, to Suez, Cyprus, the Congo. He will be remembered a long time. And he never raised a fist.

Redevelopment Agency Strains Credibility In Marin City

If the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency were to sell stock based on their credibility in Marin City, probably not even the most frivolous investor would buy.

Not after last week's controversy — the latest in a series over the years — which again has brought into focus the gap between what the agencies say they will do and what they do.

The latest controversy, involving a complicated transfer of land titles and development rights with a New York development firm, has roots running back to last summer.

IN JULY, directors of the two agencies agreed to try to regain control of about 60 acres of redevelopment land in the heart of the community and 167 acres of valuable ridgeland surrounding it.

The plan, as outlined at a joint meeting of the two agencies, was to ask for an option to repurchase the ridgeland from California Development Co., which bought the land in 1962 but never received title.

Until the two agencies could come up with the funds to buy back the land, Cal Development would have the right to develop it, the boards decided.

If that proposal failed, they added, the two agencies would take the development firm to court.

IN AUGUST, after a series of meetings with the firm, it was reported that the proposal had been turned down by Cal Development. The firm would agree only to release rights to the lowland redevelopment project, and then only in return for title to the ridgelands.

The two agencies countered by agreeing to enter litigation. Marin City residents applauded the move.

There the matter rested until two weeks ago when the two agencies suddenly announced they were in favor of accepting the firm's offer.

Residents, maintaining the ridgelands were crucial to future development, protested and demanded an option to repurchase the lands be attached to any agreement.

IT WAS THEN disclosed that the agencies had already made the offer — excluding the option condition previously agreed upon — to the firm.

Last week, the two agencies' boards, overriding community opposition, agreed to sign the transfers (thus confirming the offer) without the repurchase option.

Residents, amid demands for the resignations of board members and staff, demanded when and who had authorized the offer.

They were told the decision was made in July, although at what meeting was not clear.

It is small wonder that residents mistrust the two agencies.

First the agencies agree to regain the ridgelands — through court action if necessary — and later agree to release the lands with no strings attached saying that, in fact, was their original understanding.

Government Buying Record Corn Crop

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government has bought 1.4 million bushels of corn from Midwest markets in the first of its open-ended series of purchases designed to rescue farmers from a depression caused by their record crop and the recent dock strikes.

Monday's purchase was made from open markets in Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska. The prices ranged from $1.12 to $1.30 a bushel, described as market prices. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz announced the purchase program as soon as he was confirmed by the Senate last week.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

School For All At Four In New State Proposal

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

When Wilson C. Riles was campaigning last year for election as state superintendent of public instruction, he emphasized repeatedly his belief that public education should begin earlier than the age of five years.

His 25-member Task Force on Early Childhood Education has just submitted its report, and it agrees with him entirely on this — and goes considerably beyond what he suggested.

Public school education, the task force report says, should begin at age four instead of age five. And this, it stresses, should not be with kindergarten or pre-kindergarten as they now exist, but with the start of a continuous education program.

IT PROPOSES to restructure the elementary schools of California, creating primary schools "embracing what is now the last year of nursery school, the kindergarten, and the first three grades of the elementary school."

Says the report: "Gone would be the artificial separation between pre-primary, kindergarten, and the primary grades. For according to the plan we propose each child would proceed at his own pace, without grade level barriers."

Present schoolhouses would not serve, in most cases, for the task force declares that "classifying children according to age and sorting them out into 30-by-30 boxes is obsolete."

"There should be no attempt to classify by age, grade or accomplishments," says the report. Instead, the children would be grouped by interests or common needs in what it describes as "a family-type age mix."

Present school staffs would be no more adequate than present facilities. The task force says implementation of its proposal would call for "an unstratified, continuous progress plan of organization for the educational experience of children 4-8, with differentiated staffing and a pupil-staff ratio not greater than 1 to 10." The average teacher-pupil ratio in primary grades in California now is about 1 to 26.

THE TASK FORCE report, which was presented to the State Board of Education Dec. 9, proposes an exploratory project in this "new primary education" in the 1972-73 school year "in a manageable number of districts in the state."

There is no mention of how it would be financed. That would be up to the legislature (and the taxpayers).

In his charge to the task force, Superintendent Riles suggested expanding the number of preschool day care centers, converting the first three grades into an ungraded primary system, encouraging the best teachers — including more men teachers —to go into the primary grades, and emphasizing teacher preparation for early childhood education.

The task force says a few kind words for all these. But it goes beyond them in proposing a whole new primary school setup starting at age four, which would make obsolete most present school buildings and require more than three times the present instructional staff (roughtly two and one-half times as many teachers for the same number of pupils, and with 4-year-olds added besides).

RILES IN HIS CHARGE asserted: "No child should leave the third grade without being able to read, write, and calculate in accord with accepted standards."

But the task force brushes off this accountability concept with "a word of caution" against "anxiety-producing pressure," asserting: "Youngsters should begin to move into reading, for example, on a self-selective basis."

Its proposal for the new primary schools makes no mention of establishing any standards in reading, writing and arithmetic which the pupils would have to meet before going on to the next level — the fourth grade.

School Videotape Equipment Stolen

Videotape equipment valued at $1,135 was taken in a burglary of Oliver R. Hartzell School, 211 Los Ranchitos Road, during the weekend, San Rafael police reported today.

Police said school officials told them the equipment was on loan to the school from the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

More Water Is Being Used

CHICAGO (UPI) —Americans are using more and more water and it's taking a lot of digging and drilling to maintain a steady supply.

Approximately 22 trillion gallons of water are pumped from wells annually, says Encyclopaedia Britannica, and each year about 500,000 wells are drilled to keep up with demand.

Ground water still is the most common source of both public and private supplies in the United States.

Injury Reported

Eugene Hedrick, 24, of 100 Bayo Vista Way, San Rafael, was treated at Marin General Hospital at 2:30 a.m. yesterday for scrapes suffered in an auto accident, according to hospital records, but no accident details were available.

Sickle Cell Anemia Tests

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation establishing a statewide testing program for sickle cell anemia, an incurable disease which mainly afflicts persons of African descent, was signed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure by Assemblyman Loen Ralph, D-Los Angeles, would require that children entering school be tested for the disease and that persons who apply for a marriage license also undergo examination for the hereditary affliction.

Authorities estimate that one out of every 500 black children suffers from the disease at birth. About half of the persons with the disease die before the age of 20.

ACTUAL PILE DEPTH!

One of the Best Shag Values in Abbey History!

This is NOT the "economy shag" you'd expect to get for $4.96 sq. yd. This is one of our better shags—luxuriously thick and heavy. (It weighs 5½ lbs. per sq. yd.!) It's made of America's Number One carpet fiber, 100% nylon pile to give you the maximum in long wear and easy care. It meets or exceeds the durability standards set by the F.H.A. And it's extremely practical, because the yarns have a heat-set twist to lock in the bounce, and to resist crushing or matting. Resists soil and stains, too. The manufacturer is giving us a discount on it for just one week, so this offer cannot be extended. Come in today.

Motorist Arrested In Crash

A San Geronimo man was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of felony driving under the influence of narcotics following a traffic accident in Fairfax yesterday.

Kenneth Forbes Brandelius, 21, of 465 Meadow Way, posted $1,200 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court next Tuesday.

Fairfax Patrolman Michael Morarity said Brandelius was arrested at 3:15 p.m. after he drove into the rear of a car driven by Loretta L. Bell, 70, of San Anselmo, near 1830 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Brandelius left the accident scene, Morarity said, but returned shortly later to say he was responsible.

Morarity said Brandelius was acting strangely and an examination revealed "very recent" puncture marks on his arm.

Neither Brandelius nor Mrs. Bell was injured in the accident, Morarity said.

Giant Yule Card Going To Nixons

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (UPI) —A rags to riches immigrant dry cleaner has arranged to have his 250-pound Christmas card sent to President Nixion today via Trans World Airlines.

Adam Morgan, 36, a native of Iran, said Tuesday his worries about delivering the card ended when the White House promised to send someone to pick it up when it arrived at the airport in Washington. It is a four-by-four-foot mural.

Morgan, who operates a dry cleaning establishment, said he sent the card to show his appreciation to America for giving him the opportunity to turn himself from a penniless immigrant to a successful businessman.

Fast-Change Bandits Stage Five Holdups

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—A pair of fast-working holdup men with a bagfull of disguises staged five robberies within two hours in suburban Harrisburg Tuesday.

The quick bandits remained one step ahead of police. They robbed two dry cleaners, two gas stations and one supermarket, disguised in different paste-on mustaches, fake beards and glasses. They netted about $500.

Streptococcus Is Most Prevalent

With 93 cases reported, streptococcus infection was the most prevalent communicable disease reported last week to the Marin County Health Department, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer.

There were 43 cases of gonorrhea, three of mumps, two each of syphillis and shigella and one of infectious hepatitis.

Arraignment In Car Theft

Walter J. Brock, 30, of San Francisco, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of car theft.

Brock was arrested by San Rafael police on Dec. 9 and charged with stealing a car from the Nelson Lease Co. of San Francisco.

He was arraigned Monday and ordered to appear Dec. 21 to plead to the charge.

Santa To Make His Annual Novato Visit

Santa Claus will make his annual visit to the Novato Fire Department's main station, Grant Avenue and Highway 101, Saturday to distribute oranges and candy.

Santa will be at the station from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. under the auspices of Novato volunteer firemen, who arranged the visit.

She's Robbed As She Sleeps

A Sausalito woman was robbed of her Volkswagen sedan and a television set sometime Sunday night by a thief who entered her apartment as she slept, Sausalito police reported.

Officers said Iris R. Roth, of Glen Drive, awakened about 7:30 a.m. Monday to find the set gone, along with the car and the keys for it which had been lying on the living room couch.

Police said the burglar apparently entered through an unlocked front door.

Remapping Panel Wrangles While Politicos Sue

Democrats Fumble One, Win One on Reinecke Commission

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The legally disputed state reapportionment commission convened today for the first time in history and immediately rejected a move by Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. to adjourn on ground that the panel was "invalid."

The commission, chaired by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, is authorized by the state Constitution to reapportion state Senate and Assembly district lines when the Legislature fails to redistrict itself during a regular session.

But Brown, a Democrat and a lawyer, moved to adjourn the commission immediately at least until the state Supreme Court rules on a suit brought by the legislature challenging the Republican-dominated commission's constitutionality.

Reinecke, a Republican, ruled Brown's motion dead for lack of a second.

Reinecke said the commission must move as quickly as possible to reapportion the legislative districts even while the court considers the constitutionality of the commission.

He said county clerks throughout the state have told him that Jan. 15 was the last practical date that they could put election machinery in process to draw local election precinct lines for 1972.

Another commission member, state schools chief Wilson Riles, a Democrat, said, "I feel miscast in this role of reapportioning the Legislature. I don't know how the court will rule but I hope they rule against us."

State Controller Houston Flournoy, a Republican, disagreed with Brown and said, "We ought to proceed because it's important that we disrupt the election machinery as little as possible."

While Reinecke convened the commission, the lawsuit, naming the entire Legislature as the plaintiff, was filed today with the state Supreme Court in San Francisco.

The commission adjourned to Friday after accomplishing only one thing —Brown and Riles pushed through by a 2-1 vote a rule that four affirmative votes would be required to adopt any redistricting plan.

Reinecke was the only Republican member present to oppose the two Democrats' motion. Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger was

Dacca Issues Plea For India Ceasefire

Surrender Terms Are Received

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

India said the Pakistani military and civil commanders in Dacca asked India today for a ceasefire in the face of an onslaught by Indian armor, artillery and planes which left much of the East Pakistani capital in flames.

India immediately dispatched surrender terms to Lt. Gen. A. A. K. Niazi who had sworn to defend Dacca to the death. The Indian high command announced a bombing pause and delivered a 5 1-2 hour ultimatum to surrender or face another aerial blitz.

A pooled dispatch from American correspondents in Dacca said Pakistani President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan was reported to have sent a cable at 4 p.m. Tuesday authorizing Niazi to seek a ceasefire, in effect, to surrender. India said heavy fighting was still reported at Dacca late this afternoon.

There were no details, but a message from Gen. S. H. F. J. Manekshaw, the Indian chief of staff, spoke of heavy casualties in the city which has a garrison of between 15,000 to 20,000 Pakistani troops and thousands of civilians left from the prewar population of 1.5 million.

About 45 Americans are still in Dacca and there were conflicting reports the United States had dispatched units of the 7th Fleet to the Bay of Bengal to rescue them if necessary. The units included the nuclear powered carrier Enterprise and the helicopter carrier USS Tripoli.

An Indian military spokesman in New Delhi said the U.S. Embassy in New Delhi relayed the cease-fire appeal from Niazi and Maj. Gen. Rao Farman Ali, the deputy martial law administrator for civil affairs and that the embassy had relayed the Indian reply.

Pakistan Walks Out Of Council

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— Pakistan walked out of the Security Council today after denouncing the United Nations as a fraud and farce that delayed action in the Indo-Pakistani war until India could capture Dacca — and perhaps all of East Pakistan.

The charge was made by Pakistani Foreign Minister Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto who is also deputy premier designate. He said he was walking out and that Pakistan would have no more to do with U.N. discussion of the war between India and Pakistan.

He sounded bitter and agitated because of the Security Council action in which Russia blocked a council call for a cease-fire in the war by casting three vetoes which he said gave India time for its attacks on Dacca.

"Why should I waste my time here?" he demanded. He picked up a Security Council document and ripped it to shreds.

"I find it disgraceful to my person and to my country to remain here a minute longer than necessary," Bhutto said.

He denounced Britain and France, which abstained in all votes on the Indo-Pakistani war, for "sitting on the fence." Had they thrown their weight behind a settlement, Bhutto said, there might have been agreement.

"I admire the Soviet Union," he said. "It took a position. It was a wrong position, but at least it took a position."

Bhutto rose, and followed by the entire Pakistani delegation, strode from the council chamber.

"I will go back to my country and fight," he said. "I am going."

Bhutto spoke after word was received from New Delhi that the military and civilian commanders in Dacca had asked India for a cease-fire there.

He accused the 15-nation council of filibustering for days while "my country and people are dying." The council delayed today's session for nearly two hours while studying the cease-fire reports.

"Perhaps this will be my last speech," he said, speaking passionately and without notes. "I have not come here to surrender. Under no circumstances. I will not accept a document of surrender. I will not be a party to surrender."

He thanked the United States for its position in support of Pakistan in the council and then denounced Britain and France.

Bhutto turned to Soviet Ambassador Yakov A. Malik who cast the three vetoes and said: "Mr. Ambassador of the Soviet Union you do not talk like Ambassador Malik, you talk like Czar Malik."

Dollar's Devaluation Has Strings Attached

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally says devaluation of the dollar will not be fully accomplished until America's trading partners agree to "a package involving trade issues."

Connally said Tuesday the United States agreed in a conference between President Nixon and French President Georges Pompidou in the Azores to devalue the dollar — but only if there are agreements on other trade issues.

Connally said the dollar devaluation would have to be taken up with at least eight other American trading partners. This weekend, the world's 10 richest non-Communist nations including France and the United States meet in Washington to discuss world monetary and trade problems.

He also said the United States will remove its 10 per cent surcharge on imported goods only when it achieves an agreement with trading partners that will allow it to be more competitive in world trade.

Connally said it was unlikely the United States would devalue the dollar by "any means other than a direct request to Congress." He said Congress would be asked to raise the price of gold, which now is fixed at $35 an ounce.

One knowledgeable source said the increase might be about 8 per cent, for a new value of $37.80 an ounce.

Europeans reacted favorably to the presidential announcement, which drove the value of the dollar down sharply in several European currency centers Tuesday, cutting into American tourists' funds.

In London, foreign exchange dealers and government officials said the announcement should improve the prospects for monetary peace. They expressed hope that fixed exchange rates would soon be restored after the long months of "floating" rates.

A spokesman for the Kredietbank, a major Belgian bank, said it was likely the Group of Ten major monetary nations will "proceed quickly now to

Teacher Victor In Book Flap

By MARY LEYDECKER

San Rafael High School teacher Virginia Franklin last night won the right to continue using the controversial book, "The Movement Toward a New America," or at least portions of it, in her social studies class. (Another San Rafael Schools story, page 12.)

She failed, however, to gain a personal vote of confidence from the San Rafael Board of Education although Supt. John F. Plank urged trustees to "express confidence in this method of teaching — and the quality of her teaching."

Trustee Francis X. Kelly seemed to speak for the board when he said he did not think he had enough knowledge about

BOY, 11, HONORED

Tiburon Scout A Life-Saver

A Tiburon Boy Scout today was credited with saving the lives of two scuba divers on an abalone hunt off Salt Point State Park in Sonoma County.

The youth, 11-year-old David Smith, a tenderfoot in Troop 9, will be recommended by scouting officials for one of three bravery awards given by the Boy Scouts of America — possibly the gold honor medal, scouting's highest.

"I would recommend him for the highest medal he could get," said Robert Roney, 25, one of the divers. "I owe my life to him."

David, of 2 Lyford Drive, pulled Roney, a neighbor who lives at 4 Lyford, and another diver, Tom Witte of Los Angeles,, from treacherous surf near Fort Ross on Nov. 27, administered first-aid to the pair and ran a half-mile to summon help.

The rescue came to light as David's scoutmaster, Albert Ryder, disclosed that the youth would be recommended for a scouting bravery award. David, son of Mr. and Mrs. David D. Smith, is a sixth-grade student at Del Mar School and an Independent-Journal carrier.

Roney, a former Marine, said he and Witte took David along on the trip. The youth, who had gained diving experience when his parents lived in Florida, hoped to learn abalone diving, taking his own gear with him.

Roney and Witte left the youth on a five-foot ledge as they entered the ocean to test conditions. The divers soon encountered high surf and undertow that battered them against the ledge and prevented them from climbing its sheer face out of the water. Currents pulled them back to sea and back against the rocks with such force that their flippers were torn off.

The divers, who had dropped their weighted belts as a precaution, bobbed in the sea for about 30 minutes until Roney was able to grab a spear gun that David had extended from the ledge. Roney was pulled to safety by the youth.

"If a wave had caught David leaning over that ledge, he would have been washed out

Marin City Transfer Cool-Off Time Asked

By DAVID DIETZ

A long day of discussion o: the Marin City ridgeland controversy ended yesterday with an appeal by the Marin County Board of Supervisors for a month's delay in signing over the choice property to a New York developer. (See another supervisors story, page 12.)

The board action, amid resident protests of the transfer, threw the controversy back into the laps of the Marin County Redevelopment Agency and Marin County Housing Authority, which have tentatively agreed to release 112 acres of the ridgeland property to California Development Co.

In exchange, Cal Development would transfer to the redevelopment agency 60 acres within Marin City that has lain dormant for six years because the firm has not met redevelopment commitments.

While acknowledging the "mutual release" agreements appear to be the only way to spark long-stalled community redevelopment, the supervisors voted 4-1 in favor of a delay until Jan. 18 in order to permit study of various avenues that may assuage irate residents.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of both the redevelopment agency and housing authority, told the supervisors that holding up formal signing of the releases by agency officials was up to the two boards.

Board Chairman Louis H. Baar dissented in the vote, which culminated nearly five hours of discussion of the matter. Earlier in the day, the board criticized the Marin County Human Rights Commission for getting involved in the dispute.

One of the approaches the board recommended for study during the next month is an offer by Paul J. Broman, a Strawberry developer, to help a Marin City-based group known as the Marin Urban Development Association, (MUDA), which is seeking a role in community redevelopment.

Residents, some of whom are MUDA members, are angered because the mutual release agreements fail to provide for an option to buy back the ridgeland. This would mean community expansion, necessary for

Two-Pronged Search Continues For Vanished Quentin Convict

Law officers still were searching today for a convicted murderer who may have made it over a San Quentin wall in a cleverly plotted escape attempt involving three lifelike dummies.

The search for Jacob Zitzer, 27, was taking place both inside and outside the prison, according to Joseph R. O'Brien, prison information officer, who said officers were of divided opinion as to whether Zitzer was successful in his dash for freedom.

Two other men who also attempted to escape, Jack C. Duncan, 37, and Juan Colon, 28, were captured shortly after the alarm was sounded about 6 p.m. Monday when two ladders were seen propped up against a wall.

The men had apparently hidden until dusk in the industrial section, where they all worked, after having placed dummies in their cells to fool guards.

O'Brien said today he thought Zitzer probably had made it over the wall before a handmade rope found there broke. "I think someone had to have been on top of the wall," he said.

He added that other prison officials, however, believed that Zitzer is still within the walls, possible hiding in a manner similar to a convict who was found last May after guards spotted his feet in a small crawl space in the furniture factory.

JACOB ZITZER
Missing murderer

As for Duncan and Colon, they have been locked up and "are not talking," O'Brien said.

O'Brien also theorized that the three men had received help in constructing the wooden dummies, which were clad in prison garb including shoes, watch caps and with surgical gloves for hands.

The missing convict has been at San Quentin more than seven years, O'Brien said, having been convicted in Los Angeles in 1964 of murder in connection with a tavern holdup.

O'Brien said that Zitzer along with accomplices had ordered the bar patrons to lie on the floor and when a waitress did not comply, she was shot and killed. O'Brien did not know whether Zitzer pulled the trigger or one of the other men.

In prison, he has been troublesome, O'Brien said. Ordinarily, he said, a man in the eighth year of a life sentence would be in medium or even minimum security but that Zitzer was kept in "closed custody."

Before being sent to San Quentin, Zitzer had done time at the California Youth Authority and had a "bad reputation," O'Brien said. "He was heading in the wrong direction," he added.

Zitzer, a white man with blue eyes and brown hair, 5 feet 8 inches tall, may be wearing civilian garb, O'Brien said. However, he added, even if he is clad in the jeans and denim shirt worn by prisoners, he would not be noticeable because such dress is common.

He may have even had an accomplice who picked him up outside the walls, according to O'Brien.

Since his escape, San Quentin officials have beeen told that Zitzer has been seen both in the Tenderloin section of San Francisco and in Marin County.

The rumors have not been confirmed.

Temperatures Dip Below Freezing Mark

Marinwood and Tamalpais Valley reported an area low of 27 degrees as heavy frost and ice coated cars and streets.

Although the temperature didn't fall below 36 in the heart of Sausalito, according to the fire department, Fred Turner of 111 Prospect Avenue reported finding ice on his carport roof this morning.

Other lows reported were 29 in Woodacre and Novato; 30 in Petaluma; 31 in Santa Venetia and 32 in Mill Valley and San Rafael. In Bolinas, meanwhile, the overnight low was said to have been a balmy 38.

Nixon To Visit Florida Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon decided today to fly to the Florida White House at Key Biscayne to work on his forthcoming meeting in Bermuda with British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the flight would follow a meeting by Nixon with bipartisan congressional leaders at noon to brief them on his decision to devalue the dollar and other aspects of his meeting Monday and Tuesday in the Azores with President Georges Pompidou of France.

In Florida, Nixon will be preparing for his meeting Tuesday and Wednesday with Heath but will return to Washington first —probably Saturday or Sunday.

Plans For Extension Of Avenue Hit

The Marin County Board of Supervisors voted swiftly and unanimously yesterday to shelve plans for the controversial Miller Avenue extension near Dolan's Corner in Tamalpais Valley.

The decision came on the recommendation of Ray W. Foreaker Jr., director of public works, who blamed delays in obtaining a fill permit from the Bay Conservation and development commission and local objection to aligning the road over a marsh.

The extension was proposed years ago to provide a straighter access to Shoreline Highway.

Foreaker said the delays in acquiring a fill permit have made it impossible to meet various funding requirements of the state this year.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said as a result of the board's action, the project would be delayed "two or three years — or forever."

In shelving the plan, the board voted to begin study of alternate alignment plans by passing the marsh and to request the BCDC to place the project's fill application in an "indefinite hold" status.

The board continued for one week consideration of reallocating about $207,000 to other county road projects. Mentioned as a possibility for the funds is the proposed upgrading of East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near San Quentin Prison.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Postpones Talks

PARIS (UPI) — The United States announced today it was postponing the next session of the Vietnam peace talks another week until Dec. 30 to allow Communist negotiators "additional time for reflection and decision."

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter angered the Hanoi and Viet Cong delegates at last week's 138th session by postponing the next meeting until Dec. 23. Today's announcement was the second postponement within a week.

No War Link

VIENNA (UPI) — The Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) have not been infected so far by Soviet-American differences over the war between India and Pakistan, conference sources said today.

Soviet and U.S. negotiators met for 90 minutes today — the second consecutive day they have met — and scheduled another session on Friday.

The sources said the two teams have been able to keep any "outside issues" from disturbing their talks since SALT began two years ago.

Return To Work

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI) — Thousands of metal workers in the south German regions of North Baden and North Wurttemberg returned to work today following a three-week strike which idled 600,000 West German factory employees.

A spokesman for the IG Metal Union said 71.2 per cent of its members polled yesterday voted to accept a new wage and benefit package which includes a 7.5 per cent pay increase.

Only one quarter of the union members had to approve the package to end what many officials said was West Germany's worst labor dispute in the postwar era.

Off Until Monday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The murder trial of the "Soledad Brothers" has been postponed again.

Superior Judge S. Lee Vavuris granted a defense motion yesterday for additional time to review the files of 200 convicts the prosecution plans to put on the witness stand.

The trial resumes Monday with the first state witness scheduled to begin testimony establishing the death of Soledad prison guard John V. Mills.

Funds To Charity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard, who parlayed a $600 investment into a multimillion dollar business, says he is giving $18.8 million in stock holdings to charity to avoid any conflict of interest.

Packard, who resigned this week, is returning as chairman of the board of the Hewlett-Packard Co. of Palo Alto, the electronics firm he helped found 30 years ago with the $600. The investment had grown to $300 million when Packard came to Washington in 1969.

Packard and his wife did not announce the list of charities to receive the stock.

Nixon Given Firm Grip On Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Congress has handed President Nixon the authority he asked for to continue wage and price controls for another 16 months —along with pay raise provisions affecting millions of Americans which he did not want but apparently will accept.

The legislation was sent to Nixon's desk Tuesday night after a technicality in wording, which had delayed it, was cleared up.

The bill would extend Nixon's authority to impose wage and price controls —such as those under which the Pay Board and the Price Commission currently are operating —until May 1, 1973.

It also would reverse the Pay Board's ban on payment of retroactive raises which were due during but delayed until after the 90-day wage-price-rent freeze which ended Nov. 13. This provision was expected to bring a pay check bonus estimated at between $2 billion and $6 billion to perhaps 2 million teachers and untold millions of other Americans.

Those owed the raises would get them to cover the freeze period if the increases are not "unreasonably inconsistent" with the Pay Board's 5.5 per cent increase yardstick; or if the employer or civic jurisdiction involved had raised prices or taxes in anticipation of paying the increases.

The administration had resisted the retroactive pay provision but organized labor had backed it. Nixon was not expected to veto the bill, however.

The other section of the legislation which Nixon had resisted was a provision ordering a 5.5 per cent pay raise for all military and civilian federag workers —4.1 million persons — on Jan. 1. Nixon had wanted to delay that federal pay raise for another six months as part of his effort to slow down inflation.

The legislation does not contain an exemption from controls for newspaper, magazine the book publishers and radio and television broadcasters as it did at one time during the legislative process.

It does, however, subject the head of the Pay Board and the Price Commission to Senate confirmation within 60 days of when the bill becomes law.

Nuclear Weapon Test In Nevada

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)— Scientists Tuesday set off the 241st underground nuclear explosion by the United States since testing in the atmosphere was banned in 1963.

A nuclear device with a maximum force equal to detonation of 200,000 tons of TNT was exploded 1,100 feet beneath the surface in a weapons-related test, the Atomic Energy Commission said.

No radiation leaked into the atmosphere, the AEC spokesman said. It was the 11th announced U.S. nuclear test this year.

McGovern Hits Indo Bombings

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said Tuesday the American bombing of Indochina is second only to the attempted Nazi extermination of the Jews as "the most barbaric act of modern times."

In a speech to 500 supporters, the South Dakota senator lashed out at the Nixon administration's reliance on airpower in Southeast Asia as U.S. combat troops are withdrawn.

He acknowledged that the air war made possible the troop cutbacks, but compared its effect to the My Lai massacre.

Tanks Comb Plantation For Cong

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese armored units pushed into the giant Chup rubber plantation in eastern Cambodia today and the allied units spotted at least one battalion of the North Vietnamese 9th Infantry Division north of the plantation area, military sources said.

The armored forces moved in to join South Vietnamese paratroopers and reconnaissance units in the massive allied operation against Communists who have long used the rubber producing country as a sanctuary.

The North Vietnamese 7th and 9th Divisions were believed to have taken refuge in the 100-square-mile plantation, which has been out of operation for more than a year because of the fighting.

The U.S. command reported in Saigon that a twin-engine U.S. army plane carrying five Americans and two Vietnamese had disappeared off South Vietnam's northern coast and was presumed down at sea. Military spokesmen also said in a delayed report that two U.S. Navy A7 Intruder jets Monday afternoon fired on two North Vietnamese antiaircraft sites 85 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

Alaska Landowners' Bill Goes To Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Alaska's 55,000 native people will get $962.5 million and 40 million acres of land under legislation given final approval by Congress.

The Senate by voice vote Tuesday passed a compromise bill cleared by a House-Senate Conference Committee. The House passed the bill 307 to 60, and the measure went to the White House for President Nixon's signature.

Final settlement of land claims, which date back to 1867 when the United States purchased Alaska from Russia for $7.2 million, is provided for in the legislation.

In Anchorage, passage of the bill was described as "a dream come true" by Harry Carter, executive director of the Alaska Federation of Natives.

But he said there may be some problems in carrying out certain provisions of the settlement because of conflicting land claims by the state, private industry, local government and the natives.

Walter Hickel, former Alaska governor and former interior secretary, urged that Nixon sign the bill quickly.

"Then we can get down the road toward realizing full opportunity for all Alaskans, both native and non-native," he said.

Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., was the only conference committee member to refuse to sign the committee report. He said passage of the bill would be remembered as a "day of infamy and deceit" by about 200,000 Alaskans who would not share in the natives' gains.

Saylor said the claims of Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts could have been settled for "a miniscule amount" if the job had been done before the discovery of rich oil fields on Alaska's North Slope. Despite his reservation, Saylor urged final passage of the bill.

If Nixon signs the bill the way will be cleared for lifting of a "land freeze" that has helped prevent construction of a pipeline to carry oil from the field to the Alaskan port of Valdez.

The bill gives 220 native villages and 12 regional corporations full title to surface and subsurface rights in 40 million acres.

The natives will be paid $462.5 million over a period of 11 years by the U.S. Treasury. They will receive an additional $500 million from the state of Alaska's share of mineral revenues from publicly owned lands.

Cemetery Worker Held For Extortion

They said La Monaca, 56, and two gravediggers made tens of thousands of dollars by charging 10 per cent on the cost of each tomb.

Egypt Will Fight, Riad Warns Israel

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt will be justified in resuming hostilities if Israel does not accept a United Nations resolution approved Tuesday, Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad said in New York.

"If Israel accepts the resolution, the (Middle East peace envoy) Gunnar V. Jarring could resume his mission immediately," Riad said in an interview with the Al Moumhouriya newspaper. Riad led the Egyptian delegation to the U.N. General Assembly debate.

"If Israel rejects the resolution, then Egypt will have the right to fight in order to liberate its lands," he added.

The General Assembly resolution called for Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab lands and urged reactivation of Middle East talks under Jarring. Jarring's mission was abruptly cut off by Israel earlier this year.

Meanwhile, in Jerusalem, Prime Minister Golda Meir called her cabinet into special session today to brief them on her recent visit to the United States. But the aging Jewish stateswoman kept secret her progress on renewal of U.S. shipments of Phanton jets to Israel, which she discussed with President Nixon on a recent private trip to the United States.

New Books For Mao, President

NEW YORK (UPI)—What do Mao Tse-Tung, Martha Mitchell, and Ralph Nader have in common?

Speaking to an Association of Life Insurance Counsel meeting Tuesday, Agnew said jokingly his list included:

Martha Mitchell—A brand new princess phone.

President Nixon—A complete history of China for his forthcoming visit there.

Mao Tse-tung—Also for the visit, a complete history of the National Football League.

The Public Broadcasting Corporation —A videotape revealing newsman Sander Vanocur in an unguarded moment making an objective statement.

More Turmoil Rocks Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Gunmen shot a Protestant reservist in the British army but fled from housewives who kicked and scratched them when they raided the homes of prominent Belfast citizens.

In other action during the night in Northern Ireland, British troops said they shot and killed a 16-year-old boy operating with armed men who attacked an army patrol in the town of Coalisland, 25 miles from the border with the Irish Republic.

In Belfast, gunmen shot and seriously wounded John Garrett, a sergeant in the British Army reserve. He and his wife had opened their door to the attackers Tuesday night, thinking they were book salesmen.

Hub Votes Traffic Light Job

The San Anselmo City Council last night approved a project to modernize the six signals on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard through the city to the Fairfax city limits.

The $75,485 project will be paid with $53,988 in federal funds and $21,479 in state urban thoroughfare funds, said Charles R. Leitzell, public works director. Application for these funds is now being considered by the two agencies, he said.

The council authorized the mayor to sign the agreements for the project when they are prepared.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

CITY CLERK — Accepted with regrets the resignation of Anita Gannon as city clerk effective Dec. 31. She resigned after 19 years working for the city. The council appointed Helen Ragan, part time secretary as interim city clerk until city elections are held in April.

STREET — Accepted Bella Vista Avenue, a private street as a city street and agreed to regulate traffic on it and maintain it in its present condition.

BIDS — Opened four bids for a new fire engine but delayed until next Tuesday awarding the contract to give Fire Chief Frank Sousa time to study the bids. Bids were received from American LaFrance of Elmira, N.Y., for $51,461; Howe Fire Apparatus Co. Inc. of Anderson, Ind., for $50,108; Van Pelt of Oakdale for $50,755 and Ward LaFrance through Albro Fire Equipment Co., agents in Emeryville, for $51,429. The city had budgeted $52,000 for the truck.

APPROPRIATIONS — Approved taking $2,653 from general reserves for fire line upgrading; $4,300 for library from funds received from Marin County, $1,663 for repair of police cars paid by the insurance carrier and $50 for a trash basket paid by Mrs. P. S. Stout.

BENEFIT — Approved paying vacation and sick leave in proportion to the number of hours worked for four part-time employees, if they work more than 20 hours per week average. These were two clerks and two typists. The benefits start Jan. 1, 1972.

SURPLUS — Granted the city manager authority to sell surplus property and scrap, and left it to his discretion how large an item must be approved by the council.

NOMINATIONS — Received nominations of Kenneth Ball and Harold E. Matteucci for one position on the Civil Service Board of Review, but delayed until next Tuesday making the appointment.

LAND — Agreed to buy for $5 legal costs, 13,000 square feet of land along San Anselmo Creek on Forrest Avenue from Marin County to add to Creekside Park.

HOLIDAYS — Approved closing city hall on Dec. 24 and 31, giving all employees, except police and firemen, the day off.

CHAIRS — Appropriated $248 from the general fund to repair the five councilmen's chairs.

CLAIM — Denied a $955 claim from Peter Sagues of 1010 Trillium Lane, Mill Valley for damages allegedly done Nov. 5 to a truck by an overhanging tree branch at 25 Pasadena Street, and referred the claim to the city insurance agent.

EMERGENCY — Introduced an ordinance setting up procedures to follow in event of emergency and creating office of director and assistant director of emergency service. The city administrator shall be the director and shall name his assistant.

DIRECTOR — Set 7:30 p.m. Jan. 5 to meet with the Parks and Recreation Commission in closed meeting to select a parks and recreation director.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. next Tuesday and canceled the regular meeting of Dec. 28.

State Colleges Raises Favored By Trustees

A handful of members from the State College Board of Trustees yesterday voiced support for salary increases ranging from 9 to 24 per cent for more than 12,000 college employees.

The committee on faculty and staff affairs failed to draw a quorum for the meeting at Sonoma State College, but acting as a subcommittee of four members found agreement in recommending the raises.

Staff members had recommended increases ranging from 7.5 to 22.5 per cent. Trustee Alec L. Cory of San Diego proposed the higher increases because data collected in October showed that college employees in the administrative and support staffs lagged well behind comparable classes in private industry and other governmental agencies.

Deadly Fumes In Tunnel Air Vent

PORT HURON, Mich. (UPI) —The State Health Department says there were deadly methane gas fumes in an air vent drilled through a Lake Huron water tunnel shortly before an explosion that killed 22 workers.

The presence of methane was confirmed Tuesday

1,000 Riders, Few Stalls In Marin Buses' Debut

More than 1,000 passengers rode the Golden Gate Bridge District's new local bus system in Marin on Monday's opening day, despite the breakdown of four of the 23 buses operating.

The breakdowns, all blamed on minor manufacturing errors, did not cause delays longer than 10 minutes except for one late in the morning in Novato. It took 45 minutes in that case for a substitute bus to take over the service, district officials reported yesterday.

The passenger count was about double the average daily patronage reported by Marin Transit Systems Inc. after a year of operation. The district's local service, subsidized by the county, took over the private company's limited hourly service and provides half-hourly service throughout much of the county.

The district's full fleet, totaling 154 buses, will be used in the local service to detect bugs before commuter operations begin in Jan. 3, officials said.

Only one breakdown was reported yesterday on the second day of operations, and minor delays experienced Monday were not repeated, they said.

The district's bus transit manager, H. Donald White, said problems detected in any bus promptly were corrected in all the other buses. The problems generally were fittings either too loose or too tight because of assembly errors by General Motors.

In addition to the local riders, district buses carried about 700 passengers on the feeder service to the Sausalito and Tiburon ferries, White reported.

The second passenger count will be made early next week, he said. The constant flood of telephone queries to district offices about the bus service should mean "a good figure" in the next patronage count, he said, but he declined to predict the count.

Airline Rents Liner Decks For Hotel Use

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —The City Council Tuesday approved a 25-year lease by an airline to turn part of the Queen Mary into a hotel.

Pacifica Southwest Airlines agreed to refurbish three decks into a 400-room hotel to be opened within 15 months at an estimated cost of $4 million.

Charges Against Newton Dropped

OAKLAND (UPI) — District Attorney Lowell Jensen today dropped manslaughter charges against Black Panther cofounder Huey P. Newton after three unsuccessful attempts since 1968 to make them stick.

Jensen moved before Superior Court Judge William J. Hayes to drop the indictment because, he said, there was no new evidence and he feared another trial would result in another hung jury.

Newton has been tried three times for the 1967 killing of Policeman John Frey on an Oakland street. He was convicted in 1968 but the State Court of Appeal overturned the decision on grounds of judicial error.

Two separate trials on manslaughter this year have ended in hung juries.

"I feel this is a frustration of justice, but I am compelled to ask at this time for a dismissal," Jensen said.

"I do not feel that we will get other than a hung jury on the basis of the present evidence."

Newton was accused of shooting Frey to death in a gun battle after the policeman stopped him for a traffic violation.

He was charged with murder in his first trial. The jury reduced it to manslaughter and convicted him. He served 22 months in prison before the appellate court reversed the decision last year because the judge gave erroneous instructions to the jury.

The second jury, last summer, was deadlocked 11-1 for conviction. The third, last week, split 6-6.

Newton's attorney, Charles Garry, answered simply, "no," when Judge Hayes asked him if he had any objections to Jensen's motion.

On that basis, the judge said, "the action is dismissed." On Garry's request, Newton's $50,000 bail was released.

There was no demonstration in the courtroom, packed with Newton's supporters, but they broke out into broad smiles.

Garry then rushed off to Judge Redmond Staats courtroom in the same building for a hearing for the Panthers' other co-founder, Bobby G. Seale.

Seale was charged with violating his probation on an old conviction for unlawful display of a weapon. The prosecution contended Seale's actions at the 1969 Chicago Conspiracy trial in which he was sentenced to four years for contempt of court constituted a violation of his probation.

Ex-Employee Claims Cash Really His

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A former employee of Sally Stanford who is on trial for stealing nearly $14,000 from her San Francisco home in July 1970 said yesterday he had had a "mother and son" relationship with the Sausalito restaurant owner.

Hardy Cleveland Harrison, 42, made this claim in San Francisco Superior Court where he is charged with burglarizing Miss Stanford's Pacific Heights mansion.

Harrison admitted entering her home but said the money he took was his and that he had left it in Miss Stanford's safe for safekeeping.

The money, $13,768, including $8,000 in loose change, was recovered within hours after it was taken when two policemen found Harrison slumped over the wheel of a parked pickup truck.

Scattered throughout the cab of the truck were $100 bills and in the back were eight canvas bags, containing pounds of coins.

Harrison yesterday told a jury of nine women and three men that he had operated the parking lot at the Valhalla Restaurant for many years and that Miss Stanford "was my friend for all those years. "I called her Mother," he added.

He said he went to the house to retrieve his money after he stopped running the parking lot and opened up a Berkeley coin shop.

Earlier, Miss Stanford testified that the money taken belonged to her, not Harrison.

The case was due to go to the jury today in Judge Raymond J. Arata's courtroom.

Nod Is Given Apartments

The unit to be built by Sue Mills Inc. at 66 Via Holon will be a three-story structure on an 18,000 square foot lot, according to the site and plan report.

Residents have complained about high density on the hill, but no one objected to this development, according to John W. Appleton, city planner.

The commisison also referred to the architectural review committee a proposed ordinance making the committee a seven-man board with more influence on the decision of the commission, Appleton said.

Sausalito Dinghy, Motor Are Stolen

A dinghy and an outboard motor, worth a total of $745, were stolen between 4:30 p.m. Thursday and 5:30 p.m. Monday from a yacht berthed in Basin Two of the Clipper Yacht Harbor, Sausalito police said yesterday.

Officers said the items were taken from the rear of a boat belonging to Cecil E. Miller, 18 Edgewood Avenue, Mill Valley. The chains and padlocks which secured the dinghy and motor to the craft had apparently been cut, police said.

India-Pakistan War but could bring it closer. Both New Delhi and Rawalpindi reported more fighting in the Kashmir region 1,000 miles away and in other areas of East Pakistan.

Informed Indian sources in New Delhi said Vassily Kuznetzov, first deputy Soviet foreign minister, was delaying his departure from New Delhi pending developments. They said the Soviet Union was ready to recognize the rebel Bangla Desh government, sign a friendship treaty and send economic assistance.

Pakistan Radio made no mention of the cease-fire message from Dacca but it called the situation there "grim" and said President Yahya Khan would make a radio broadcast to the nation Thursday night.

Reports of the call for a cease-fire first broadcast by All India Radio were monitored by the United States and the information quickly passed on to top U.S. officials in Washington. There was no immediate U.S. comment.

Well-informed Indian sources said that while the contents of Niazi's message could not be disclosed, it was tied in with political efforts underway at the United Nations and elsewhere to bring an end to the fighting between India and Pakistan.

"This is not soleya situation-where Pakistani military commanders are making decisions on their own," one Indian source said.

Head Start Is Seeking Materials

Materials and tools for doing homework and school work are being sought by the Marin Head Start program as Christmas gifts for its students, according to Dany Hayden, parent coordinator for the program.

Needed are slates, wooden puzzles, paint sets, drawing paper, manipulative toys, design materials, magnifying glasses, small scales and books, as well as letter and numeral drawing sets, he said.

Hayden said many of the youngsters who attend the classes do not have the money to purchase materials they need for work outside school.

Donations may be brought to the San Rafael Head Start office, 930 Tamalpais Avenue (the old railroad depot).

Further information can be obtained from Hayden at the Marin City office of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council.

Annexations Top Commission Agenda

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission, meeting today at 7:30 p.m. at the Civic Center, is expected to devote most of its time to sanitary district annexations.

The only major annexation to be considered involves a cluster of homes in the Country Club Heights area to the San Rafael Sanitary District. Residents have complained of failing septic tanks.

Lay Teacher Dispute To Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco must show in court next month why it should not be stopped from taking alleged reprisals against lay teachers who went on strike for 3 1-2 weeks at seven Bay Area high schools.

Superior Court Judge Francis McCarty Tuesday set Jan. 19 for the show cause hearing. However, he refused to issue a temporary restraining order against asserted retaliatory action. The order was requested by Local 224 of the American Federation of Teachers.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the National Labor Relations Board today said the teachers' union is expected to withdraw an unfair labor practice action against the archdiocese today.

The Archdiocese said the NLRB had threatened to decline jurisdiction and dismiss the charge unless it was withdrawn before tomorrow. The labor board spokesman declined comment on why the charge was to be withdrawn.

The teachers charged the Archdiocese failed to bargain in good faith when they filed the action Dec. 6.

The Rev. Bernard Cummins, superintendent of schools, denied any reprisals were taken against those who simply went on strike.

However, he said discipline is being meted out to those who took part in a sit-in at the Chancery office.

A spokesman for the archdiocese quoted McCarty as saying: "unlawful trespass could not be condoned as legitimate strike action and does provide proper grounds for disciplinary action by the archdiocese."

Stewart Weinberg, attorney for the AFT, said school officials had agreed to refrain from certain actions the lawsuit claimed were being taken.

These included placing strikers on probation for no reason and removing a teacher from a coaching job, he said.

Some 115 teachers returned to work about a week ago after terms of a new contract were worked out.

However, Father Cummins said he would not sign the pact until a representation election is held.

Lawyers for both sides are expected to meet shortly on plans to hold a collective bargaining election.

"If we're lucky," Weinberg said. "We can get this thing cleaned up before the next court hearing."

with us," Roney said. He would have drowned. We would have drowned, too."

"I'm glad I wasn't in the water," David said. "But a wave did wash over me once. Both men were delirious when I pulled them out."

With both divers nauseous and in shock, the youth ran up the coast for aid. He hailed two campers, instructing them to alert park rangers and call an ambulance. He returned to the weakened divers and covered them with blankets.

Rangers arrived with stretchers, but were unable to descent a cliff to get to the stricken men. The youth stayed with the divers for two hours, moving them back from an incoming tide, until they were able to walk out of the area.

"I knew what to do," said David.

Hearing Due In Assault Case

Johnnie Harris, 25, of Richmond, faces a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court on Jan. 11 on a felony assault charge.

He was arrested by San Rafael police Nov. 26 on a complaint by Pamela Black of 45 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, who said Harris had beaten her up following an argument.

Development Issue Will Not Be Heard

The Larkspur City Council will not hear an appeal today by the Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills seeking to build a 224-unit apartment development on Bon Air Hill, according to Barbara Bruton, city clerk.

She said the council will set a hearing on the appeal for Dec. 28. The Independent-Journal reported yesterday the hearing would be at the council meeting today at 8 p.m.

come up with a general realign-absent on business, and Flournoy left the session early.

Reinecke earlier said Californians want and will get from the commission a "reapportionment that is not captive of the incumbents to the public office, one which reflects the one-man, one-vote concept required by the U.S. Supreme Court as well as communities of interest, including the needs of ethnic and minority segments of our society."

Assemblyman Henry Waxman, Democratic chairman of the Assembly Reapportionment Committee and one of the drafters of the lawsuit, said Reinecke's action "seriously interfers with the job of the Legislature in reapportioning itself."

Reinecke said when the legislature adjourned its marathon regular session Dec. 5 without acting on reapportionment, the lawmakers, in effect, stopped the long and complex pre-election processes at the local level.

Gov. Ronald Reagan agreed to add reapportionment to the agenda of the legislature's special session, which resumes Friday. But Reinecke insists any redistricting plan approved by the legislature and signed by Reagan would be unconstitutional because it was not produced during a regular session.

The legislature, on the other hand, contends the commission is invalid because it violates due process and equal protection provisions of the 14th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution and because the State Supreme Court in 1965 struck down geography as a basis for representation in the state Senate.

her teaching to take such a stand.

The controversy surrounding the book, which has been described as a "revolution kit," began in October when a parent (who has no children in Mrs. Franklin's class) complained about it.

Though various groups have objected to its use, the only official complaint over the book, used in a unit on propaganda to illustrate new left philosophy, came from the San Rafael Elks Lodge.

Mrs. Franklin, who once was honored by the Freedoms Foundation for patriotic contributions to youth, offered after the complaint to scrap all 35 copies of the 752-page book and mimeograph portions she found useful.

By board action last night, this is what she now will do.

(Mrs. Franklin figured in a controversy about 10 years ago at Paradise High School in Butte County where she was called un-American. She later won a libel suit against her accusers.)

Last night's unanimous board vote came following a long but polite discussion, in contrast to the October session.

Col. Walter S. Filler, chairman of the Americanism committee for the Elks Lodge, called the book a "revolutionary and pornographic compilation ... neither fit for any educational use or purpose and also unfit to be in any home or viewed by any family group."

(Many objections to the book had been over sections on how to roll marijuana cigarettes and "understanding orgasm." Dr. Plank said presumably Mrs. Franklin will not include these portions for class use.)

Plank also said following the meeting that there are several copies of the book in the school library which will remain there but that all the copies issued to students "seem to have disappeared."

Former Trustee Anita Strom said her concern was over "the new left being sold to students" and asked that all social studies material used at the high school be made available for public review, a request which board president Paul L. Jones said would be met soon.

A high school student, Brian Perkins, called the book "ridiculous," but added he did not support censorship.

American Civil Liberties Union lawyer Robert McCreadie agreed with him, saying that youngsters needed to learn divergent views in a classroom situation. "Do you want your child to go out into the world a total innocent?" he asked.

Many of the approximately 110 persons in the audience had left before the vote on the matter because the board, after listening to the audience, took up other matters before acting on the book matter.

Although trustees refused to endorse Mrs. Franklin personally, they did adopt a motion saying they supported teaching on controversial subjects in a controlled classroom situation in accordance with a board policy.

$70 Billion Defense Bill Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House approved a $70.5 billion defense appropriation bill today and apparently resolved a dispute over funds for the District of Columbia that had threatened to block a quick adjournment of Congress.

That left as the only major stumbling block to adjournment a dispute over whether a Senate end-the-war amendment should be tacked to foreign aid legislation, or whether a resolution should be passed to allow foreign aid spending to continue temporarily at the present level.

Several senators promised to filibuster in an effort to defeat the emergency foreign aid measure. Debate was not expected to begin in the Senate on the foreign aid proposal until late today. Foreign aid was last on the calendar after all other matters were disposed of.

The defense money bill represented a compromise between separately passed House and Senate measures. Its total was about $3 billion less than sought by the administration to finance most Pentagon activities during the fiscal year that began last July 1.

The defense bill was approved on a 292 to 39 roll call vote and sent to the Senate.

No details were immediately available on the compromise on District of Columbia legislation reported reached between House leaders.

Also ready for quick action was another House-Senate conference agreement, this one on extending unemployment benefits.

Proving a stickier problem was the appropriation for the District of Columbia government. House Republicans on the joint conference committee considering separately-passed House and senate bills refused to sign a draft agreement. House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan spent a good part of his day working on them and by nightfall Tuesday said he thought the odds were pretty good the issue could be resolved today.

RIDGE

economic survival, doomed, the residents argue.

Broman appeared before the board yesterday with a suggestion that MUDA become developer of the ridgeland for Cal Development, with options to buy. He also said he could help the group obtain financing. The supervisors told him to present his proposal to the redevelopment agency and housing authority.

Supervisor Michael Wornum, who suggested the month's delay, said the added time would enable further opportunity, meanwhile, for direct negotiations with Cal Development on obtaining an option on the ridgeland. Further, preliminary results of federally funded planning and economic studies of Marin City are due in 30 days, and these might influence future development both within and around the community, Wornum said.

Although voting in favor of Wornum's proposal, Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste went a step further than his colleagues in supporting "absolute control" of the ridgelands by the community and calling for creation of separate administrative staffs for the redevelopment agency and housing authority.

Shepherd has been the chief target of the residents' wrath for developing the mutual release approach.

Cal Development was offered the ridgeland 10 years ago as an incentive to undertake redevelopment within Marin City — a job that was certain to result in financial losses. The firm since has paid $441,000 for the property, but the redevelopment agency last year refused to accept final payment when 50 acres of redevelopment inside the community hadn't been completed.

About 50 community residents protested the transfer before the supervisors yesterday, demanding ouster of housing authority and redevelopment agency members. Their demand was backed by a petition with abut 400 signatures.

Arthur Miller, chairman of the housing authority, said the mutual releases were the "only way to get out" of a "mess" that had been created by an earlier housing authority and redevelopment agency administration.

The ouster bid angered Supervisor John F. McInnis. He said "government would be chaos" if members of government agencies were repeatedly removed because their acts controverted citizen wishes.

ment agreement" fixing new exchange rates.

In Johannesburg, South African Finance Minister Nicolaas Diederich said a formal devaluation of the dollar would mean "in effect an increase in the price of gold in terms of the dollar."

The announcement sent the value of the dollar plunging against most major currencies in Europe Tuesday.

In Milan, the dollar fell to 601 lire, its lowest exchange rate there since the end of World War II.

Swiss banks suspended major trading transactions involving dollars but said they would continue to exchange dollars for tourists.

In London, the Bank of London intervened in exchange markets with massive dollar purchases to keep the dollar at 2.5190 to the British pound, its lowest since the pound was devalued by 14.3 per cent four years ago.

Japan said dollar devaluation may bring about a quicker solution to the world's monetary instability.

But Americans living in Japan on dollar earnings were glum, their salaries were cut again.

The dollar slumped in Tokyo to 321.90 yen to $1, the lowest level the dollar has been quoted in Japan since the yen was freed from its fixed rate of 360-1 on Aug. 28.

In Washington, Congressional leaders and financial experts on Capitol Hill said they supported President Nixon's plan.

"Glorious," exclaimed Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., an authority on international monetary affairs who has sponsored a bill to devalue the dollar by as much as 10 per cent.

Judge Otto Kerner Is Indicted

CHICAGO (UPI) — Federal Appeals Court Judge Otto Kerner was indicted today on charges of bribery, mail fraud, tax evasion, perjury, and conspiracy with four other persons on charges stemming from race track transactions when Kerner was Illinois governor from 1961 to 1968.

Kerner, 63, named to the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on April 22, 1968, by President Lyndon B. Johnson, is only the fourth federal appeal judge in history to be indicted by a federal grand jury.

The announcement of the indictment was made first in Washington by Attorney General John N. Mitchell and then in Chicago by U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson.

Indicted with Kerner were former state officials appointed by Kerner during his governorship and a Chicago business woman who was secretary to one of the other indicted men. All were named in a 19-count, 64-page indictment returned by the federal grand jury in Chicago.

Kerner, a Democrat often described as "impeccable" in appearance and action, was a protege first of Democratic National Committeeman Jacob M. Arvey and then of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley. His stature was such that President Johnson named him to head the National Commission on Civil Disorders.

There was no immediate comment from Democratic party chieftains about the indictments — but it was sure to be noted the indictments came from a Republican administration. Thompson said Kerner had asked "to be relieved" of his duties as federal judge. He did not say it was a resignation. Thompson said none of the defendants would be arrested and arraignments would be held after the first of the year.

OBITUARIES

NATHAN DUBIN

Funeral for Nathan Dubin, 76, father of Mill Valley artist Leah Schwartz, was today in Los Angeles.

Dubin, a retired meat cutter who lived in Elsinore, Riverside County, died Monday at a Marin County hospital after becoming ill while on a visit to his daughter and son-in-law, Dr. Herman Schwartz.

Dubin was born in Russia and had lived in California 30 years.

In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Schwartz, he is survived by his wife, Rose, of the family home in Elsinore; another daughter, Betty Shrift of Vestal, N.Y., and six grandchildren.

Burial was in Mount Sinai Memorial Park.

MARIE SHEA

Marie L. Shea, 77, a Petaluma resident for 23 years, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Shea was born and reared in Charles City, Iowa, and had lived in Minnesota before moving to Petaluma in 1948. Her husband, Patrick Shea, died in 1970. Mrs. Shea made her home with her daughter, Ann Matteri, 20 Branching Way.

She is also survived by a son, John Shea of Petaluma; a sister, Anna Ripley of Menahga, Minn.; a brother, Russell Haley of Point Reyes Station; and three grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Friday at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Petaluma, followed by burial at Calvary Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Sorensen Funeral Home.

'LIKE SANTA'S HOUSE'

Ex-Bank Holds A Hoard Of Toys

By MARY LEYDECKER

"We want kids to feel like they're coming to Santa's house," said a volunteer helping decorate the San Anselmo center where Christmas toys for poor children are being collected.

The old brick building at 232 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard — built about 1912 to house a bank and more recently an Economic Opportunity Council office — is rapidly being transformed into a Santa's workshop.

The windows are decorated with Christmas lights and fresh new toys are displayed. Inside, volunteers are sorting and repairing games, dolls, wheel toys and a myriad of other toys.

Project Help, as the program is called, is a coordination of various community efforts, including the Marine Corps' "Toys for Tots," and projects by Scouts, Campfire Girls, schools, civic organizations, store employees and many others.

The EOC pays the rent for the building and provides two vehicles for picking up toys. There is no paid staff — all the help is volunteer, including Robert Collins, who is in charge of the project for the second year.

"We hope to give each child at least one new toy and better, two," Collins said last week.

New toys are being neatly stored in the vault of the former bank, arranged on shelves by their type. "We received some beautiful new toys from the employees at the Emporium," one of the volunteers, Troia Arcieri, said.

More new toys are needed, however, Collins said, suggesting that such gifts from groups or individuals can be brought to the center.

Yesterday a pile of unsorted toys just delivered by volunteers as well as by Marines stood inside the door of the old building.

Beyond what was orginally the bank counter, toys were neatly divided into types, while volunteers sorted and cleaned others.

A student from Terra Linda High School, Lauri King, patiently brushed the hair of a doll. Doll clothes are taken to a laundromat and washed, Collins said.

Collins expalined, "We want this to be like a boutique, where people can select toys."

Instead of the old-fashioned way of distributing toys to needy families at their homes, Project Help allows families to come to the center on Dec. 22 and 23 and make their own selections of what the children really want.

Notices of the center have been sent out with welfare checks and many other agencies tell people about it, Collins said.

"We will probably have a couple of hundred people come in," he said. He added that there are other centers in Novato, West Marin and Marin City, but that many toys from San Anselmo will be sent to Marin City.

A Christmas tree stands on the counter cheerfully decorated, and Miss Arcieri asked that people bring in unused decorations for distribution to the poor.

Along with the toys, the ingredients for Christmas dinner will be given to families coming to the center.

The EOC will provide turkeys and hams, Collins said, but the rest of the food hopefully will come from sorely needed donations of cash and food.

Collins said more volunteers also are needed to sort and clean toys. Volunteers on the two distribution days will also help those who come in, much as store clerks wait on customers.

Looking through the stack of toys, Collins said, "It's amazing how things work out. Here's a wheel that came in several days ago. Today we got a carriage with three wheels — and the other wheel matches perfectly."

More families than ever before are touring caves together, according to a survey taken by Bob Hudson, director of Onondaga Cave on U.S. 66 in Leasburg, Mo.

Drug Pleas Are Entered

A San Francisco man and a Bolinas woman have pleaded innocent in Marin Superior court to illegal drug possession.

James Ernest Davis, 40, of San Francisco and Cynthia Lee Spittler, 21, of 410 Yucca Slreet, Bolinas, appeared before Judge Henry J. Broderick Monday. Davis is accused of possessing cocaine and Miss Spittler of having LSD on Oct. 2.

The two were arrested with three others on Oct. 2 when Marin County narcotics agents raided the home at 410 Yucca Street.

The other three failed to show up in court Monday. Warrants of arrest were issued for:

Every man, woman and child in the U.S.A.*

It would be impossible to count all the automobiles, tractors and farm machines, large and small motors, appliances, electric lights and everything else in the United States that are power-operated.

But the Census Bureau does count the people who use these things: 205 million Americans in 1970, over 25 million more than there were only ten years ago.

*Each one of us uses, on the average, three gallons of oil and 300 cubic feet of natural gas every day—half again as much as we used back in the 1950's. It takes thousands of oil and natural gas companies to supply it all.

Oil and natural gas supply 75 percent of the nation's energy needs: almost all transportation, most of what is used for cooking and heating, about 40 percent of our electricity. In addition, more than 3,000 different products are made from or with oil and natural gas, including paper, paint, perfume, packaging materials, chemicals, medicines, and many others.

It gets more difficult and more expensive every year to supply all this oil and natural gas. The oil companies of America have to search offshore, in the frozen north of Alaska, in marshes and deserts and rugged, remote country throughout the world, to find what you need.

We work to keep America working; to get the most potential, the least pollution, from every drop of oil.

The U.S.A. and its 205 million people use all we can get.

A country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

The Oil Companies of America

Task Forces Progress Is Reviewed

The Tamalpais High School District received its first progress report last night from its four task forces on goals and found one lagging behind the others.

According to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, the board wondered why the Tamalpais High School task force included only two community representatives, but Principal Raymond J. Bell said the task force has not progressed far enough to decide who should be represented or how they should approach the task.

Hawkins said the task forces at Redwood, Sir Francis Drake and San Andreas high schools have drawn up processes for arriving at goals and have begun them.

The Drake task force, which began soon after the board adopted Hawkin's decentralization program in April, has held more than 100 public meetings on goals, the superintendent said.

He said San Andreas and Drake task forces are just beginning hearings.

Hawkins said the four task forces are expected to announce their goals and how to translate them into programs at an April meeting.

The task forces were set up as part of Hawkin's plan to distribute more decision-making authority to the individual schools.

Youth's Leg Broken In Crash

San Rafael police said Stephen G. Metzger, 17, of 16 Denning Avenue, was injured when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by James Houston Williams II, 17, of 472 Cedar Hill Drive, San Rafael, at 8:16 a.m.

Tam Budget Down; Tax Rate Hike Seen

The Tamalpais High School District board has received a preliminary 1972-73 budget of $10,050,396, down about $500,000 from this year.

The budget and income projections were to be discussed last night, but were put over to Jan. 3 because of the length of the meeting.

Although the budget proposal is less than this year's, it would require a tax rate increase. If the rate is held at this year's level of $1.88 per $100 assessed valuation, income will be $9,838,000, according to district figures.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins said the budget will probably be trimmed to keep the same tax rate.

This year, the district dipped into reserves to balance the budget, but will not do so next year, Hawkins said.

The budget estimate does not include any salary increase, but notes that each 1 per cent jump would cost $75,000, or about 2 cents on the tax rate.

The district has a tax rate ceiling of $1.94 according to Frank A. Cassou, business director.

Tamalpais High School District board also:

ON LOCATION — Heard a favorable report on Redwood High School's On Location program for 50 students and decided to hear another report Jan. 3 on proposed changes in the spring program.

FRESHMAN ENGLISH — Received a letter and an oral complaint from Edward Faber of Mill Valley that freshman English at Tamalpais High School is devoted to how to communicate, not to basic skills. Hawkins was directed to report back on the validity of the complaint.

TAX GRIPE — Received a letter from John Murray of Tiburon complaining about high taxes and waste exemplified, he claimed, by high absenteeism and book losses.

NEW TEACHERS — Hired Barbara Lachelt as a part-time science teacher for $8,499 a year and Karen Nelson as a part-time homemaking teacher for $3,826 a year.

LEAVES — Granted leaves of absence to teachers John Mathewson and Susan Dohrmann to do graduate study and to George Suzdaleff to teach overseas next school year.

COACHES — Approved pay totalling almost $11,000 for 24 coaches of winter sports at Redwood, Tamalpais and Drake high schools.

NIGHT TEACHERS — Approved hourly rates from $7.50 to $8.50 for 38 night school teachers.

DINNER — Adjourned from 7 to 8 p.m. for dinner at the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur where the bill to the district was $28.13, Hawkins said.

WAGE FREEZE — Decided to ask the Internal Revenue Service to allow it to pay retroactively 4.8 per cent pay increases to teachers that went into effect Nov. 15 instead of Sept. 1 because of the wage-price freeze.

Fairfax Sets Tennis Club Plan Talks

The Fairfax City Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow with its planning commission to discuss a proposal for a 128-unit housing development and tennis club.

Plans for the Canon Village and Tennis Club at Glen Drive and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard were approved by the planning commission in October, but the council withheld approval and referred the proposal back to the commission last month.

Fears of increased traffic and smog, demand for additional school services and a heightened "impact" on Fairfax were cited by councilmen during their discussion of the proposal.

Following the joint session with the council at the Fairfax Women's Club, the planning commission will consider other business, including a discussion of Marin County zoning of property west of the Fairfax city limits.

'Firebombs' Only Aimed At Eyesores

An employee at Grange Debris Box Rentals in San Rafael called police yesterday the minute he found 98 cases marked "missile igniters" and "sky firegrenades" hidden in a shed on the company's property at 2031 Francisco Boulevard.

David Martinez's discovery, however, was not the uncovering of some radical plot to blow up half of Marin.

Instead, police learned, the $5,000 worth of "firebombs" are just sitting there waiting for permission from the Marin County Board of Supervisors to burn the hugh drydocks mired in Richardson Bay off Sausalito.

The proposal, presented to the board a year ago by Fred Grange of San Rafael and Ralph L. Fenner of Tiburon, would cost about $30,000. Supervisor Michael Wornum asked the board in September to include the money in next year's budget.

Meanwhile, Grange and Fenner are faced with the problem of storing what they call the "ignition system" for the proposed high energy burning project.

Fenner said he moved the devices to the shed at Grange's company during the weekend, but failed to tell Grange about it.

He said the devices are not explosive and they are extremely safe. "There's no danger of an explosion," he said.

The drydocks were brought to Marin in 1966 by the late Delmar D. Wise. Following his death, they were sold to the present owner, J. Christopher Roberts, who wanted to create a cultural center on the drydocks. Marin County asked the courts to remove the structures as an eyesore and navigation hazard.

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner ordered Roberts to remove them in October 1968, but Roberts maintains he has no money for the demolition.

The county called for bids last December, but found the cost of conventional demolition would be nearly $75,000.

'Newsroom' Cutback Due

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The award-winning "Newsroom" television news program is being trimmed by educational station KQED because of financial problems.

A station spokesman said the program will be cut from one hour to a half-hour within the next month.

KQED is cutting 19 employes from its payroll, including three "Newsroom" staff members. Station manager Richard Moore said financial considerations dictate the cutback. He said income from listeners to the non-profit station this year will be $300,000 under the expected total of $900,000.

Cycle Stolen

A 1971 red Honda motorcycle was stolen from the garage of its owner, Guido V. Battaglia, 268 Devon Drive, San Rafael, between 9 a.m. Monday and 2 p.m. yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Santa Cannot Ignore Meters In Sausalito

A plea by the head of a Sausalito businessmen's group that the city hood its downtown parking meters for the next 10 days, until Christmas, was rejected unanimously last night by the Sausalito City Council.

But the council also agreed, in principal, to a suggestion by City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr to lower parking rates in Municipal Lot No. 1 from 75 to 50 cents an hour during the winter months.

The council postponed action on the rate change to determine if the council could have more flexibility in operating the lot and raising and lowering rates if it administered the facility as a parking authority.

In making the request that the council allow free parking in metered downtown zones, Robert D. Bauerle, president of the Sausalito Businessmen's Association, said downtown merchants "are suffering."

The city manager estimated it would cost the city approximately $300 a day in revenue, or a total of $3,000, to hood the meters for 10 days.

"If we planned to do something like this, we would have to budget for it," Councilman Robin Sweeny said.

The council asked St. Cyr and the city attorney to study the matter and report back at its meeting next Tuesday.

The Sausalito City Council also:

COUNTY PLAN — Objected to the following proposals contained in the preliminary countywide plan: Promotion of tourism, construction of roadways in the Marin Headlands, enlargement or expansion of Highway 101, residential developments in agricultural and open space areas and conversion of agricultural or open spaces areas for intensive recreational use.

BRIDGE DISTRICT — Granted a three-week extension of the Golden Gate Bridge District's conditional use permit to operate a ferry service in Sausalito. The district had asked for a 120-day extension of the permit, which expires today. But the council asked for a meeting with district officials next Tuesday to determine if the district's plans to build two terminals in Sausalito, downtown and in Marinship, coincide with the council's wishes as to what the terminals will be.

FUNDS — Authorized the city public works director to apply for $17,500 from the county's urban thoroughfare funds to pay half the cost of building center islands on Bridgeway from Colma Street to the north city limits. The remaining one half of the cost will come from state gas tax funds.

STREETS — Introduced an ordinance making Johnson, Pine and Locust streets one-way, eastbound between Caledonia and Bridgeway.

APPOINTMENTS — Reappointed Audrey Emmons and Paul J. Ronan to one-year terms on the Sausalito Community Appearances Advisory Board.

NOISE CONTROL — Appointed Carl Spring, Raymond L. Roy and Louis Wilkinson to a citizens committee to study a proposed noise control ordinance for the city. The group will also study a similar ordinance recently adopted by the City of Los Altos Hills which St. Cyr said is "more readily understandable to the public" than the one now proposed for Sausalito. The committee is to make recommendations to the council within 60 days.

HEIGHTS — Introduced an ordinance specifying methods of measuring building height in the city.

Another School Bus Approved

The Cotati School District board last night approved leasing an additional bus after hearing reports of crowded conditions.

The board heard that buses are regularly filled to capacity and that teachers have been driving children home because bus seats are not available.

Schools Supt. James H. Davidson said an enrollment increase is expected in January when homes in the new Holiday Park subdivision are occupied and said an additional bus would easily be filled.

He estimated the cost of the bus lease at $6,000 per year.

In other action, the board voted to cancel the Dec. 28 board meeting. The next meeting will be Jan. 11.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

11:59 a.m., Novato — False alarm at Long's Drug store, Seventh Street; testing of sprinkler system set off alarm.

8:05 p.m., Novato — Fire in trash bin behind Glen Five and Ten, 448 Ignacio Boulevard; cause undetermined.

10:30 p.m., Novato — Engine fire in van near 7552 Redwood Highway; caused by carburetor backfire; damage estimated at $100. Truck was driven by Keith Bowman, no address given.

1:10 p.m., San Rafael — Accidental alarm in building at 715 Francisco Boulevard; tripped by workmen.

Park Plaza Plan To Be Discussed

Sausalito's proposed Park Plaza plan, along with recommended changes in the proposal, will be discussed at a joint workshop meeting of the Sausalito planning and recreation commissions at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The session is the third in a series of study meetings.

Tennis Club Gets Nod On Prezoning

The Novato Planning Commission has recommended prezoning of 33 acres at Olive Avenue and Deer Island Lane, where a $3 million tennis project is planned.

Commissioners Mnday recommended planned commercial zoning for the site, expected to be annexed to the city.

The proposed development, to be known as Olive Ridge Tennis Club, will include 22 private courts, six public courts, a stadium and pool.

Attilo Quartaroli, San Francisco contractor, who plans to build the complex, applied for the prezoning.

The commission's scheduled public hearing on the housing element of the Novato General Plan was cancelled because the staff forgot to send out hearing notices. It was reset for 8 p.m. Jan. 3 at the Novato Community House.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

TAMAK ESTATES — Approved a tentative map of Tamak Estates, a 16-lot subdivision on 4.6 acres, north of Vineyard Road and east of Sutro Avenue, submitted by Wayne Womack and Ross Tankersley.

SIGN — Granted James Eaton a permit for an illuminated free-standing sign reading "The Boat Shop" at 7000 Redwood Highway, but limited the height to 18 feet.

HORSES — Granted M.D. McGee a permit to keep six horses on two acres in the 1800 block of Marion Street, but denied a request by George Homenko to keep three horses on three-quarters of an acre in the same block.

Old Dynamite Cache Found

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A plastic bag containing a dozen sticks of deteriorating dynamite was found Monday on the lower end of Radio Road on San Bruno Mountain southeast of here, authorities reported.

Explosives experts from the San Mateo County Sheriff's Office disposed of the dynamite, dangerous because of its advance decay.

Grand Theft Innocent Plea

Thomas H. Thompson, 25, of 1327 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of car theft and grand theft.

He pleaded Monday, and Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 21 as the time for his preliminary hearing.

On Dec. 9, police arrested Thompson in a car which was reported stolen in Oakland.

Innocent Plea To Burglary Charge

Dennis K. Smith, 18, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to a burglary charge.

He appeared before Judge Henry J. Broderick Monday and denied burglarizing a Terra Linda home on Galwy Lane on Nov. 11. The judge set Feb. 28 for trial.

Suit, Jury Probe Threats Ignored; Bus Pact Passes

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Marin County Transit District directors last night approved a long-stalled contract with Marin Transit Systems Inc., ignoring threats of a grand jury investigation and a taxpayer's suit challenging the $190,000 subsidy to the Marin City-based bus company.

The threats were made by Donald M. Van Dyke of Novato, speaking as director of the Marin County Taxpayers Association. His organization's demand for an investigation of the legality of the subsidy will be sent immediately to the Marin County Grand Jury, he told the Independent-Journal following the unanimous approval of the contract.

Federal officials have demanded the contract as their price for approval of a $6.1 million grant to the Golden Gate Bridge District's bus system. The contract must be in Washington this week, or the bridge district must wait another three months to get its grant.

The district's special counsel, Richard J. Smart, was poised to fly the contract back to Washington last night on what he called the "red eye express," but postponed his trip until late today to see whether bridge district officials call a special board meeting to approve minor changes in the contract.

Bridge district directors approved the joint contract on Friday, but the county transit district directors last night changed the method of payment and insurance provisions.

Officials of Marin Transit Systems signed the contract approved Friday by bridge district directors, and said last night they will sign the amended version as well when it is typed-up today.

The first version provided monthly payments of $15,000, for a total over the next year of $180,000. This was changed to $9,000 the first month, $12,000 the second month, $15,000 the third month and $16,000 a month for the following nine months.

James B. Robertson, acting general manager for the county ransit district, said the phased payments were necessary because of time needed to organize demonstration projects under the contract. The projects include transportation for senior citizens, handicapped and health care patients.

A future expansion may include bus service within Point Reyes National Seashore, he said.

The other change in the contract was to shift the burden of obtaining liability insurance from the county to the company, increasing the subsidy up to $190,000 by adding $10,000 for insurance costs.

Supervisor John F. McInnis insisted on this change, arguing the county should not be liable for any accidents the company may have.

The general manager of the Golden Gate bridge district, Dale W. Luehring, said the contract had made the county responsible for insurance in order to reduce likelihood of the state Public Utilities Commission jurisdiction, which could complicate bus operations with its elaborate procedures. Whether the amendment by McInnis would mean PUC jurisdiction over the company was not made clear last night.

The company's subsidized operations over the past year under contracts with the county and bridge districts have been exempt from the PUC because they were under public agencies not subject to the PUC's jurisdiction. If the company operated under the PUC, it could acquire vested rights in the routes it served, another issue both districts want to avoid.

Luehring noted that the company had been receiving $12,000 a month from the county and $3,000 a month from the bridge district for the local services, thus its support would be continued by the new contract — as demanded by the federal government.

The private company had been opposing the $6.1 million grant in a maneuver to get a piece of the bridge district's bus system, at one point demanding one third of the district's fleet of 154 buses.

The bridge district's involvement in the contract was limited to a promise to help the company seek other sources of funds. The contract provides that the county's subsidy will be reduced to the extent that other funds, probably federal, are obtained.

Van Dyke objected to the contract on the grounds that the state law that created the transit district required only one transit system operate in the county, a role already filled by the bridge district.

He also objected that the county's subsidies to both the private company and the bridge district were twice the total taxing power of the county transit district, which raises $365,000 a year with its property tax of five cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Van Dyke argued that the $190,000 subsidy instead should be paid by the bridge district since it was "to buy off" the company in order to free the federal grant.

And if the demonstration projects were necessary, he added, the bridge district could do them more economically than the private company.

The company, "with the assistance of federal government, is attempting to jam this contract down your throats," Van Dyke declared. He urged the board to seek "more appropriate solutions," but offered none.

Van Dyke told the Independent-Journal his organization has about 107 members.

Disability Pay Granted To Lawman

Lt. Thomas Lightfoot — a veteran of 16 years with the Marin County Sheriff's office — has been granted a disability pension by the Marin County Retirement Board.

Asst. County Treasurer Joseph Coffrini said today the 55-year-old officer was granted the "service-connected disability" Monday because of a serious heart condition.

Lightfoot was stricken by a heart attack last Christmas Day and has been under doctor's care since.

The pension will entitle him to 50 per cent of his salary for the rest of his life. His wife will receive the benefits for the rest of her life should she outlive him, Coffrini said.

Lightfoot's last position with the sheriff's office was as the officer in charge of patrols from the main office in the Hall of Justice.

"He was an excellent officer," Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos said today, adding he will be hard to replace.

Mill Valley Doesn't Need Right-Of-Way

The Mill Valley Planning Commission has decided that the city can do without a street right-of-way on which a house has been located for more than 50 years.

Planning director Tom W. Newton said the fact that a house at 55 Janes Street was built partly on the right-of-way came to light recently when owner L. E. (Bob) Robinson attempted to sell the property.

It was discovered that half the house, most of the swimming pool and all of a bathhouse were located on city-owned property, Newton said.

Following an investigation, Newton and city engineer Stanley M. Bala agreed that the city really doesn't need the right-of-way and either should give or sell it to Robinson.

The planning commission agreed, and on Monday told Robinson to conduct a title search to determine if the city holds title to the street or only an easement.

If the city holds title, the commission recommended that the city council sell it to Robinson "for a nominal fee," Newton said. If it merely holds an easement, the commission suggested giving it to the homeowner.

Newton said the house was built on the crook of a hairpin turn on Janes Street before 1920 and the ownership of the land never came to light until recently.

In other business, the commission postponed action on a use permit to allow construction of a private country club in Scott Valley. Newton said commissioners asked for more information on the proposal.

Two Injured In Collision

A Santa Rosa woman and a Petaluma man were injured yesterday in an auto collision at the intersection of Manuel T. Freitas Parkway and Del Presidio Boulevard, San Rafael police reported.

Police said a car driven by Madaline M. Trucker, 27, of Santa Rosa, attempted to turn left onto Del Presidio and collided with a car driven by Elizabeth H. Dienstag, 57, of 791 Bamboo Terrace, San Rafael, who was proceeding east on the parkway.

Mrs. Trucker and a passenger in her car, Guy P. Catenacci, 76, of 1639 Ely Road, Petaluma, complained of pain but said they would see their own doctors, police said.

Freeze Imposed On Creek Docks

Marin County Supervisors ordered a halt yesterday to the issuance of construction permits for docking facilities on Corte Madera Creek pending study of boating's impact on creekside marshlands. (Another board of supervisors story, page 1.)

The board's action came at the urging of conservationists who claimed increased motorboat traffic is threatening what little marshland is left along the creek.

The ban on new permits — issued by the county public works department — does not affect some 12 to 14 permits already issued. Those permits were issued in recent months to apartment house developers whose proposals were the center of controversy last year in Larkspur.

"Corte Madera Creek is as important to its area as Bolinas Lagoon is to the western (Marin) area," Harold Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League, told the board.

He was supported by Joi Losee, Joan Sestak and A. Charles Brouse, members of the Larkspur town meeting group and outspoken critics of creekside development in the past.

They called for an "environmental impact study" by the Army Corps of Engineers to determine whether motorboats should be allowed on the creek and if so what limitations should be imposed to protest marshlands.

In granting the permit ban, the supervisors said the group must talk the Larkspur City Council into requesting the Army study since most of the marshland in question is in Larkspur's jurisdiction, even though the county controls the dock permits.

Such an environmental study has already been urged by the Larkspur Parks and Recreation Commission.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

CLAIM — Authorized payment of $1,475 to Alfred Haro, a former employee of the public defender's office as settlement of his claim that he had been fired before his one-year probationary period was up.

CONSULTANT — Approved a $2,250 contract with Katherine Hall who will serve as a consultant to the county's police community relations project.

ABATEMENT — Continued to Jan. 4 consideration of abatement proceedings against Jack E. and Herbert L. Martin for an unauthorized fill operation at the Bothin Marsh at Dolan's Corner in Tamalpais Valley. The matter was continued at the request of the public works department which said the Martins have agreed to obtain a fill permit.

CONTRACT — Awarded a $78,120 contract to the Filipovich Construction Co. of Orinda to replace culverts on the Panoramic Highway. The firm was the lowest of six bidders.

OVERPASS — Was told that the state does not plan to improve the San Quentin Wye overpass in San Rafael until fiscal 1975-76. The board, expressing concern at the growing number of traffic accidents on the overpass, agreed to ask the state to give the overpass improvements a higher priority.

FAIRGROUNDS — Authorized the expenditure of $94,500 in "surplus" funds from the auditorium and fairgrounds budget for fairground improvement. The funds are left over from other projects.

HOSPITAL — Continued to Dec. 21 consideration of a proposal from Marin General Hospital that county morgue facilities be included in the hospital's master plan now undergoing revision.

LEGAL AID — Deferred to next week action on a request for stopgap funds from the debt-ridden Legal Aid Society of Marin, despite earlier voting 3-2 to grant the money. The legality of the vote — since it involved a transfer of funds — normally healing a four-fifths vote — was questioned by Supervisor John F. McInnis, who voted against the allocation with Louis H. Baar. The officials objected the county was consistently being asked to bail out agencies whose other funding had dried up. Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino upheld the vote's legality in a memo submitted later.

PHONE — Deferred to legal staff a request by the Association of California Consumers, based in Sausalito, to join in a request to the state Public Utilities Commission to reject a new rate increase application by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., and to order refunds from a recent phone rate hike whose validity was questioned under a state Supreme Court decision.

AUDITORIUM — Took no action on a request by McInnis to bar from future county work a contractor whose workmen apparently were responsible for a Dec. 8 flash fire in the Veterans Memorial Building that caused up to $3,000 damages. McInnis said he understood smoking workmen spraying lacquer were responsible for the blaze.

Couple Arrested In Kidnap Probe

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — A Bakersfield couple was arrested today on a Louisiana warrant charging the two with kidnaping the woman's son from his legal guardian.

The Kern County sheriff's office said Ronald Wayne Marney, 28, and his wife, Delores Marney, 26, were booked into the Kern County jail where they were to await Louisiana authorities.

Dock Union Voting On Bay Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— West Coast longshoremen began voting Tuesday on a final offer by shippers in an election required by federal law before the suspended dock strike can resume.

National Labor Relations Board officials said the ballot results of the 15,000 members of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union would be announced Friday.

Dock workers were ordered back to work Oct. 6 under a court order when President Nixon invoked the Taft-Hartley Act, suspending a 100-day walkout that nearly crippled the economy of the Western states.

An injunction under the act expires Christmas Day, but a referendum of union membership on the PMA's offer is required. The ILWU already has announced plans to resume the walkout after the holidays if the union rejects the offer.

The PMA's final offer was made Oct. 4 prior to the suspension of negotiations. Talks could be resumed prior to a second strike.

The union and employers agreed on a 72 cent per hour pay hike in the first year of a two-year pact. However, a second year wage hike, a guaranteed work week, jurisdiction over container handling and a dispute over the hiring of "steady" workers still were unresolved.

Open Safe Looted

Cash totaling $300 was stolen from an open safe at a Gulf service station at 108 Bellam Avenue, between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. yesterday while attendants were out of the office waiting on customers, San Rafael police reported today.

Survey Measures Student Pot Use

A Terra Linda High School survey shows that 50 per cent of the freshmen smoked marijuana before entering high school, the San Rafael Board of Education was told last night.

In a report on various drug abuse programs in the San Rafael high school and elementary districts, teacher William O'Bayley said, "Much more has to be done before they get to us." (Another San Rafael Schools story, page 1.)

He said a poll this year showed about the same number of students were using marijuana (either regularly or infrequently) as last year. "It's here to stay, apparently," O'Bayley, a health education teacher at Terra Linda High, said.

He said, however, that alcohol was a bigger problem with young people than drugs.

As for the effectiveness of the classes he gives on drug abuse, O'Bayley said, "I tell the kids, 'It's not hurting you to hear all this — and if one of you ends up by not hurting your parents, then the program is a success.'"

O'Bayley and other teachers described drug usage as a symptom of other problems and said just handing out information on drugs was not an adequate way to deal with it.

Lloyd Churgin, county drug and alcohol abuse coordinator, suggested that exciting schools which do not bore youngsters are the answer to drug problems.

The San Rafael Board of Education Also:

SABBATICAL — Heard a report from Terra Linda High School teacher Miriam Chown on a sabbatical leave which she spent in Europe studying science fiction.

AUDIT — Accepted an annual auditor's report from Theodore Martin of Sleezer and Eckhofff.

NAMES — Charged the names of the On Location school to Pacific Crest High School and the Work-Study Center to Madrone High School.

APPOINTMENTS — Hired Von Brannon as an instructional aide in the high school district at $2.64 an hour; Jerry Curtis, Albert Lozano and Lindsay Trimble as substitute custodians at $3.29 an hour.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Mary Lou Hurst as an instructional aide at San Rafael High School.

LEAVES — Granted leaves of absence to Dian Hunter and Salvatore Dieli, both high school instructional aides, and Linda Wylei, high school physical education teacher.

GIFTS — Accepted the following gifts: columnar pads valued at $350 from the Johnson family; material for four book cases at Coleman School from the Parent-Teacher Association; paint for Coleman School Library from Jeremy Dwyer; $330 worth of electronics parts from Electronics Plus for an electronics class at Terra Linda High School, and $100 for the San Rafael High School art department from Max Thelen Jr. in memory of Robert French.

Opposition Voiced To New Controls

HAMPTON, N. H. (UPI)— Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles believes the news media should be exempted from wage-price controls.

Yorty, campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, told a news conference Tuesday the action of a congressional conference committee rejecting a proposal to exempt media from wage and price controls could permit "subtle censorship by federal appointees of the Nixon Administration."

Sanitary Board Reelects President

Dougljs de La Fontaine was reelected president of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District last night and Eber D. Russell was chosen secretary to replace Beverly V. Wheeler, who was defeated Nov. 2 in her bid for reelection to the board.

Russell said new board member John N. Radovich, an electrical engineer, was welcomed.

'Ultimate Indiscretion' Committed

Most people suffer only embarrassment when they commit an indiscretion, but a young man who committed the ultimate faux pas — at least as far as Marin County sheriff's deputies are concerned — ended up in jail yesterday.

Sheriff's deputies in Marin City said they got a call at 9:30 a.m. yesterday of a suspicious person on Erica Road in Tamalpais Valley.

They arrived to find a man, who gave his name as Gary Bernard Schwartz, standing in the rain in a driveway at 1040 Erica Road. He appeared to be intoxicated, officers said.

He was asked to step into the patrol car to get out of the rain, officers said, which he did. He then astounded the deputies by pulling out a marijuana cigarette and lighting it.

Schwartz, who gave no age or address, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing marijuana to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Deputies said they suspect the name the man gave is an alias.

Quake Triggers Alert For Wave

HONOLULU (UPI)—The U.S. Coast and Geodetics Survey's Honolulu observatory said today that a tidal wave watch was cancel.ed after negative tide reports were received from stations at Shemya, Attu, Adak and Japan.

The tidal wave watch was issued after a severe earthquake occurred at 10:30 p.m HST Tuesday in the area of the east coast of Kamchatka in the Aleutians.

The preliminary magnitude of the quake was set at 7.8 on the Richter Scale.

The tidal wave watch was cancelled at 2:10 a.m. HST today.

Passenger In Good Condition

A Kentfield girl was reported in good condition at Ross General Hospital today with injuries suffered yesterday when a car in which she was riding struck a utility pole in San Rafael.

Susan L. Gehrke, 16, of 2 Tioga Lane, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut right knee, multiple scrapes and possible head injuries and then transferred and admitted to the Ross hospital.

The driver of the car, Steven W. Washington, 16, of 23 Sandalwood Court, San Rafael, was treated at Marin General for a head cut, the hospital said.

Washington told San Rafael police he was driving on Las Gallinas Avenue, near Cedar Hill Drive, at 11:55 a.m., when he dropped a cigarette between the seats of his car. In searching for the cigarette, he swerved, drove over a divider and struck the pole, he said.

Ship At Vallejo Has Tight Squeeze

VALLEJO, Calif. (UPI)—It was a tight squeeze, but the submarine tender Nereus helped by 10 tugs slid through the causeway between Mare Island Naval Shipyard and the mainland with a half-inch clearance Tuesday.

However, one of the tugs smashed into the drawbridge section of the causeway, ripping out 30 feet of pilings, knocking the bridge six inches out of line and causing damage estimated at $250,000.

OLD SWEDISH CUSTOM

Wearing a crown of burning candles and a star, Sandy Demarta takes a pastry. But for the rest of the day yesterday she was Santa Lucia at the Viking Pastry in San Rafael where she works. In the old Swedish custom, the eldest daughter, wearing a crown of candles, served coffee and pastry to her parents in bed on the shortest day of the year. She sings "Santa Lucia" as she wakes the family for their breakfast. The fire department might frown down on the old custom, but today's girls now generally wear crowns of battery lighted bulbs.

Two States Are Lashed By Winds

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tornadoes and severe winds lashed Missouri and Illinois early today, overturning house trailers, tearing roofs off homes, downing power lines and causing other extensive damage.

At least one death was reported in Springfield, Mo., and eight persons were injured in the Poplar Bluff area. A 125-mile stretch of southeast Illins was struck by the storm, which caused extensive damage but no reported injuries.

High wind warnings were issued for Illinois this morning in anticipation of a second onslaught of winds that had hit Missouri.

The National Weather Service also issued tornado warnings for four northern Indiana counties—Starke, Marshall, St. Joseph's and Elkhart.

Several county roads in Illinois were blocked by the storm damage and telephones were cut in the cities of Flora and Newton, state police said.

Wind gusts in excess of 50 miles an hour were reported in St. Louis, Mo., and at Columbia, Ill., winds were clocked at 68 miles an hour. At Polo, Ill., winds reached 70 mph and at Springfield winds were clocked at 72.

At least 10 persons were injured Tuesday night when eight tornadoes raced across Arkansas.

Arkansas state police said the injuries resulted when a small tornado apparently touched down at Cotter and Flippin, small towns about five miles apart in Marion County.

Freak tornadoes and thunderstorms also slashed across Texas from west to east late Tuesday, damaging many homes and businesses and injuring several persons.

All-night squads of police patrolled downtown Hurst, a Fort Worth suburb, to prevent looting of weather-damaged businesses.

At least 10 tornadoes, some seen in clusters, chewed through the area around Fort Worth, Dallas, Sherman, Waco, Cleburne and Corsicana.

A tornado also struck Halls, Tenn., early today causing from $25,000 to $30,000 in damage when it blew the roof off a local Tupperware plant. A house trailer was also blown over and the occupants were treated and released at Dyersburg Hospital.

Petaluma Youth Ask Role In Tax Election

Students should play a role in promoting the March 21 tax rate increase election, the Petaluma Board of Education decided last night.

Nancy Barlas, student representative to the board, said that students deserve to have a part in the election promotion since they have the most to gain from it. She said she believed her classmates would be willing to launch a door-to-door campaign to explain the need for increased taxes.

The board has called the election to seek an increase in the elementary district tax rate from $1.83 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.71. The high school district tax rate would go from $1.55 to $2.23 per $100 assessed valuation, if voters approve.

The board agreed with Miss Barlas that students should be directly involved and said a joint campaign with adults should be launched. Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer suggested the board appoint a steering committee in January to lead the drive.

Board Member Daniel B. Plumley said he has encountered hostile reaction to the tax increase because of alleged educational frills in the system and said the district must fully explain its programs and put misconceptions to rest if the election is to succeed.

Voters last February defeated a tax rate increase election by a margin of two to one. The elementary district has operated for 13 years without a tax rate increase and the high school district for eight years.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

YEAR-ROUND — Heard Dr. Dan Montgomery report that the study committee on the extended school year is progressing well and that questionnaires for the general public and school staff members are being prepared.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired and set salaries for three teachers including Linda Gallagher, $4,943; Dorothy Tanguay, $1,135; and Kathleen Willhite, $4,011.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of teacher Yvonne Aaseth due to maternity.

MEETING — Canceled the Dec. 28 board meeting and set the next meeting for Jan. 11.

Jury Trial In Burglary Case

Thomas Eric Grayson, 21, and Robert Louis Arnett II, 22, both of San Rafael, have been scheduled to be tried by jury in Marin Superior Court on a burglary charge, beginning Feb. 7 next year.

Both men pleaded innocent to the charge Monday before Judge Henry J.Broderick of Marin Superior Court.

They were arrested Nov. 24 and charged with the burglary of the Jack G. MacPhee home on Woods Street in San Rafael.

Ice Used More For Controlled Cooling

NEW YORK (UPI) —The use of ice instead of water by industry for controlled cooling is growing, says a trade source.

Some examples, according to Borg-Warner's York, Pa., Division, producer of ice making machines for 86 years: In construction, ice is sometimes mixed with concrete to reduce shrinkage and increase the strength of the mixture; meat packers put ice in hot dog and sausage meat to keep cutter blades of their meatgrinders from overheating; rubber companies use ice to keep latex from sticking to rollers.

A Homer For Women's Rights— In Novato Parks Youth League

A Novato woman fighting for women's rights on the baseball diamond has won a concession from the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission.

Commissioners on Monday reversed an earlier decision against letting girls play in the Farm League, according to Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director.

They ruled that girls could play in the league if there aren't enough girls to form a separate girls league, Adams said.

The Farm League serves youngsters, 9 through 12 years.

The ban was protested by M. Elizabeth Smith of 6 June Lane who said that girls should be permitted to play since half the population is female.

"Arbitrary exclusion of girls is crippling to their self esteem," she said, when the ban was imposed after two girls played in the Farm League last summer as an experiment.

The ban against girls will remain in the Peewee League, which serves players, 7 and 8 years old.

Commissioners also nominated the Marin Garden Club and Edward T. Ghirardo of 213 Grand Vista for the annual service awards presented by District One of the California Parks and Recreation Society.

The garden club, which has donated $2,000 worth of plants, was nominated as the organization which has done the most toward improvement of park and recreation facilities, Adams said.

Ghirardo was nominated for his work in flag football and basketball, 10 years with Y Indian Guides, his work with the West Marin Parent-Teacher Association and his service as chairman of the bond drive for the Novato Boys Club.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also:

POOL — Received a letter from the San Marin High School Parent-Faculty Club urging the city to proceed toward building a community pool at the school.

BASEBALL — Received a report from Adams that the engineers, grading contractors association will grade the Olive School playground for a Little League diamond Saturday, weather permitting, as its contribution to the program.

ATTENDANCE — Received a report from Adams that attendance at program last month was 27,822, up 4,122 from November 1970, a gain he attributed both to the Saturday playground program and to overall increased use of facilities.

Agnew To Light Up National Yule Tree

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will do the honors Thursday at the annual lighting of the National Christmas Tree on the Ellipse behind the White House.

The 5 p.m. EST ceremony will be attended by North Carolina Gov. Robert W. Scott, from whose state came the big Fraser fir. The Marine Band and the Lebanon Valley College Choir from Pennsylvania will be featured.

Marin Plan Recommendations, Objections Move To Council

San Rafael Planning Commissioners got down to specifics last night and unanimously adopted a list of objections and recommendations to proposed revisions of the Marin County plan.

Commission recommendations will be sent to the city council for review and, if adopted, will then go to the City-County Planning Council. The city-county council has asked that each city respond to the proposed plan by December 30.

The commission objected to the plan's limiting any intervalley connecting road between Terra Linda and Sleepy Hollow to emergency vehicles and bus traffic; to loosely defined open-space allowances for the Lucas Valley-White Hill connector and the San Rafael Waterfront Parkway across the San Rafael Canal; to possible loss of a ferry site near the Civic Center; and to a county "superagency," for planning with veto power of the government agency plans.

Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner urged the commissioners into action when he told them "other cities have reviewed the plan and made suggestions; we haven't done that in this city."

Commissioner James Dougan agreed. He said a written report from the city would be more effective than his "standing up at the City-County Planning Council and voicing my objections and the mayor's." (Dougan was referring to a city-county council meeting earlier this month when he said San Rafael would not support a county superbody with a veto power over the city).

The commission agreed that a review agency, established to study planning proposals of countywide importance, is essentially a good idea. But, said commissioner Alan Kay, "final action rests with the city."

Hotchner said, "We recognize that we'll work with the county; we're just making a point to the county planning commission of how we have to react and improve what's going on."

Hotchner said he hoped the cities and county would share an equal position on any planning review board.

As to county transportation plans, the commission decided it was to San Rafael's best interest to have an inter-connector road that will alleviate some of the city's traffic congestion. By limiting the Terra Linda-Sleepy Hollow road to emergency vehicles and buses, downtown San Rafael would bear the brunt of too many cars, the commission decided.

Hotchner also objected to the plan's policy statement that "the Lucas Valley-White Hill connector and the San Rafael Waterfront Parkway across the San Rafael Canal should not be built unless the proposed open space is secured simultaneously."

Hotchner said, "We're shown blobs of color on the map for open space. The open space area is vague and undefined and can be interpreted in any way."

The commission approved Hotchner's phrase that the parkway be built "consistent to our general plan, with view and access to the bay."

The commission also agreed with spectator Pricilla Bull, who said the removal of a ferry site at the Los Gallinas estuary near the Civic Center is inconsistent with making the Northgate-Civic Center area the hub of the county."

The plan suggested looking into "the possible civilian air use of Hamilton, or a ferry site to serve Novato."

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

TENSION LINE — Approved a new style of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. high-tension line pole, to be erected in East San Rafael, but made no commitment to purchase it.

INTERSECTION — Asked for public response to the intersection of Bellam, Jacoby and Sims streets. Hotchner said the city engineer is already designing plans that would accommodate heavy traffic easier, but would like some city response.

SIGNS — Completed sign ordinance review by saying all facia signs will consist of individual letters which will be raised and may be mounted on a cabinet. Commissioner Joseph J. Garbarino also said that some A-frame and I-frame signs in the Northgate will be reviewed for compliance.

RESERVOIR RD. — Granted conditional approval for a three-lot subdivision at Reservoir Road and Woods Street, owned by Clara Habekoss.

OPEN DECK — Granted conditional approval of open-deck encroachment to within two inches of side property. Jerry Miles, owner and applicant said he would remove the deck if his neighbor so wished.

DEBRIS BOX — Gave conditional approval to Fred Grange, 2029-2031 Francisco Blvd., to extend the expiration date of debris box storage and repair yard to April 15.

HELICOPTER — Extended permit to helicopter service and mobile office, 1637 Francisco Blvd., Cagwin, Dorward, Crowell and Vasley, owners.

FILL — Approved placement of 350,000 cubic yards of fill on undeveloped 54-acre site.

BOARDING HOUSE — Denied rooming and boarding house use at 421 Mission Ave. to Jesse and Claire Rudolph.

STORAGE — Granted conditional approval to storage area addition over existing platform and dock, 4244 Redwood Highway, Ken Testa, owner.

WAREHOUSE — Gave conditional approval to existing warehouse, 97 Louise St., L. H. Leonardi, owner. An additional 2,275 square foot area is to be used for storage.

AMENDMENT — Granted conditional approval to 26 Mark Drive, owners Joseph and Ann Morrison, for permission to hold occasional warehouse sales.

BUILDING — Granted conditional approval to 518 B Street, Mrs. L. Lamme owner, for proposed three-story apartment structure located on rear portion.

Double Burglary Case Sent To Superior Court

Christopher Kevin Greene, 20, of Mill Valley yesterday waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to superior court to answer charges of burglary and concealing stolen property. He is scheduled to appear in Marin Superior Court on Monday.

Green was arrested Nov. 21 by Fairfax police and charged with burglarizing the John Kelly residence on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Fairfax on two occasions, Nov. 7 and Nov. 21. He also is charged with concealing stolen property.

Enjoy Dominic's smoke-filled rooms.

With everyone quitting smoking these days, it's really hard to find a good smoke-filled room any more. Well, we'd like to point out that we not only have more (we think) and better (we know) meeting and banquet rooms than anyone else in Marin, but also now offer a unique and heretofore unobtainable service. We will pre-fill your meeting room with smoke, in advance. Prices vary with the service, from economy (Mexican cigarette) to deluxe (imported Havana cigar). At least 24 hours notice, please.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS are fine little tidbits, ideal for entertaining during the holidays. Well-seasoned pea puree, shown here, makes a good stuffing.

During the festive season, when hostesses like to offer special treats, a tip might be taken from the English hostess where the "savoury" is an important part of every good dinner. The word covers any number of little tidbits that complement and contrast with the main dish.

Here, for example, are two "savouries:" Pea-stuffed mushrooms and mushroom cheese fondue. The latter is chummy snacking, for each snacker, in turn, spears a small mushroom and dips it into a well-seasoned hot melted cheese concoction. (The Swiss fondue pot over its alcohol burner is ideal, but a chafing dish or small electric hot plate will do.)

Stuffed mushrooms are always popular on the hors d'oeuvre tray. Serve them raw, baked or broiled. Medium mushrooms are best — the two-bite size. Make up your own stuffing and for that you can start with well-seasoned ham, chicken livers, clams, shrimp, meat or fish paste; cheese; egg salad; seasoned crumbs, generously buttered. Or, as shown here, a smooth seasoned pea puree.

You can use either fresh or canned whole mushrooms for appetizers.

PEA-STUFFED MUSHROOMS

- 1 pound medium-size fresh mushrooms
- Oil
- 2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen peas
- 4 strips bacon
- ¼ cup minced onion
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 2 tablespoons dry white wine or water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground white pepper

Rinse, pat dry and remove stems from mushrooms. Brush caps with oil and arrange, cup side up, on an ungreased baking sheet. Finely chop stems to measure 1/2 cup (save remaining stems for use in soups or stews).

Cook peas according to package directions; drain. Puree in blender until smooth; set aside. In a small skillet fry bacon until crisp; crumble and set aside. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons bacon fat. Add the 1/2 cup chopped stems and the onion; saute five minutes. Stir in flour; cook one minute. Stir in wine.

Combine pureed peas with sauteed mushroom mixture, crumbled bacon, salt and white pepper; mix well. Fill mushroom caps with mixture using a pastry bag or spoon. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) 10 minutes.

Yield: 20 to 30 stuffed mushrooms

MUSHROOM CHEESE FONDUE

- ¾ pound small fresh mushrooms or
- 2 cans (6 to 8 oz. each) whole mushrooms
- 1 can (10-¾ oz.) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
- ¼ cup dry white wine or apple juice
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon onion powder
- ⅛ teaspoon ground red pepper
- ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- Paprika

Rinse, pat dry and trim stem ends of fresh mushrooms or drain canned mushrooms. In a small saucepan combine soup, wine, mustard, onion and garlic powders and red pepper. Heat thoroughly, stirring constantly. Turn into fondue pot or chafing dish. Sprinkle with parsley and paprika; keep warm. Spear mushroom with fork and dip into fondue.

Yield: 8 portions

Baking Captures The Spirit

All through the house, the spirit of the holidays is captured in the inviting fragrance of home baking. Cakes and cookies, traditional to the season, are baked not only to serve the family and friends, but also as gifts from the heart and hearth.

Try your hand at a simple recipe for holiday tea cakes. A modern version of an old Czechoslovakian recipe, the rich round miniature balls are made with a basic batter of sugar, butter, flour and chopped nuts.

They have a lemon flavor and a hint of spiciness that comes from using an American flavoring short-cut: lemon flavored instant tea powder. These cakes are rolled in confectioners sugar for a frosty look.

When company drops in serve the holiday tea cakes with glasses of fresh brewed tea with lemon slices and sugar cubes. And, as the Czechs do, wish your guests "Dobrou chut!" which means, "Have a good appetite!"

HOLIDAY TEA CAKES

- 1 cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup sifted confectioners sugar
- 2 tablespoons lemon flavored instant tea powder
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2¼ cups sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup finely chopped pecans

In large bowl, blend butter, confectioners sugar, lemon flavored instant tea powder, and vanilla. Combine flour and salt; slowly add to butter mixture. Fold in nuts. Chill at least one hour.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

Form dough into ½-inch balls. Place on ungreased cookie sheets and bake 10 to 12 minutes. Roll in confectioners sugar. Cool on rack; then roll in confectioners sugar again. Makes about six dozen tea cakes.

Needn't Be Drag

Planning the dinner vegetable needn't be a drag if you let your imagination take over. People from the British Isles know how tasty brussel sprouts can be; take a tip from them and serve yours next time lightly tossed with some chopped, toasted walnuts and crisp pieces of diced bacon sauteed with an equal measure of minced onion.

Best Fish Buys

Best fish and shellfish buys in the West between Dec. 15 and Jan. 15 will be canned tuna, rockfish fillets, Pacific oysters and Dover sole fillets, according to the National Marine Fisheries Service of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

THE EUROPEANS

Immigrants Brought Spicy Recipes

During the holiday season spicy aromas drift about in kitchens in the upper Midwest, where homemakers are occuped with the Christmas baking.

This part of the country was settled by immigrants from norhtern and middle Europe — Germany, Scandinavia, the British Isles, Belgium, the Netherlands, Finland and Russia.

In families of German extraction, cookies would seem the preferred Christmas treat. Centuries ago in Germany, they began hanging pretty cookies — or amusing ones — on the Christmas tree for the delight of children. Spicy ones, too, for most spices came to Germany at the same time as the Christian religion.

Cookies and lavish holiday breads come from Scandinavian ovens, as often as not redolent of cardamom, a favorite spice in the land of the midnight sun. Mince pies, for the British, symbolize the magnificence of the gifts of the three wise men.

The Belgians and the Dutch make big, nutmeg-spiced cookies cut into the shape of Santa Clauses. These they call "speculoos." Finnish Christmas baking is a good deal like that of Sweden, Norway and Denmark. In Russia, Christmas sweets in days gone by included spiced honey cakes and a sweet nut bread.

From this part of the U. S. comes this recipe for eggnog cake.

EGGNOG CAKE

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 cup sugar, divided
- 2 eggs, separated
- ½ cup orange juice
- ½ cup light rum, divided
- 1½ teaspoons grated orange peel
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- Eggnog cream filling
- Chocolate bittersweet frosting

Sift flour with baking powder, nutmeg, baking soda and salt; set aside. In a large bowl cream butter with ¾ cup of the sugar until fluffy. Add egg yolks; beat well. Blend orange juice with ¼ cup of the rum, orange peel and vanilla extract. Add alternately with flour to the butter mixture. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; gradually beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar until stiff but not dry. Fold into batter.

Turn into two buttered eight or nine-inch round cake pans lined on the bottom with waxed paper. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 minutes or until cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pan five minutes, then invert on wire rack, peel off paper, and cool thoroughly. Split each layer crosswise. Sprinkle each layer with remaining ¼ cup rum.

Yield: One nine-inch layer cake

EGGNOG CREAM FILLING

- 1¼ cups milk
- 5 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- ¾ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons rum
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg

In a small saucepan combine milk and flour. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Cool. In a small mixing bowl cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Stir in rum and nutmeg. Add cooled flour mixture by the spoonful, beating until light and fluffy.

CHOCOLATE BITTERSWEET FROSTING

- 4 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1¼ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- ¾ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 2 tablespoons hot water
- 2 eggs
- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened

In a small mixing bowl combine chocolate with sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg; beat well. Gradually add hot water; blend until smooth. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Add butter and blend until smooth.

Spot Of Sunshine

Homemade marmalade brings a spot of sunshine to any breakfast table; next time you make some add walnuts and a dash of vanilla extract to enhance the tangy orange flavor.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT T. HANSEN
Former Sharon Lynn Wright
(Bridal Faire Novato Photo)

Robert Hansen Weds Sharon Lynn Wright

Sharon Lynn Wright and Robert T. Hansen were married on Dec. 4 at the North Marin Assembly of God Church in Novato.

Sharon, the daughter of Chief and Mrs. James D. Wright of Mill Valley, chose Patricia Greer of Hayward as her maid of honor. Her bridesmaids were her sisters, Mrs. Anthony Hoke of Novato and Mrs. Joseph Pita of Castro Valley.

Jerry Vantrease of Novato was best man, and ushers were Anthony Hoke and Joseph Pita.

The couple went on a wedding trip to Monterey following a reception at The Meadows in Terra Linda. They will live in Petaluma.

The bride was graduated from San Marin High School and is employed at Glen Five and Ten Store in Mill Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hansen of Petaluma are the bridegroom's parents. He was graduated from San Marin High School and is employed at the Novato Auto Sales. He is the brother of John Hansen, Marilyn White and Carolyn Womack, all of Petaluma. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Frederickson of Novato are his local grandparents.

Terrazzo Is Popular Flooring

Terrazzo, old as ancient Rome, is popular again today as flooring in the home. Cleaning the flooring is easy by following some tips:

Sweep the floor daily. Once a week, or as needed, wet-mop it with an all-purpose household cleaner, following the instructions on the label.

Jack Jones And His 'Lady Luck'

DALLAS (UPI)—Jack Jones makes his living singing beautiful, sad songs about love that didn't work out. But Jones, who is in the process of the third divorce, still thinks marriage has a future.

"I love women too much," he said. "I love the way they think, I love their company."

His marriage to Gretchen Roberts, an airline stewardess from Dallas, will be dissolved sometime next month. He was married before to Lee Lawrence, the mother of his 10-year-old daughter, and to actress Jill St. John.

"I THINK marriage is still something that can work," the lanky singer said. "As much bad luck as I've had with women, I still love and respect them.

No"I predict that in the next 200 years, if our society has not become a Roman Empire and fallen on its face, marriage will still be around and work just fine for most people."

However, the singer said, "I don't think it will be mandatory in society to be married."

Jones thinks a lot of marriage reforms are necessary and would be healthy for society.

"The best way for marriage to be a beautiful thing and continue as a tradition in civilized society is for some of the legal hangups to be thrown away," he said.

FOR EXAMPLE, he said, "Many men have to live in fear of financial settlements, alimony and child support ... that if it doesn't work out, then they're throwing away half of what they own. Most of the legal aspects just cause bitterness and greed."

"I may sound like I'm bitter, but I'm not," he added.

Jones, who's spent 14 of his 33 years in show business, said he is on the road 40 weeks of the year.

The son of singer Alan Jones, he knows show business life and said it seems to be a built-in risk and handicap for marriages.

"I have to travel and if she travels with me, she has to give up part of her freedom and she is less of an individual. She sits in a hotel room while I'm under the spotlight.

"Why should I have all the identity?" he asked.

JONES SAID when he sings his early hit—"Wives and Lovers" —he really means it, to say love has a chance. He wowed a recent Dallas audience with his ambitious presentation of "That's The Way I've Always Heard It Should Be," his musical pitch for love.

It features a recording of Carly Simon singing sadly about the disadvantages of love with backdrop of slides of lov-

Christmas Party Set At Golf Club

By MOLLY MARIN

Magic and balloon animals will be a part of the entertainment Sunday for the family Christmas party for members of the Marin Golf and Country Club in Novato.

A clown will be on hand to lead the fun, beginning at 4:30 p.m., and Santa Claus will arrive an hour later bearing gifts for the small youngsters. A holiday songfest is scheduled and party guests will dance toorchestra music and have a chance to lead the band themselves.

A dinner will be served in the evening, featuring family menus that appeal to children.

FOLLOWING A five-year tradition, Mr. and Mrs. William Monroe of Mill Valley invited friends to join them in cutting Christmas trees in Napa on Saturday. They hired a commuter-size touring bus for 45 friends and children, served a picnic lunch, cut trees and later enjoyed dinner in Sonoma.

THE DAY after Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. William Hambrecht and their five children will hold open house from 4 to 7 p.m. at their Beach Road home in Belvedere. About 100 guests are expected for a buffet and champagne punch.

A BRIDAL shower and luncheon were given last Wednesday by Mrs. Benjamin Cook and Mrs. Robert Edelstein of San Anselmo in honor of Caroline Marie Ballachey.

Caroline became the bride of Joseph Howard Womack yesterday in a ceremony in San Anselmo. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ballachey of San Rafael.

TRIPLET DAUGHTERS were born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. William Lyon of Petaluma. Their first children, the babies have been named Shelley Elizabeth, Eileen Fay and Molly Ann Lyon.

Warnings On Yule Toy Gifts

One way to prevent children's accidents is to guard against giving a toy, however well made, to a youngster not ready to handle it. Any toy can be unsafe when given to a child at the wrong age. Here are some ideas of what may be considered "unsafe" for a child's Christmas.

Up to two years, the hand-to-mouth age — Unsuitable are electrical toys. Avoid giving any sharp edged toys, or those with loose attachments that can be swallowed. Best bets are sturdy rattles, washable rubber-squeak toys, large balls, blocks and toys of the push-pull variety.

Two to four, the exploring and pretending age — Movable toys, such as trucks, should not have easily removed parts that can be swallowed, nor wheels that have sharp pointed axles. Plastic toys should be impact resistant acetate or soft polyethylene. Avoid plastics that break leaving sharp edges.

Four to six, — Unsafe at any age are flammable toys and costumes. Avoid shooting or target toys that endanger the eyes. Even those that come with suction sups become dangerous when the cups come off.

Electrical toys are not recommended for any child under six. Battery operated toys are generally safer than the plug-in variety.

Six to eight — Avoid anything large or complicated. Tools should be the right size for the child. Adult-size hammers and saws are dangerous in small hands.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Christmas Season Separates Neurotics From Blithe Spirits

DEAR HELEN:

Am I weird? With every year, I hate Christmas more. It wasn't so bad when the kids were tiny and we got into the Santa routine, but now — it's just one terrible task after another. I start feeling blue after Thanksgiving, and by mid-December I want to crawl away somewhere and hibernate until the New Year.

Cards are such a hassle. They mean nothing — just an increasingly expensive way to say "I had to send one because I know you will, darn it."

And gifts! You give a stupid present because you'll get a stupid present, and who wants them? You worry because you may spend more (or less) than your friends or relatives spend on you.

Holiday parties? I drink too much to forget how tired I am.

I wish I could take a three-week vacation at Christmastime and spend it in the Fiji Islands or someplace remote and inaccessible, where I could forget all that junk.

Does anyone else feel the same? — YULE GHOUL

DEAR Y.G.:

Psychologists say that Christmas, more than any time of the year, separates the neurotic from the happy-go-lucky. Those with a touch of misery imbedded in their psyches let it all hang out during their December doldrums. People who enjoy life may like it even better as the holiday season approaches.

Most of us are neither completely neurotic nor wholly carefree, so we all feel a certain dread mixed in with the Christmas cheer. But if the commercial aspect, the hassle, bad memories — and even the carols and reverence — turn you into a quivering zombie, then I'd suggest you take that trip to the Fijis, (or to a nearer place you can afford). You'll be a lot happier for it, and so will your friends and relatives.

There are days like today — with shopping still undone, cards unwritten, and a cold coming on — when I'd give a lot to join you! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

As the Christmas rush is upon us, I'm reminded of past shopping problems, and prompted to offer some suggestions which would apply year round, but are especially appropriate for this season:

1. When selecting purchases, double-check such things as size, color, etc., before you enter the check-out lane. Going back for an exchange takes up everyone's time, including yours.

2. If you are bargain-hunting, be certain what you have is the same brand name as what is on sale. If it's a "three-for" be sure you don't get four or two.

3. Don't expect busy store personnel to be experts concerning gifts. How do they know what size shirt a man wears who "is about six-foot and used to play college football" or what a six-year-old girl who enjoys climbing trees wants from Santa?

4. If you can't find the item you want, ask one of the clerks in the department. Don't expect the cashier at the check-out stand to know details about every department in the store.

5. Be sure, when paying by check, to have identification ready. Or . . .

6. Have your money ready for the cashier, and try to keep pennies handy for change-making.

7. For your own sake, be certain you save receipts. You can't expect an exchange or refund just because you have an honest face.

8. In all your Christmas shopping, try to put yourself in the other person's place. Do everything you can to speed things up because everyone else is probably just as tired of fighting crowds as your are. — JOYCE O.

Vows Said In San Anselmo

For the afternoon nuptials yesterday, Mrs. Daniel S. Bratt of Canoga Park was the only bridal attendant. Best man was William Tinsman of Torrance.

A reception was held afterward at the Meredith home and the couple left for a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

Caroline is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ballachey of San Rafael and the sister of John M. Ballachey, serving with the Navy at Long Beach, and of Mrs. William Perry of Mountain View.

She is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and attended San Jose State College. She is employed with American Airlines in Los Angeles.

Joseph is the son of Mrs. Ralph Womack of Humboldt, Kan. He is a graduate of Humboldt High School and attended Kansas University. He is employed with Holiday Airlines at South Lake Tahoe. Lawrence Womack of Sunnyvale is his brother.

Television Toys Boon For Ad Writers But Not Children

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Toys are for kids. But some of the newest playthings are providing more fun for ad writers than for children. Manufacturers are also getting a big kick out of them.

It will come as no surprise to many parents that the latest kind of toy is called the "television toy." It may not look unusual, but it is.

This kind of product is a symbol of today's world. It would not even exist if it were not for television. In fact, this type of toy is not advertised anywhere else, because it is designed and produced for the television market, where ads can be directly aimed at children.

The unique nature of the "television toy" was described at recent hearings of the Federal Trade Commission by Stephen L. Bluestone, former editor of toy commercials for the National Association of Broadcasters' Code Authority, an industry group watching ethics in advertising.

The TV toy, said Bluestone, is "one of the few product categories . . . created because of television and presumably would not exist were it not for television."

OTHER CHARACTERISTICS of such a product include:

The fact that price is never disclosed in the advertisement

The fact that there are always more accessories to buy after the main item is purchased.

The fact that most toys are active and work at the flip of a switch, making the child a spectator who can become bored quickly.

The fact that the toys work better on the TV screen than they do in the living room after they are purchased.

The resulting complaints caused one merchant to admit in "Playthings," a trade magazine:

"Consumer reaction to the poor quality of TV toys in 1970 reached a new peak with our customers. We had more complaints on the type of toys on television thanat any time in our history."

BUT BUSINESS has only expanded. Mattel, the best known name in TV toy advertising, has grown from practically nothing in 1955 to annual sales of more than $288 million.

The file on Mattel at the Federal Trade Commission has also grown. The company recently signed a consent order prohibiting the firm's advertising to children to use any distortion of a toy's performance, any "fanciful and misleading brand names," or any unfair and deceptive TV commercials for "Hot Wheels" and "Dancerina Doll."

The Broadcasters' Code of ethics cautions advertisers to "avoid presumptions that a toy requiring a material investment can be had for the asking." But, according to Bluestone, the Code is not enforced very well.

"I have not yet seen one commercial," he told the FTC, "that implies or states that any toy cannot be had for the asking. The violation is committed by almost every toy commercial on the air."

Aaron Locker, a lawyer representing the Toy Manufacturers of America Inc., told the FTC why toy makers use TV so much:

"NO MEDIUM other than television can affordably reach enough prospects with sufficient impact in the time available to do the job. This is especially true because much of the volume anticipated is from new items which need quick and clear introduction."

ers in New York City, on the beach, in parks. Jones chimes in with a counterpoint argument that love and marriage do go together like a horse and carriage.

Jones got top reviews from Dallas critics, who praised his new maturity. "His new delivery carries the added value of a certain poignancy," said one.

"Yea," he kidded, "I'm an old wise man now." But he wasn't smiling.

Jones said he's working on a half-hour musical show for next year and hopes to do more summer stock and more movies.

"In the future I plan to learn as much about this business as I can, spend some time on my boat and," he pulled out the grin again, "of course, go out with lots of girls."

Retirement Home Sets Golden Event

Aldersley, the Danish retirement home, in San Rafael is celebrating its golden anniversary of founding this month, and a gala celebration was given there Sunday for some 250 guests.

The original building, known as the white house, which housed the home's first residents 50 years ago, still remains as the social hall and was the setting for the party.

Greetings were extended by the King of Denmark by the Danish Consul General in San Francisco, Per W. Frellesvig, who presented as a gift for the home a large colored photograph of the Danish Royal family. King Frederick and Queen Ingrid visited the home in 1960 and came previously in 1939 when he was the Crown Prince.

Marin directors for Aldersley are Mmes. Robert Humphreys of Tiburon, Jack Shapiro of Mill Valley, Harry Wall and Lawrence Bentzen of San Rafael.

Reno Wedding For Future Novato Pair

Mary Theresa Boccabella of San Anselmo became the bride of Dayton Eugene Smith of Vallejo in a Saturday afternoon ceremony in Reno, Nev.

Mary's sister, Mrs. Thomas H. Daley of Napa, was her matron of honor, and Thomas Daley served as best man for the bridegroom.

A reception was held in Reno, and the couple left on a wedding trip to Las Vegas and Southern California. They will live in Novato.

Mary is the daughter of Mrs. Dominic J. Boccabella of San Anselmo and the late Mr. Boccabella.

She is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and the College of Marin and is employed with McGraw-Hill Book Co. in Novato. She is the sister of Ralph J. Boccabella of Novato and John D. Boccabella of San Rafael.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Smith of Vallejo are the parents of the bridegroom.

He is a graduate of John Swett High School in Crockett and is an Air Force staff sergeant serving at Travis Air Force Base.

An Hour's Work

Christmas Tree Safety Hints For Every Home

Christmas trees are a potential serious fire hazard, so keep your tree outside until you are ready to use it.

An artificial, flame-proof tree is the safest. For the many, however, who find it difficult to part with the traditional live tree, remember to stand your tree in a base that is constantly filled with water.

Many fires begin because the live, cut tree dries rapidly in our heated homes, so keep the tree away from sources of drying heat, such as the radiator or fireplace. Also, be prepared with a pail of water standing nearby at all times or with a home fire extinguisher.

HAVARTI

the Danish cheese for people of pronounced taste

Say it to yourself: Ha-var-ti. It rhymes with "a party", and that's when some people serve it. Don't fall into the same trap: make Havarti, the mild, mellow, creamy-yellow, lacy-patterned Danish cheese, an everyday affair. For luscious snacks, sandwiches, casseroles. So say "Ha-var-ti", and say it often. At your grocery or supermarket, of course.

BOUND FOR VIETNAM

Mary Shields, an employee of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., loads final packages into USO cartons preparatory to airlifting to Vietnam. The gift packages, addressed to "any serviceman," were collected in recent weeks from citizens at the telephone company office in San Rafael. Once the cartons reach Vietnam, they will be distributed at 16 USO clubs. (Independent-Journal photo)

Patrolman Cross-Examined In Hearing On Firing Of Orr

By LARRY MOWELL

Under cross-examination last night, Fairfax Patrolman Alan R. Wernstrum ticked off causes of low morale under fired Chief James R. Orr, but otherwise repeated testimony he made Saturday.

The only significant change in his testimony before the Fairfax Board of Review was that while clerk matron Marsha S. Kittelman gave him orders, he did not know if the orders originated with her.

He had testified Saturday that her orders did not seem to be from the chief. When asked by board chairman Freeman Blake about the apparent contradiction he replied, "I would receive orders from the clerk matron, but I would not be told the source of the orders."

He said the clerk now tells him who gave the order except when issuing an order over the radio, the latter situation not requiring such information.

Wernstrum's testimony was completed at 9:10 p.m., but the board adjourned rather than hear only part of the testimony of the next witness, Sgt. Andy Grimes, who is expected to give lengthy testimony.

Shaw objected to partial testimony since the next session will not be until 7:30 p.m. Jan. 5. The board adjourned until then in deference to the holiday plans of City Atty. Wallace S. Myers.

Wernstrum's testimony lasted about an hour last night and was mostly a rehash of points he and other witnesses had made previously.

Under Shaw's questioning, he stuck by his account of being denied access to schooling although he said he never made written application. He also said going to school would have cut into his patrol time.

He reiterated complaints of gaps in evidence rules and lax security and again said — despite a list of rules on chain of command mentioned by Shaw — that the chain of command was faulty because Mrs. Kittelman violated it.

The witness did amplify his comment made Saturday that morale was "on a rather low note." Prodded by Shaw for causes of the alleged morale problem, he pointed to occasional shortages of report and log forms, lack of rotating lights on patrol cars and other equipment shortages. Other factors were maintenance difficulties on cars, lack of training classes in the department and Orr's refusal to set up a community relations program, Wernstrum said.

He conceded the chief had told him some of the equipment difficulties were due to a money shortage.

Wernstrum's testimony came after the board huddled for almost half an hour. Blake said after the meeting the board agreed in the closed talk they should not do or say anything that might make it appear they are leaning to one side or the other. He would not elaborate on any specific behavior that precipitated the discussion.

The board is acting as judge and jury of Orr's appeal. The chief was ousted after nine years by City Admin. Robert E. Crowe on Sept. 30. After the city council upheld the firing on a 3-2 vote, Orr appealed to the board of review.

Orr is charged with making Mrs. Kittelman a policewoman without authority to do so, showing favoritism to her, engaging in improper social relations with her, drunkenness, failing to set up necessary police procedures, threatening officers and a cadet, dismissing parking tickets without justification or explanation and failing to report a minor charged with buying liquor to the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

About 40 persons attended last night's hearing.

Power Failure Blackens Gate Span; No Accidents

The Golden Gate Bridge was blacked out by a power failure for almost eight hours last night.

Fortunately, it was a clear night — since the failure also killed power to foghorns and aircraft warning lights atop the 746-foot towers.

No accident was reported during the blackout, which started at 8:20 p.m. and lasted until 4:06 a.m.

The bridge's emergency generator, which district directors voted Friday to replace, did not work. It is supposed to power the fog horns, lights and other essential devices. Replacement of the 34-year-old standby unit will cost an estimated $177,000.

A Pacific Gas and Electric Co. spokesman said the initial cause of the failure was a blown fuse in a switch at Marina Boulevard and Baker Street in San Francisco. A 12,000-volt underground circuit also malfunctioned, he said.

It was the longest blackout in memory, bridge officials said.

Felony Burglary Charge Reduced

Charges against Leslie Robert Jewett, 20, of San Rafael, originally accused of felony burglary, have been reduced to a misdemeanor.

He was arrested on Nov. 29 and accused of burglarizing the home of Richard K. Johnson on Ross Avenue in San Anselmo on Nov. 24.

After a preliminary hearing yesterday, Judge Robert A. Smallman found evidence insufficient for a burglary charge but held him to answer to a misdemeanor charge of receiving stolen property.

Jewett pleaded innocent to the misdemeanor charge and was to appear for a pre-trial conference today in Marin Municipal Court.

Uncover Sex, Librarians Told

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Sex should be brought out into the open," the chairman of the U.S. Commission on Obscenity and Pornography said Tuesday.

Dr. William B. Lockhart told the California Library Association that the nation should begin a massive program of sex education "designed to create a healthy attitude toward sex."

Sex still is kept under cover in terms of discussing it in a frank and open way, Lockhard said.

Greyhound Permitted To End Runs

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Greyhound Lines, serving Marin commuters since 1941, yesterday won permission to terminate the service when it is taken over by the Golden Gate Bridge District on Jan. 1.

The Greyhound application was approved routinely by the state Public Utilities Commission. The PUC long had agreed to the discontinuance of the service after the bridge district started its own bus system.

The district started local bus service within Marin on Monday.

The PUC, however, denied Greyhound's bid to reduce service from Marin into the Sonoma Valley area. The commission ruled that this service must be continued until the bridge district expands its system so that it can handle this area as well.

The district may extend service to the Sonoma Valley within a year, the decision noted.

Greyhound will continue to offer long-distance bus service through Marin and Sonoma.

Computer Hookup For Sonoma State

A federal grant has enabled Sonoma State College faculty and students to link with resources of the Northern California regional computer network headquartered at Stanford University.

The $25,400 National Science Foundation grant will partially finance the use of the large computer for the academic curriculum. Sonoma State has matched the federal grant with $45,000 for the two-year program.

A terminal on campus will allow students and faculty direct access to the sophisticated IBM-367 computer at the Stanford complex. The computer has a billion-word capacity.

The terminal, leased from the Trendata Corp., includes a specialized electric typewriter and telephone line connection.

Sonoma State is the only state college participating in the computer network, but plans are under way to establish permanent terminals which would link all 19 California state colleges to their own computer networks.

Heading the Sonoma State program is Les Brooks of the chemistry department, assisted by Dr. Thomas Nelson, mathematics; Wallace Lowry, management, and Barry Godolphin, psychology.

Faculty members will be instructed in the use of the computer as a teaching and research tool. One of its primary values is the instantaneous response of an answer which might take weeks to work out.

Brooks said the computer will be used by a variety of departments.

Vanished Courthouse Will Be Seen Again

The old Marin County Courthouse is now a parking lot, but the building will star in a "world premiere" movie Friday.

The movie entitled "World Premiere: They Call It Murder" will be show at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 4.

The two-hour movie, adapted from the works of mystery author Earl Stanley Gardner, was filmed at the old courthouse on Fourth Street in October 1969 as a pilot for a series. The series did not pan out.

Hutton plays Doug Selby, a big city lawyer who becomes fed up with the city and heads home to Madison County, where he is elected district attorney. In the pilot, Selby investigates a swimming pool murder tied up with gambling, a questionable car crash fatality and a large insurance claim.

Japanese Zoo Slays Animals

YAMAGATA, Japan (UPI) -A lion at Yamagata's zoo usually is fed at 8 a.m., so he suspected nothing when the men approached his cage. Instead of breakfast he got a bullet in the head.

The management of a financially distressed zoo killed 10 large animals to cut feed costs Tuesday, over the protests of local people and Japan's Society for the Protection of Animals.

Sacrificed to the zoo's economy program were two lions, a kangaroo, a zebra and six other animals.

Venereal Disease Class Report Due

The Shoreline Unified School District Board will hear a report on a proposed venereal disease instruction program at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Tomales High School.

Trustees also will consider leasing 2.7 acres of land near the old Bloomfield School to Sonoma County for recreational use.

First Sperm Bank Opened

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Idant Corp Tuesday officially opened the first of 20 "frozen sperm banks" it plans to start in 20 U.S. cities by the end of 1972.

Twenty-three deposits made within the last 10 days were already in the bank's nitrogen vault that is kept at 321 below zero. The average age of the first depositors was 25. The youngest was 21.

Morton E. David, Idant president, said banks will be opened in 20 American cities, hopefully by the end of 1972. He said the sperm bank system also will be launched in England and Japan by 1973.

New Curbs Sought For Strip Mining

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., have introduced legislation that would require strip miners to obtain federal permits for their operations.

They said the permits would be necessary until the states adopt strict strip mining standards under federal supervision.

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia (UPI)—Naval authorities at Boca de Ceniza on Colombia's northern coast reported today the hijacking to Cuba of a Liberian tanker with 22 crewmen aboard.

Priceless Bass Violin Is Stolen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 250-year-old Testore bass violin, one of fewer than 25 known to exist in the world, has been stolen from the home of a retired musician.

The 7-foot violin belonged to Aaron Guterson, 69, who played for 30 years with the San Francisco Symphony orchestra.

Guterson said someone who apparently had a sophisticated knowledge of musical instruments climbed up a drain pipe Saturday night and entered a window of his two-story house.

"The violin was extremely rare," said Guterson, who has played with Sergei Rachmaninoff, Yehudi Menuhin and Jascha Heifetz. "It was made about 1715 by Carlo Antonius Testore in Italy."

Guterson, who acquired the violin in 1929 for another bass violin and $1,000, said the stolen instrument was "priceless."

"It would be difficult to place a money value on it," he said, "certainly it is worth many thousands of dollars."

Guterson said his home is full of musical instruments.

"But the thief only took this one valuable bass violin," he said. "I think he took exactly what he wanted to take."

Marin Civic Ballet Readies 'Nutcracker'

A 90-member cast of the Marin Civic Ballet will present Tschaikowsky's "The Nutcracker" in four performances next week at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The ballet will be presented through the civic ballet association at 2 and 8 p.m. on Dec. 19, and at 2 p.m. on Dec. 20 and 21.

Jane Thelen of San Rafael will dance the lead in the Sugar Plum Fairy, with David White of Corte Madera dancing her partner, the Cavalier.

Kathi McCormick of Terra Linda will dance the role of the Snow Queen, with Charles Perrier of Fairfax as her partner, the Snow Prince. Cynthia Harvey of Novato will be the soloist in "Waltz of the Flowers."

The cast is directed by Leona Norman, who founded the Leona Norman School of Ballet in San Rafael and helped found in 1950 the Marin Civic Ballet, which readies young people for professional careers.

Miss Thelen, 16, is a student at San Rafael High School. She started dancing at the age of 5 in the party scene from "The Nutcracker" and has appeared at the Regional Ballet Festival in Fresno. In 1969 and 1970, she was selected for summer study at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

White, 17, is a student at Redwood High School. He started dancing when he was 8. In 1963 he danced with the Leningrad Kirov Ballet and the following year, with the Royal Danish Ballet. He studied at the Banff School of Fine Arts in Canada in 1969 and '70.

Lagunitas Pupils Get Extra Help In Study

Students in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades get more individual instruction as well as more electives under the new program started this year, it was reported to the Lagunitas School District board Monday night.

Supt. William E. Johnson said that the staff gave a comprehensive report on the flexible program that started in September. Under it, a student may be placed in a smaller group and receive more individual attention in such subjects as reading and arithmetic. The students must learn the basics of education, but at the same time, are given a choice of eight electives above the usual curriculum.

The teachers work together, so a class may turn into a team teaching project for part of the day and with teaching in smaller units at other times during the day, Johnson said.

The Lagunitas School District board also;

BUS — Awarded an $11,025 contract to Isi-Wisness International of San Rafael for a 66-passenger bus to be delivered in 60 days. This was the only bid received.

ELECTION — Agreed to holding a candidates' night, if requested by the two candidates for the position on the board created by the resignation of Eugene Di Basilio who moved from the district. The candidates are Donald Lethridge and Richard Sloan. The election will be Jan. 11 at the same time the electors vote on keeping the 90-cent tax override for another two years. The tax will expire on June 31, 1972 unless renewed.

OFFICES — Approved closing school offices during the week between Christmas and New Year, but allocated some clerical and maintenance work for that period.

LEASE — Approved transferring the lease on the old school building from Barbara Berensmeier to the San Geronimo Art Center Inc. There is no change in the $80 per month rental.

COMMITTEE — Asked volunteers to meet during the holidays to work for the Jan. 11 tax election, but did not name anyone to a committee.

GOALS — Agreed to review on Jan. 10 the school goals as presented by the town hall group on Nov. 29.

FUNDS — Received notification that the district has $1,905 additional funds, making a total of $12,355, in Elementary-Secondary Education Act funds and authorized the staff to revise the program to spend the additional money.

PROGRAMS — Appropriated $228 to pay half, with the Parent-Teacher Association matching the funds, to take 900 students and teachers from the district to cultural programs.

REPORT — Received a request from the State Department of Health on venereal disease in elementary grades. This report will be incorporated into a course of study on the subject being prepared by the state.

RECOGNITION — Gave special recognition to David Maris who donated the materials and his time to install lights on the stage of the multiuse room at the Lagunitas school.

CLOSED SESSION — Held a closed session to evaluate personnel.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Jan. 10 at the San Geronimo school.

Museum Fetes Five Centuries

ROME (UPI)—The world's oldest public museum marked its 500th birthday today by offering free admission.

The Capitoline Museum, founded by Pope Sixtus IV Dec. 15, 1471, announced it was throwing its doors open until the end of the week without charging the usual 32 cents.

Greek and Roman art works on display at the museum, located in two buildings on the Capitoline Hill, include such masterpieces as the statues of a dying Gaulish warrior and what is known as the "Capitoline Venus."

San Diego Names Its City Manager

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —Acting City Manager Kimball H. Moore, 53, will take over as city manager of San Diego, succeeding Walter Hahn Jr.

The surprise announcement of Moore's selection came Tuesday during a closed door session in which the city council was scheduled to consider Hahn's request that he be placed on terminal sick leave, clearing the way for a new city manager.

Reagan Signs Textbook Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill requiring that public school textbooks include "accurate portrayals of both men and women in all types of roles" was signed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure by Assemblyman Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles, provides that books and teachers' manuals adopted after July 1, 1975, for use in elementary and high schools include the so-called accurate portrayals.

The bill triggered some questions when it won final legislative approval in the Assembly last month.

Rohnert Park Panel To Eye Need For Bond Vote

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission has agreed to weigh carefully a possible park bond election in the spring.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said the commission finished its study of park needs at its meeting Monday and designated projects with a total cost of $194,625.

Pekkain said the funds included $90,500 for improvements to Benecia Park and pool and $65,200 for Alicia Park. Improvements planned include an enlarged pool area, new turf, landscaping, parking lots and permanent bleachers.

The commission said it would reach a final decision on the bond issue and amount at its Dec. 27 meeting and send a recommendation to the city council.

Pekkain said the commission agreed that if the proposed county parks bond issue is approved next spring, the Rohnert Park share of $80,000 would be used for the development of new parks in the Holiday and El Colegio areas.

Toll-Free Car Numbers Double

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The number of car pools taking advantage of toll free lanes during morning commute hours on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge has nearly doubled.

Before the 30-day experiment began last week, only about 800 cars carrying three or more persons crossed the bridge in the three hour rush period. A total of 1,985 car pools were counted Tuesday.

About 23,000 automobiles normally cross the bridge during the 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. period. Two experimental toll free lanes for car pools were started in an effort to reduce congestion.

Marinwood Rec Panel Appointments Proposed

The Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission has recommended to the Marinwood Community Services District board that two commission members be reappointed.

The commission recommended reappointment to new two-year terms of commissioners David Paoli and Leland Spencer, according to recreation director William A. Gordon.

At its meeting Monday, the commission approved purchase of a slide for Las Gallinas Park, at an estimated cost of $200, and a four-track slot car racing track for the community center for up to $125, Gordon reported.

The commission also authorized repair of chuckholes in the community center parking lot for $125 and voted to accept wood chips for park use from Boy Scout troop 64 of Marinwood, which will collect and mulch wood throughout the community in January.

Now under development by the U.S. Bureau of Mines is an incinerator that can burn 400 tons of refuse daily and generate 15,000 kilowatts of electrical power in the process.

LEGISLATURE IN REVIEW

The Special Session Brings Results Of 11 Months' Work

(EDITORS NOTE: The 1971 legislature met for a record-setting 11 months. This is the third in a series of articles examining what the lawmakers did and did not accomplish. It concerns taxes.)

By DENNIS J. OPATRNY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A special session of the Legislature accomplished in two days what the 1971 regular session failed to do in 11 months—approve payroll withholding of state income tax and balance the state budget.

The Legislature during its regular session also failed to pass any major tax reform program, although politicians of both parties have been promising property tax relief for years.

After bickering nearly a year on taxes, legislators adjourned the 1971 session without acting on withholding, which the governor said was needed to balance the budget.

Before they could complete clearing out their desks, Reagan called legislators back into special session to act on taxes.

In rapid succession during the second day of the special session, the Assembly and Senate passed a $501 million tax bill, including withholding to plug a $310 million budget deficit. Another $150 million will finance university and state college construction projects, buy parks and beach property and repair earthquake-threatened schools.

While major tax proposals languished and died, lawmakers did pass a bill exempting candy and chewing gum from the sales tax while imposing the same levy on take-out hot foods.

Sponsors of the hot foods tax said certain establishments—with chairs and tables—were required by the state Board of Equalization to collect the tax. But in shops with no chairs or tables, the tax was not collected. The bill will tax such items as fried chicken, pizza and fish and chips.

The net gain to the state between exempting candy and taxing take-out hot foods will be $16 million a year.

Proponents of rapid transit won a victory during the session with a bill to extend the 5 per cent sales tax to gasoline, beginning July 1.

The levy, which will hike the cost of gas about 2 cents a gallon, will generate $170 million annually, of which all but $3 million will go to counties. The $3 million will finance state transportation planning.

Roughly $130 million of the counties' money will be earmarked for public transportation and another $37 million may be used for any purpose.

Counties with populations exceeding 500,000—except San Bernardino—will be required to use their share of the money for some kind of transportation. Smaller counties can build roads with their funds.

Another bill passed subsequently earmarks $720,000 of the sales tax on gas to pay for bicycle paths constructed by the state.

Also hitting the driver's pocketbook is a bill increasing the cost of vehicle registration from 2 per cent of the car's market value to 2.65 per cent.

It is estimated to raise $76 million the first year—about $6 a car —with the funds funneled back to counties to help them in their financing problems.

A small tax increase will also be felt by drivers when they renew their licenses. A measure to print them in color calls for the price of a license to rise from $3 to $3.25 to pay for it.

Sportsmen will begin paying more as the lawmakers boosted hunting and fishing license fees for the first time in 13 years.

The cost of a hunting license will climb from $4 to $6 and the charge for a deer tag will go up from $2 to $3. Fishing licenses will be increased from $3 to $4. The overall cost from trout fishing will go up from $5 to $7.

Another bill passed and signed allows 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to be levied on the property taxpayer to finance earthquake-proofing of schools.

New Tennis 'System' Is Delayed

A reservation system to free Mill Valley's municipal tennis courts for use of city residents isn't needed until after the rainy season ends, Mill Valley's parks and recreation commissioners have decided.

The new system was to have been instituted immediately on weekends in order to free one tennis court for the exclusive use of residents, but commissioners voted Monday to delay the system until spring.

In the meantime, cards should be issued to residents, the commission decided, in order to avoid a rush when the new procedure is implemented.

Under the system, one court would be reserved for residents, and they would be required to pay $1 per hour for its use.

The commission's recommendations must be approved by the city council.

The panel also decided to prepare plans for planting a median strip between Miller and Presidio avenues near the Mill Valley Lumber Co. and to construct a curb there.

Neighbors have complained that the lumber company uses the strip while unloading supplies. The commission also requested cost estimates of the landscaping and curb work required.

Weaving, Musical Program At College

Music and a demonstration of hand loom weaving will be presented in the Darwin Hall foyer at Sonoma State College Friday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Willie Van Der Heyden will demonstrate the use of a color harp loom she designed especially for the college. Miss Van Der Heyden will also perform on the lute and sing French renaissance songs. Kirby Wilkinson will accompany her on the classical guitar.

Yule Lights Decorate Station's Antenna

A spokesman for the radio station said that if one of the nearly 80 feet of lights goes out, the rest will continue to shine, unlike many smaller strings of lights.

STILL, COSTLY PROBLEMS TO SOLVE

Few Ecological Gains Seen During '71

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) —One of the nation's foremost ecologists doesn't think there was much real improvement in depolluting the nation's environment in 1971 and he is not looking for miracles in 1972.

Dr. Barry Commoner, director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems at Washington University in St. Louis, and a member of the board of directors of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, put it this way:

GAINS ARE LOCAL

"I would say the main progress is being made in the area of local and state rules. The really serious action has been on those levels rather than on the federal level."

As an example he cited the ban on all detergents in some localities, and to a lesser degree the elimination of phosphate detergents in others.

"The fact thatone county stops the sales of detergents doesn't stop detergent pollution. But it does show that if they can perfectly well get along without detergents in Suffolk County (New York), why not elsewhere?

We must convert the whole industry back to soap."

Dr. Commoner said that the replacement of soap, a natural product, by detergents, a synthetic one, is typical of the impact of post-World War II technology. The result is that detergents produce pollution, while soap, attacked by decay bacteria, usually within a sewage treatment plant, emerges into the waterways as plain carbon dioxide and water.

Asked in an interview whether such local and state actions as banning detergents had a significant over-all impact on improving the environment, he said:

"No, there haven't been any significant environmental improvements, just isolated cases."

And as he sees 1972: "Nothing's going to happen overnight."

"I am definitely of the opinion that the Nixon Administration has turned away from its apparent commitment to environmental reform," Dr. Commoner said, pointing to the president's support of the SST and opposition to the new clean water bill.

ECONOMY FIRST?

"We have to do something about the environment, President Nixon seems to be saying, but we musn't touch the inviolable economic system. Well, we have Phase I and Phase II for the economy, why can't we have Phase I and Phase II for the environment?"

Until the nation acts, the problems will remain, he said, "and we no longer have the luxury of evading them if we are to survive. What I'm saying is that I know we haven't done what is needed if we are to survive."

Part of his view is dictated by the vastness of the project as he sees it.

HIGH COST SEEN

"My view is that very sweeping changes in the ways we use productive resources are needed and this will put quite a crimp in our economic system," he said. "Scientific method and technology are absolutely essential here. We must recognize the inherent faults in our present science and technology. I'm not antiscience, but science, is not something that was handed down in golden tables from a mountain. It is essential that scientists re-examine how they operate and the way in which they separate the disciplines.

"Our technology is fragmented and aimed at increasing productivity and profits, without taking into account resources and ecology. We need a renaissance in science and technology directing it toward human welfare."

As examples he cited studies being carried on at his school on the problem of rats, and the ecology of the dog in the city — both, as he put it, "coupling real problems in the real world with the best scientific knowledge available."

What he believes science and technology must eventually do is conduct an "ecological impact inventory for each productive activity, which will enable us to attach a sort of polution price tag to each product."

The inventory would cover, for instance, such items as the flip-top aluminum beer can which would carry a high ecological price tag, and the steel beer can, which would carry a much lower tag. Freight-hauled by rail, according to Dr. Commoner, is ecologically cheaper than that hauled by truck. Natural fibers carry a lower ecological price tag than synthetics.

"If pollution price tags become familiar to the public, the people would make judgments, say, on using a fliptop beer can," Dr. Commoner said. "I'm convinced that value judgments would be made by citizens of this country."

Ecologists, environmentalists and conservationists also need to work more effectively, according to Dr. Commoner, who is author of the book, "The Closing Circle" (Knopf).

"That's one reason why I wrote my book," he said, "to try to pull together the threads. Until now certainly it has been like the blind man and the elephant —with one group it's beer cans, with another polulation, with another birds in the woods.

"This (ecology) is a very comprehensive study and you must understand the relationship between your issue and the total picture. Some young people in environmental groups are doing that, setting priorities."

He does not, however, believe that scientists should hand down solutions, calling that "elitims," nor does he believe the President should issue orders ("I don't think a President would know what orders to issue"). Instead he believes the public should be presented with alternatives.

"The most important step is for our political leaders to undertake a great national debate on fundamental economic and ecological issues involved in production changes, because huge changes are necessary and they can't be made without debate.

"The issues must be raised in a serious way, brought squarely before the public and public discussion carried on to where there is a clear understanding of what the alternatives are. I hope we have the sense and political leadership to organize a vast overhaul.

"We must institute a great national debate to find proper solutions that the people are willing to support. The result would be more sweeping changes than the New Deal or Teddy Roosevelt and the Trusts. The hope I have is that, as people understand what is needed, it will emerge.

"We must mobilize the resources and the mass conscience of the country to face the issue."

One of the things that will be hardest to face is the cost. Dr. Commoner said:

"My guess is, we will have to spend $50 billion a year."

I-J SUBSCRIBER QUIZ

Survey Measures Favorite Reading

Independent-Journal readers who responded to a survey last month placed state news, international news and editorials at the top of the list of what draws their interest among regularly run features and stories in the paper.

(Those surveyed were not asked about their opinion of top interest local stories, such as the Golden Gate Bridge District's new bus system, Angela Davis, the August violence at San Quentin or the proposed location of the Renaissance Faire in Lucas Valley.)

The survey was made through questionaires which were distributed to two subscribers on each newsboy's route. Of the 1,600 forms distributed, 29 per cent were returned, considered a high response by the surveyer.

Those polled were asked to compare a list of randomly compared features and types of stories and to check in each case, which feature is read more frequently.

OTHER FAVORITES

After state and international news and editorials, the readers said they preferred "Names in the News," human interest features and letters to the editor followed by Marin Magazine cover stories, the weekly roundup of residential burglaries and reports of professional sports events and court proceedings.

That the readers said they more frequently read reports of planning commission meetings than they do of the board of supervisors' meetings indicated to the surveyor that residents of a bedroom community are interested in events which will affect their property values and life style.

Three syndicated columns, "Bowling Tips, "Stars Above" and "Boating" were the least read, the survey indicated, but the surveyor noted that columns such as these often have an intensely loyal following of certain readers.

The poll indicated that I-J readers do not primarily read the features that staff members thought they did. In a poll of staff members, the television log, national news and stock market quotations were marked 1, 2 and 7.

TYPICAL READER

The readers' response suggested, the surveyor said, that readers depend on other sources such as "TV Guide," the Wall Street Journal and television for these types of information.

The profile of readers obtained from those who responded to the survey showed the typical respondents to be members of a highly stable upper middle class household.

Whether this was typical of I-J's actual readership was not known, the surveyor said.

The fact that most of those who returned the survey were not young persons may account for the low ranking of the comic page although the surveyor indicated it might also be due to a changing attitude toward comics or the particular selection of comics in the newspaper.

Officials at the I-J are weighing results of the survey for possible additional coverage in the future on certain types of features.

Hearing Set On Property

The Marin Community College District board will hold a public hearing today on an easement for a sidewalk and concurrence in the sale of gas station property for use in widening Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. in Room 101 of the science center at the College of Marin in Kentfield.

Long opposed to widening the thoroughfare, the board gave in Dec. 9 after learning the board of supervisors had authorized a suit if the college board did not cooperate.

Jail, Probation Set For Heroin

William Perry Wolfe, 23, of San Rafael must serve nine months in jail and remain on three years supervised probation for possession of narcotics.

He was sentenced Monday in Marin Superior Court by Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Wolfe was originally charged with selling a gram of heroin to a narcotics agent last June 3. On Nov. 23, after negotiations with the district attorney, Wolfe pleaded guilty to narcotics possession, a lesser offense than sale of narcotics.

Christmas Stories, Song Program Set

A Christmas program of stories and songs for children will be presented by Kathy Sternberg of Novato from 10:30 to 11 a.m. next Tuesday in the children's room of the San Rafael Public Library, 1100 E Street.

Santa Claus is expected to visit the program.

Former Servant Denies Burglary

Bruce Damien Klopstock, 25, of 908 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, has pleaded innocent to a charge that he burglarized a Kentfield home Dec. 8.

Judge Robert A. Smallman on Monday ordered Klopstock to appear for a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court on Dec. 21.

Klopstock was arrested by sheriff's deputies at the home of Gilbert E. Atencio, 20 Hill Drive, Kentfield. Atencio told deputies he heard noises in his bedroom about 12:20 a.m. and caught Klopstock, his former houseboy, rummaging through the dresser.

Clausen Again Winner Of Conservative Award

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, has won another distinguished service award from the Americans for Constitutional Action.

Clausen, recipient of several of the annual awards by the conservative organization, was among 168 congressmen cited for "devotion to those fundamental principles of good government which serve to promote individual rights and responsibilities, a sound dollar, a growing economy and a desire for a strong national defense."

Thirteen of California's 38 congressmen received the awards, which also went to Reps. Barry M. Goldwater Jr., R-27th District; John G. Schmitz, R-35th District' and John H. Rousselot, R-24th District. Rousselot formerly headed national public relations for the John Birch Society, and Schmitz is a member of the society.

The American Music Conference reports there are millions of adults who used to play instruments.

All Luck And No Thought Makes South Very Dull Boy

South thought he was lucky when he picked up 15 points in high cards. He was sure of it when his partner was strong enough to jump to game. And South was even surer when the opening lead gave him a free finesse. It didn't seem right for all this luck to addd up to a minus score.

LOW HEART

South played the low heart from dummy at the first trick, taking advantage of the lucky lead that gave him a free finesse. East won with the king of hearts and did some thinking about life and other such deep matters.

South obviously had the queen and jack of hearts, so there wasn't time to develop and run the hearts. Since spades offered the only sensible chance, East shifted to the deuce of spades.

Declarer won but had to let West in with a diamond in the process of developing nine tricks. West promptly led another spade, and East took three spade tricks to defeat the contract.

TOO MUCH LUCK

South went astray when he took advantage of the lucky opening lead. He should make sure of the contract by taking the ace of hearts at once. Declarer then develops the diamonds.

South is then sure of five diamonds, one heart and two club. If the defenders get active, they must develop a ninth trick for declarer in spades or hearts. If they defend passively, South can develop a second heart trick by himself and thus make sure of his game.

The obvious moral to this little tale is that a player who is blessed with high cards must play them correctly to make a plus score with them. There's another moral from East's point of view: Take full advantage of an opponent's errors and you don't need the preponderance of high cards.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A K 7 2
♥ - K 10 9 8 6 4
♣ - 6 5.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

The fine high-card structure and the six-card heart suit make this hand just barely worth an opening bid.

20-Year Term For Dope Trading

BANGKOK (UPI) — Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn Monday night summarily sentenced to 20 years in prison a man charged with possessing and trading in heroin, opium and morphine.

Thanom, who as chairman of the National Executive Council has promised a nationwide creackdown on crime, ordered the sentence for Chaiwaen Sae Mh, arrested Dec. 7.

Thanom's crackdown on crime followed the Nov. 17 coup lhich dissolved Parliament and imposed martial law throughout the kingdom.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Guess who was born today, Dec. 15, and became famous as:

1. The richest man in the world? Now 79 years old, this son of a wealthy oil operator took the advice of his father and multiplied his inheritance by shrewd investments into a fortune worth more than $1.2 billion: (A) H.L. Hunt; (B) Alfred P. Sloan, Jr.; (C) J. Paul Getty.

2. A Protestant religious educator? Completing his Ph.D. at the University of Iowa, he became head of the same college's School of Religion, besides producing innumerable tracts, plays, and articles, such as his "The Will to Believe": (A) Marcus Bach; (B) Norman Vincent Peale; (C) Billy Graham.

3. A successful American author? This University of Michigan graduate tried her hand at free lance writing in the 1930s and by 1943 had turned out one of the best sellers of her time, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn": (A) Mary Stewart; (B) Betty Smith; (C) Agatha Christie.

4. A talented Broadway playwright? Unhappy as a schoolteacher and journalist, he found his vocation in the theater, giving the stage such original drama as "What Price Glory" and "Anne of the Thousand Days" (A) Sherwood Anderson; (B) Maxwell Anderson; (C) Eddie Anderson.

Masked Rider Attacks Mayor

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) — Mayor Charles Beatley was driving down the street to his city's annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony Monday night when he noticed a masked face in the back seat of his car.

Then he saw two paws. It was a racoon.

He left the animal in the car and decided to take it home after the ceremony was over But the racoon had other ideas and attacked the mayor, biting his fingers and arm.

It turned out the animal belonged to a neighbor, to whom it was returned—in a cage.

Marin City Ridgeland Deal Is Radio Topic

The proposed exchange of title to choice ridgeland property above Marin City for flatland in the community will be discussed by a panel of four persons on radio station KTIM's Marin Sounding Board program at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Panelists will be Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency; Arthur Miller Jr., chairman of the housing authority board; Nesbit Crutchfield, director of Marin City Employment Service, and Thelma McKinney, a member of the Marin Human Rights Commission.

The redevelopment agency and its sister organization, the county housing authority, have agreed to release 167 acres of ridgeland to California Development Co. in exchange for title to flatland within Marin City.

That property is now held by California Development, which has failed to meet development commitments.

Residents, fearing that loss of the ridgeland would endanger community self-destiny hopes, have objected to the trade.

Questions may be phoned into the broadcast, according to moderator Kitty Oppenheimer. The program will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Heavy Trial Expense Bill Is Now Law

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation providing state reimbursement to counties for hugely expensive murder trials has been signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill, SB 1633 by Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding, will trigger state reimbursement when costs exceed the amount a county can raise with a property tax of 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Previous law provided the reimbursement for costs over the amount raised by a 10-cent property tax.

In Marin, that will mean the state will reimburse the county for all costs over $365,000 under the current assessed valuation.

The new law, however, will not apply to the trials of Angela Y. Davis and Ruchell Magee since they already are covered by a special new law, AB 644 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Bagley's bill, signed last month by the governor, will provide state reimbursement for almost half of some $1.5 million estimated as the cost of the two pending trials.

Marler's bill, of course, would apply to any future costly trials in Marin, but apparently does not cover as many security costs as Bagley's bill.

Marler introduced his bill after the arrest of accused mass slayer Juan Carona in Yuba City, which is in the senator's district.

Four Given Marijuana Sentences

Four men arrested in a marijuana raid in Santa Venetia one year ago have been sentenced to probation and county jail terms.

Judge Henry J. Broderick of Marin Superior Court imposed the following sentences on Monday:

Kevin Sumner Orr, 20, of Ross — two years' supervised probation and county jail from Feb. 1 to June 15 of next year.

John Robert Oates, 21, of San Rafael — two years' supervised probation and six months in county jail.

James Steven Preston, 20, of San Anselmo — three years' supervised probation and county jail from Feb. 1 to June 15 of the next year.

John Russell Warne, 23, of Corte Madera — three years supervised probation and four months in county jail.

The four were arrested in December of 1970 and charged with possessing and selling marijuana.

On Nov. 8 this year, Oates, Preston and Warne pleaded guilty to selling marijuana, and Orr to possessing pot for sale.

Three Years' Supervised Probation

David Stuart King, 26, of Billings Mont., has been sentenced to three years' supervised probation for possession of hashish for sale two years ago.

He was sentenced Monday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court. The sentence is identical with the one meted out to King's partner in crime, Jeffrey David Wyard, 26, of Missoula, Mont., on Dec. 6.

They both pleaded guilty Nov. 1.

Narcotics agents arrested the pair at the Fountain Motel in Mill Valley on Dec. 16, 1969, and seized 50 pounds of hashish worth $134,000 and about $24,000 in cash.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales asked that both men be sentenced to state prison, but a probation report recommended probation on grounds that the men have been rehabilitated and are working steadily in responsible positions.

Recycling Revealed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The Ohio Department of Natural Resources announced today that it has begun using recycled paper. The announcement was printed on recycled paper.

Plea Set For Friday On Morals Charges

William Thomas Hutchings, 28, of 194 Central Avenue, Woodacre, is scheduled to plead Friday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of sex perversion and indecent exposure.

Hutchings was arrested Dec. 7 on a warrant charging him with committing perverted acts with a 13-year-old girl in San Anselmo on two occasions last March and exposing himself to an 11-year-old girl in San Rafael on Nov. 21.

Dick Tiger Dies At 42

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick Tiger, former middleweight and light heavyweight champion of the world, died in his home town of Aba, Nigeria Tuesday after a short illness according to a press officer of the Nigerian Mission to the United Nations. He was 42.

Dr. Harry Kleiman, who attended Tiger while he was hospitalized at the Polyclinic, said his patient was "a very sick man. He was being treated for a liver ailment. Our observation, both Dr. Gordon's (Donald) and mine was that Dick had developed cancer of the liver."

Tiger, who retired from the ring after his July 15, 1970 fight with Emile Griffith, had a career record of 61-17-3 with 26 knockouts.

He tried vainly to get other matches after the Griffith fight but he had to settle for a security officer's job at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Several months ago Tiger was admitted to the Polyclinic Hospital here to undergo observation and tests. He remained in the hospital a week and then left for Nigeria, apparently not a well man. He was said to have a liver ailment.

Tiger, a gentle man out of the ring but a fierce competitor once he laced up the gloves, came to fight in this country in 1959 and, under the tutilege of

Marin Tars Crush Napa Quint, 91-64

By RON LENT

E equals MC squared, or . . .

Elation equals Marin Cager Conquest. This offshoot of the Albert Einstein theory of relativity manifested last night in Kentfield when the host College of Marin Tars again dumped Napa College, 91-64.

Although the Tars could not divide atoms, they managed to master the Chiefs for the second time after beating them 86-42 in the college of Marin Invitational Saturday night. Despite the 27-point differential, winning coach John Panagakis was disappointed.

"We don't want to run. We've got to play pattern basketball. In the second half, we did that, and we held them to 21 points.

"That was the difference right there," he added.

After allowing the Napa quintet 43 points in the opening half, the Tars settled down to methodically dismantle the green and gold clad cagers.

The outstanding floor play of guards Joe Smith and Joe DeMaestri was instrumental in the Marin surge after intermission. The pair repeatedly pilfered Chief passes to break open a close, 52-43 score garnered after the first 20 minutes.

Forward Joe Casteel, an eventual ankle injury victim, began the second half pyroantics with a cross-under layup in widening the lead to 56-45. Smith followed with two more buckets and it was a 15-point disparity at 60-45.

Center Neil Traub, played perhaps his best game, batted in a missed shot and it was 66-50. On the ensuing sequence, Smith stole a pass and motored in for another layup.

Burdened by foul problems and a 19-point deficit, the visitors began emptying the bench. Eventually, the Tars returned the complement but not before Smith deposited three more field goals for a night's total of 22 points. His running mate DeMaestri accounted for 14, two more than Traub.

"Traub played very well," Panagakis enthused after watching his team increase its record to nine wins in 10 outings.

Napa — Johnson, 4-1-9; S. Bakker, 2-2-6; Dumont, 6-4-16; R. Bakker, 7-1-15; Miller, 7-4-18. Totals — 26-12-64.

MARIN — Casteel, 3-4-10; Herrnberger, 4-1-9; Green, 2-2-4; Smith, 10-2-22; De Maestri, 6-2-14; Traub, 4-4-12; Flynn, 1-0-2; Purcell, 3-0-6; Groshong, 2-0-4; Small, 2-1-5; Blasingame, 0-1-1. Totals — 37-17-91.

San Rafael Cagers Whip Armijo

Drake, San Marin Also Win Non-League Games

By LEW CODDINGTON

Bill Lechner dramatically seized control of a chaotic basketball game, scoring nine points in the decisive third quarter to lead San Rafael High School to a 48-40 victory over visiting Armijo High of Fairfield last night.

In other action involving Marin County Athletic League teams, Drake edged Montgomery at Santa Rosa on two free throws by Tom Carlisle with nine seconds left, 52-51; Terra Linda lost to Santa Rosa, 71-57; and San Marin swamped Healdsburg, 67-35.

San Rafael (4-3) was trailing by six points early in the third period when Lechner, a 6-foot-3 post man, went to work. First he passed to Doni Canfield to set up a successful jump shot.

Then, in rapid succession, he dropped in a layup, tipped in a shot, sank a free throw and scored a layup on a fast break. Presto — a 27-21 deficit had suddenly become a 30-27 lead.

Later, Lechner got two more tips and sank a shot off a rebound. He finished with 20 points, hitting nine of 15 shots from the field on a night that was marked by cold shooting for both teams.

"Bill has those good moves under the basket," said San Rafael coach Mike Diaz. "He's developing. We're still searching for the right starting five combination out there. I didn't start Bill tonight because I wanted him to come in and maybe fire things up a bit."

He certainly did that.

San Rafael shot 29 per cent, hitting 22 of 77 shots, which means the Bulldogs made only 21 per cent of shots Bill Lechner didn't take. Armijo was worse, 16 of 58.

San Rafael dominated the boards, 50-29, including an almost unbelievable 18 offensive rebounds in the first half. On several occasions, the Bulldogs got five or six consecutive shots and didn't make any.

Canfield added 12 points, and Wayne Lechner, Bill's brother, contributed eight, including two key layups late in the game. The Lechner brothers' height (Wayne is 6-5) was decisive against the smaller visitors. Bill got 12 rebounds and Wayne 10.

San Rafael's defense forced Armijo to go two and three minutes between field goals on several occasions. Although few fouls were called, it was a rough, slam-bang game on the part of both teams.

BILL LECHNER
Disarms Armijo

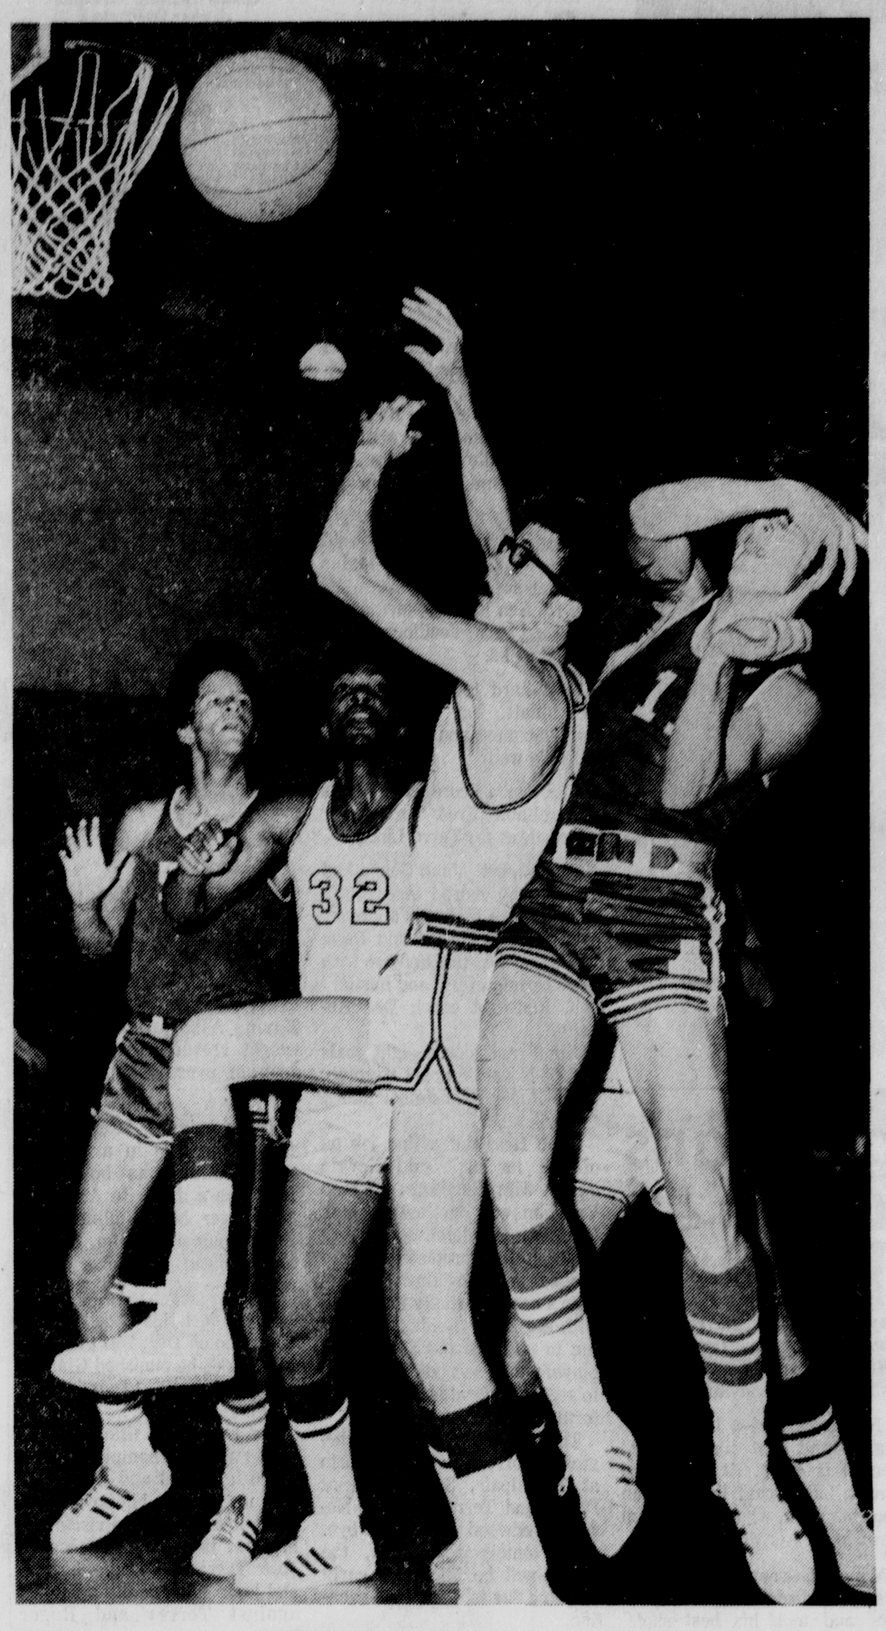
Drake High (4-4) welcomed two new players to its ever-growing "hero of the day" club against Montgomery. The Pirates trailed, 52-49, with about a minute left, but Dennis Daly sank two free throws to cut the gap and then Carlisle hit his game-winners.

Neither team ever led by more than four points. The key to the game was the Pirates' ability to break even on the boards with the taller hosts. As is becoming a habit, Drake used its bench effectively — ten players scored, and both Daly and Carlisle were substitutes.

Nobody hit double figures for Drake. John Channell and Daly had nine; Mark Daubenfeld, Phil Wilkinson and Jit Singh had eight. Channell and Daly each grabbed eight rebounds. Drake got 11 more foul shots than Montgomery, and although shooting worse from the line, made five more points.

San Marin (2-4) made 11 of 16 shots in the third quarter to sprint away from Healdsburg and break a three-game losing streak. Hoza Wright connected for 18 points and Fred Doar 11.

See PREPS, page 33



DANCING DUO — San Rafael's Mark McCarthy (glasses) and Armijo's Kent Abel twisted and cavorted in an effort to get in position for a rebound. Doni Canfield (32) of San Rafael and Lonnie Spencer (rear) of Armijo watched the dance. San Rafael won last night, 48-40.

Giants' Film Intrudes On Football Frenzy

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Here I am, right in the midst of a 49er drive for a championship, the excited voice of Lon Simmons filling my ears, but flashing before my eyes are images of Giants hitting baseballs and sliding into home plate. Giants? Baseball?

Sure enough. With the 49ers only five days away from their game against the Detroit Lions, a game in which victory would mean a division championship and a spot in the playoffs, I am seeing the likes of Willie Mays, Willie McCovey, Ken Henderson, and, of course, Gaylord Perry.

THEY, AND ALL the rest of the Giants are filling the screen in front of perhaps 150 guests of the Giants' organization. It's the press showing of, "More Flags to Follow," a Giants' film about the 1971 Western Division championship season, narrated by KSFO's Simmons. The film followed a luncheon yesterday in the El Dorado Room of the Jack Tar Hotel.

The picture had barely started when the image of Gaylord Perry dominated the scene. There he was, wiping away the perspiration, staring down for the sign, and then letting one go toward the plate. Had film makers Kenneth and Mark Allen known Perry would not be around for the 1972 season, it is doubtful he would have had such a starring role, although it was warranted by his contribution for the season.

There were some funny scenes, some errors and bad throws, but mostly it was a picture of plusses, as is expected of a promotional flick. The accompanying music had all the drama of a Darryl F. Zanuck production.

MOST OF THE film was taken on the field, much of the footage shot on the green-carpeted Candlestick Park playground. There was McCovey bashing home runs, Mays running the bases, Chris Speier making incredible plays, Bobby Bonds smacking a double, Alan Gallagher sliding into base on his belly, Dave Kingman hitting one of his pinch-hit home runs, Juan Marichal, Perry and Jerry Johnson pitching.

Some of the film took you off the field, for a stroll down the streets of Montreal, Canada; in the Giants' locker room in San Diego, the champagne flowing and splashing over the happy players who had just won the division title on the last day of the season.

Some of the stars of the show were sprinkled among the audience. There was manager Charlie Fox, also third base coach John McNamara, Tito Fuentes, Gallagher, Rich Robertson, Russ Gibson, Henderson, Steve Stone, Jim Barr, Don Carrithers, Jim Davenport and all the front office people from president Horace Stoneham on down.

FOX, CALLED UPON for a short talk, said, "It's great to watch all the good things of the season without all those frustrations in between."

Fox talked glowingly of the trade in which the Giants obtained lefthanded ace Sam McDowell from Cleveland for Perry. "We got a younger man from the American League and had to give up a fella we all liked. There is no doubt he'll be great for the Giants," he said about McDowell. Then he added, "We're still looking for another pitcher." He didn't say, but I suspect the whole Giants' organization has been scanning the want ads without much luck.

Well, anyway the film, "More Flags to Follow," will be available for group showings free of charge beginning next Monday. To book the film, interested groups should get in touch with the Giants' Film Library at Candlestick Park either by letter or phone.

Madden Questions Ref's Call

OAKLAND (UPI) —Did an official's boo-boo cost the Oakland Raiders a playoff shot?

John Madden believes so after viewing films of the 16-14 loss at Kansas City last Sunday, but he admits he can't be sure.

The play came when the Chiefs were backed up in a second and 10 situation on their own 7. Nemiah Wilson dived for the ball and either did or did not intercept. The officials called it an incomplete pass.

Then Len Dawson's completions to the great Otis Taylor and an interference call helped a 90-yard drive that wound up with a Jan Stenerud field goal to decide the issue.

"It sure looks like he caught the ball," Madden says after viewing films of Wilson's effort. "But the picture is from the press box angle and his back is to the camera so I can't be strong enough about it."

He adds though that "it was a judgment call, so there's nothing we can do about it now."

Madden also confirmed that all-pro cornerback Willie Brown broke his thumb during the second period and played the rest of the way with the injury.

The Raiders host Denver in the final game Sunday. The injury situation and the coach's wish to see some of his younger players mean that plenty of new faces will go for the Raiders.

G. Washington Guest Speaker

San Francisco 49er wide receiver Gene Washington will be guest speaker at tomorrow's meeting of the 49er Junior Minor Club at the Mill Valley Community Recreation Center, 180 Camino Alto.

Four tickets to the 49er-Detroit Lions game on Sunday will be given away, as well as an autographed football and club T-shirts.

A National Football League movie also will be shown. The club, which will meet at 7 p.m., is sponsored by the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department.

Hardman Working On Counterpunch

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Just as a fastball pitcher needs a good changeup, a hardcharging defensive lineup can use another move or two.

That's why the 49ers fine defensive end Cedrick Hardman says "I haven't been happy with my play in the last few games."

Hardman has reached the quarterback an amazing 16 times this season, but says that opposing lineman have recently been taking away his best move (a strong, quick thrust to the outside.)

"It's my fault and I know it. I've got to develop another good move, a counter to take advantage if they overplay me," said the second year man from North Texas State as he readied for Sunday's Candlestick Park crucial against Detroit.

Defensive coach Paul Wiggin agreed that "Cedrick has played fine football, but he's right about the moves. Every great defensive lineman has to have two good ones—one to force an overplay and the other to take advantage of it."

Wiggin said he and Hardman were working on a new one, but declined to discuss it.

Meanwhile, Greg Landry of Detroit warned the 49ers that his Lions planned to knock the 49ers out of the playoff. San Francisco can automatically qualify if they beat the Lions.

"There could be some natural letdown, but most of us will be up for San Francisco," he promised. The Lions are 7-5-1 and last week were mathematically knocked out of the playoffs.

NBA ROUNDUP

He's Still Learning; Lakers Win No. 22

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Elmore Smith is only in his fourth year of competitive basketball and has a lot to learn. The Philadelphia 76ers, however, think the 7-foot Buffalo Braves' center is grasping the fundamentals too quickly.

Smith scored 23 points, grabbed 22 rebounds and blocked 10 shots Tuesday night as Buffalo posted its first victory over Philadelphia since entering the league. The 117-110 decision kept the 76ers from gaining ground in the Atlantic Division.

"I've got a lot to learn about playing offense," Smith admits, although he did hit on 11-of-17 floor shots. Smith was never a regular in high school and became a starter for the first time as a Kentucky State sophomore.

"Elmore has always been good defensively," says Buffalo Coach Johnny McCarthy. "He blocked 11 shots in one other game this season. He'll develop into a top offensive player because he's got all the shots. He just hasn't played enough basketball."

Walt Hazzard led Buffalo with 26 points, while Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia posted a game high 29. Hal Greer scored 17 for the 76ers, giving him a career total of 20,883 to move ahead of Bob Pettit into fifth place on the all-time NBA scoring list.

Los Angeles won its 22nd consecutive game by beating Portland 129-114, Milwaukee topped Houston 106-98, Boston clipped Chicago 116-08, Phoenix stopped New York 110-100, Seattle clobbered Detroit 103-86 and Cleveland downed Baltimore 88-85.

Limantour Fishing Is Banned

Fishing will be banned in Limantour Bay and 1,000 feet offshore of Point Reyes from Chimney Rock to the Point Reyes Lighthouse, effective next March 1.

The ban was part of a series of new regulations enacted by the California State Fish and Game Commission last Friday in Sacramento.

It goes only part way to meet an effort by the National Park Service, backed by Sen. Alan Cranston, to outlaw fishing in all waters of Point Reyes National Seashore.

"The commission didn't feel it was necessary to outlaw fishing entirely to preserve nature in the national seashore," Leslie F. Edgerton, its executive secretary, told the Independent-Journal.

One sort of fishing was outlawed along the entire Point Reyes National Seashore coast for 1,000 feet out to sea, however: the taking of marine animals by scooping out the water.

Edgerton said this ban was aimed primarily at "school children who come with buckets and capture the small marine animals." It does not apply to sport fish, he emphasized.

Edgerton said about 200 people attended the commission meeting Friday, many of whom were interested in the Point Reyes regulations.

The National Park Service had asked that all Point Reyes waters be closed. The commission's decision was a compromise, Edgerton indicated.

"About four landowners" opposed the closing, he said. "The Sierra Club and that type all showed up in support of it."

Questioned as to whether pressure for closing had been brought by California's two senators, Edgerton said Senator Cranston had written supporting the National Park Service position, but Sen. John V. Tun-

MEXICAN-AMERICANS CHEER

Gala Night For Fight Fans

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)— It was a gala night Tuesday for 14,713 fight fans, most of them Mexican-Americans, when their favorites, welterweight champion Jose Napoles and bantamweight king Ruben Olivares, successfully defended their titles.

But it was a sad night for banty challenger Jesus Pimentel, who at 31 ended his professional boxing career by losing to Olivares on an 11th round knockout.

Napoles, 31, a Cuban-born resident of Mexico City, scored a unanimous but fairly close decision over Hedgemon Lewis, 25, of Hollywood, in the first championship fight at the Forum.

The gross gate for the extravaganza promoted by George Parnassus was $255,585. Parnassus picked up another $100,000 for ancillary rights— closed circuit television and radio to Latin America. The champions were each guaranteed $90,000 and the challengers $25,000 for a total of $230,000.

Pimentel, the perennial no. 1 banty contender, ended his career with a record of 78-7—85 fights, and he knocked out 72 opponents.

"Father time—you just can't beat him," he said in his dressing room. "Olivares is a great champion."

Now a resident of Mexicali, Mexico, Pimentag has a ranch near El Centro, Calif., and will retire there.

He gave it his best shot but in the words of his manager, Harry Kabakoff, "Jesus fell apart in the seventh and eighth rounds."

Olivares, 23, who has lost only one fight and won 66, chose to slug with Pimental for the first four rounds. He had knocked out 62 foes so his manager, Eddie Futch, told him to try to take Pimentel early.

It was a mistake. Slugging toe-to-toe, Olivares came out of an exchange in the third round with blood streaming from a cut on the left side of his head. He said he got butted.

After that he stood off and bombarded Pimentdl with lefts to the head and rights to the body, then closing in.

Pimentel sat on the apron for the count of six, climbed back into the ring, took the mandatory eight-count and then went winging after the champion again.

Pimentel kept coming and Olivares kept pounding him from then on.

In the 11th, Kabakoff stepped into the ring before the round was over, motioned Pimentel to his corner and pointed a finger at the champion and said, "Ruben, you're the winner."

Referee George Latka called it an 11th round kayo since there is no provision for a technical knockout under California rules.

Latka had Olivares ahead 8-1, judge Lee Grossman 9-3 and judge John Thomas 9-2.

In the dressing room, Kabakoff said, "Jesus will never fight again. Five years ago he would have knocked this guy out."

Olivares didn't argue. All he said was, "Pimentel has a lot of courage—guts."

The Napoles-Lewis match was not as well received by the fans as the windup.

The Latinos kept rooting for Napoles to make Lewis his 47th kayo victim but the champion got arm weary and Lewis was a difficult moving target, dancing as Napoles was advancing.

Napoles, 145 1-4, has won 66 fights and lost five. Lewis' record is 40-4-1. At 144 3-4 he was a half pound lighter than the champion, who looked much stronger.

Napoles, from the start, bored in disdainful of Lewis' fists and took his best shots without too much trouble except in the 12th round. Lewis caught him with a right to the chin with 10 seconds to go. Napoles staggered but recovered quickly.

Referee Larry Rozadilla had it 8-6 for Napoles. Latka, a judge in the first fight, gave Napoles a five-point margin, 94. The other judge, John Thomas, scored it 8-7 for Napoles.

WATER POLO

Trojans Regain Top Spot

Terra Linda's tight team defense was again the determining factor as the Trojans regained undisputed first place in the Marin County Athletic League water polo race with a 10-2 victory over Tamalpais yesterday.

Novato knocked San Rafael out of a first-place tie with a 14-8 upset triumph, but San Rafael protested the game. Redwood defeated Drake, 11-3, and San Marin was idle as the first half of the 12-game season concluded.

"Our key is defense," said Terra Linda coach Charles Metz, whose team has a 5-1 record. San Rafael, Novato and Redwood are deadlocked for second at 4-2.

"It's hard to single out any individuals, but Ted Gazulis, Keith Strange and Todd Gulich did very well."

Jon Fearn scored four goals and reliable Fred Turkheimer added three for Terra Linda.

"Bob Hess did a fine job on offense for us," said Novato coach Jim Settlage. "Brian Vaughan was outstanding both on offense and defense."

San Rafael protested on two grounds, alleging first that Novato's coach verbally interfered with the game by illegally talking to officials and San Rafael players and second that Novato's goal apparatus did not conform to regulation.

The second round-robin begins tomorrow, with San Marin at Tamalpais, San Rafael at Drake and Terra Linda at Novato. Redwood draws the bye. After tomorrow's action, the teams will be idle until early January due to Christmas vacation.

The standings:

Terra Linda 5-1, Novato 4-2*, Redwood 4-2, San Rafael 4-2*, San Marin 3-3, Tamalpais 1-5, Drake 0-6.
*—Novato's victory over San Rafael under protest.

trainer Jersey Jones, fought his way to the middleweight title.

On Oct. 23, 1962, in San Francisco, Tiger captured the World Boxing Association's middleweight crown with a 15-round decision over champion Gene Fullmer.

Three months later he retained the title in a rematch with Fullmer as both men fought to a draw. In August of 1963 Tiger beat Fullmer to a bloody pulp in Ibadan, Nigeria and stopped him after seven rounds.

Tiger lost his title to Joe Giardello on Dec. 7 of that year but in 1965 he punished Giardello over 15 rounds to win it back.

Tiger lost his title again to welterweight champion Emile Griffith in 1966 and decided to step up with the big boys in the light heavyweight division. In his first title try he decisioned Jose Torres on Dec. 16, 1966, and later successfully defended against Torres and Roger Rouse.

But on May 24, 1968 Tiger was knocked out for the first and only time in his career by Bob Foster in the fourth round and relinquished the light heavyweight crown.

Oregon State Combines Men's, Women's Phys. Ed.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

CORVALLIS, Ore. — Oregon State University has created a unisex physical education department with a woman as its head.

School officials said yesterday the departments of men's and women's physical education had been combined and Dr. Charlotte L. Lambert named head of the combined department. Former men's department head Arnold W. Flath will serve as assistant director.

School spokesman James W. Long said "all professional physical education courses will be open to both men and women students, except when considered physiologically unsuitable, and will be taught by qualified instructors regardless of sex."

But Dr. Long said that the remodeled PE buildings still provided separate locker and shower facilities for men and women.

BETHANY, Ill. — Rich Helton, 15, a sophomore at Arthur High School, died of an apparent heart attack during a junior varsity basketball game last night against Bethany. He played the first three minutes of the second half and was sitting on the bench when he collapsed.

Football

CINCINNATI — Paul Robinson, the Cincinnati Bengals running back who rushed more than 1,000 yards in his first season in 1968 and was named rookie of the year of the old American Football League, said today he has the "feeling" he will be traded. He has been used sparingly this season.

Auto Racing

TORRANCE — Al Unser and Mario Andretti will drive the Viceroy Specials in the U.S. Auto Club Championship car series next year, car owners Vel Miletich and Parnelli Jones announced yesterday.

Tennis

LOS ANGELES — A $108,000 suit was filed in Superior Court yesterday against the Southern California Tennis Association and Pepsico Inc. by professionals Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals.

Mrs. King demanded the tournament replace an official after she bitterly protested a call. When the official was not replaced, the finalists left the court. Their prize money of $4,000 was withheld.

Mrs. King and Miss Casals, in their suit, complained that the tournament had not provided "trained and competent referees."

In their action, the pair asked for $4,000 in prize money, and $50,000 apiece in general damages.

Salmon Not Using Nicasio

Nicasio Creek in west Marin will not be a return route for silver salmon this year, but the fish will find another way to spawning grounds, an official of the Department of Fish and Game assured the Independent-Journal yesterday.

Silver salmon, returning from their three-year stay in the Pacific Ocean, normally enter Marin County through the tidewaters of Paper Mill Creek and then head upstream, some branching off to Nicasio Creek and others staying on Paper Mill Creek until it winds its way through Samuel P. Taylor State Park and the eventual spawning grounds.

The fish that headed up Nicasio Creek — the creek's flow aided by releases from Nicasio Reservoir — would get as far as a trap, where a Department of Fish and Game employee would put them in a tank truck, transport them to the other side of the reservoir and release in the small creeks upstream.

Many of the newborn salmon were lost later when the spring rains came, sometimes washing out the traps upstream from the reservoir. The department decided to curtail the Nicasio Creek spawning because of "continual diminishing returns," according to Eldon Vestal, fisheries management supervisor for the Department of Fish and Game's Yountville office.

Water will not be released from the reservoir this year, so salmon shouldn't be attracted by that tributary, according to Vestal.

"The returning salmon will instead go up Paper Mill Creek," said Vestal.

Nicasio Creek's fish trap will be kept in working order to serve as a backup for the department's traps on the Noya River in Mendocino County, the department's principle source of silver salmon stock.

Marin Municipal Water District provides funds to the Department of Fish and Game to pay for stocking of fish in streams cut off by the district's dams. There is $5,800 earmarked for the purchase and planting of 40,000 silver salmon and 5,000 steelhead yearlings (about 4 or 5 inches long) in Paper Mill Creek next spring. These fish will head out for the ocean to live, returning to spawn and die three years later. Because of commercial fishing and natural obstacles, a five per cent return of these fish as adults is considered good.

"We finally put it all together," said coach Andy Frauenhofer, back from a bout with the flu. "Good shooting, good rebounding, good team play." San Marin shot 47 per cent on 25 of 43 shots.

Terra Linda fell victim to Santa Rosa's slick Allen brothers, Chris and Tom, who combined for 43 points. Twelve-point efforts by Brian Wall and Mark Lowey could not offset the splurge.

In junior varsity play, San Rafael smashed Armijo, 58-40; Drake battered Montgomery, 72-43; and San Marin lost to Healdsburg, 65-50.

The Christmas Rush Hits High School Basketballers

The Christmas rush is here.

With the last full weekend before the Christmas holidays coming up, all eight Marin County Athletic League basketball teams will be in action, four in single games Friday night and four in tournaments running tomorrow through Saturday.

Redwood (6-0) makes the long trek north to play in the Yuba City tournament. Tamalpais (4-2) makes the short trip south for the El Camino tournament in South San Francisco. Marin Catholic (3-3) and Novato (3-4) make a joint journey to Santa Rosa for the Rose City tournament.

Friday night's games find Drake (4-4) hosting Hogan of Vallejo, 6:45; Terra Linda (3-5) entertaining Harry Ells of Richmond, 8; San Rafael (4-3) greeting Vallejo, 8; and San Marin (2-4) travelling to Crockett to play John Swett, 8:15.

The Vallejo-San Rafael game will mark the first meeting between San Rafael star Doni Canfield and his former teammates. Canfield scored 29 points for Vallejo against San Rafael last year before his family moved to Marin County.

Vallejo is considered one of the better teams in the North Bay League, although the Apaches were upset by Drake earlier this year. San Rafael, struggling for the right starting combination, was cheered by the emergence of Bill Lechner as a scoring threat last night. He scored 20 against Armijo of Fairfield.

Drake apparently is determined to make this season interesting. Five of the Pirates' eight games have been decided by five points or less, including the last three contests.

Hogan of Vallejo, Drake's foe, has met one Marin County opponent so far. Terra Linda defeated the Spartans, 70-51, and Drake is similar to Terra Linda in many ways — small, quick, aggressive, with a hard-working bench.

San Marin, fresh from an ego-boasting victory over Healdsburg, may finally have hit its stride. The Mustangs got scoring production from 11 players in their last outing, with Hoza Wright and Fred Doar hitting double figures.

Terra Linda is in the throes of a three-game losing streak, the result of running into too many tough teams at once. The Trojans have lost to regional powers Petaluma and Santa Rosa and caught a hot Novato team in the Drake Tournament.

Marin Catholic and Novato may collide again in Santa Rosa. Novato won the meeting in the Drake Invitational by 22 points, but the Wildcats did an abrupt about-face, whipped two foes, and now look for revenge.

In first-round play, Marin Catholic meets Montgomery of Santa Rosa at 8 p.m. tomorrow, and Novato faces Cardinal Newman, also of Santa Rosa, at 9:30. Winners clash in Friday's semifinals.

Newman has a strong team, but Marin Catholic almost won an earlier clash, slicing a 21-point deficit to one and finally losing by three. Conversely, Novato played Montgomery earlier, also losing by three. Believers in comparative scores can have a field day trying to analyze those.

Redwood, fresh from a tournament victory at Riordan High in San Francisco, plays Marysville at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Yuba City. The unbeaten Giants have been getting high-scoring, error-free play lately from their fine guards, Mike Connor and Sam Farb.

ney had not entered the controversy.

Edgerton said three hearings had been held on the new regulations: in Los Angeles, San Diego and (at Friday's meeting) Sacramento.

He said the Fish and Game Commission is required by law to adopt all new regulations in December of each year, and to hold hearings at Los Angeles and Sacramento, and in alternate years, at either Los Angeles or Redding. It has no authority to schedule its hearings closer to the affected areas, he said.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Moored, Anchored Differences Noted

A lot of boaters still like to use old salty expressions, and if you're a purist at the nautical jargon you'll recognize the difference between being "anchored" and being "moored at anchor."

The difference is pretty subtle, but this is it: You're "anchored" if you merely use an anchor, or two anchors, at the bow, or stern, so that a boat is able to swing through a full circle — 360 degrees. But the original meaning of being "moored at anchor" indicated that two anchors were being used, one at the bow and the other at the stern, so that the craft couldn't swing, but kept the same heading.

Being anchored means that a craft is prevented from drifting, but being moored at anchor means that a craft's position is fixed.

It's being a little too precise to use such expressions these days, because it's likely nobody would know what you meant. But many boaters like the old jargon, and I've heard anglers who have never seen the sea, boating on an inland lake that never existed before the Corps of Engineers built a dam, refer to "port" and "starboard" rather than left and right.

Mooring, or tying up a boat, either power or sail, is done by mooring lines. The lines are made fast to cleats or bitts. Large ships tie up to bollards, which are just larger versions of bitts.

However, there's much more to securing a boat or handling one in mooring procedures than merely knowing some of the terminology, as many of the questions we've been asked this past summer indicate.

Q. I'm told synthetic ropes such as nylon are best for anchoring. Is this so?

A. Very much so. Nylon is unquestionably the best because of its elasticity. It has springiness not found in natural fiber ropes such as manila, hemp or sisal, or in other synthetics such as dacron or polyethylene. However these elastic qualities aren't desirable where the rope must not stretch as in such applications as sheets and halliards on sailing craft.

Q. What's a fairlead?

A. It's a hole or conduit for a chain or rope on a boat. In pleasure boating we generally call them chocks.

Q. My boat broke away from it's mooring and almost hit a million-dollar luxury craft. The rope broke under the strain. Would I have been to blame if damage had resulted?

A. Every precedent in admiralty law says that the owner is responsible for the damage his boat does. If the rope broke, it's your fault. You should have had a tougher mooring line.

Q. Is it compulsory to carry an anchor on inland waters?

A. This is a matter of state law. More and more states are legislating amendments to their boating laws requiring pleasure craft (usually those over 26 feet) to carry an anchor and 50 feet of anchor line or chain. Check your state boating law.

Q. What is considered good practice in the way of anchors and line on a medium (28-foot) cruising boat.

A. Most safety agencies would suggest TWO anchors both capable of holding the boat in rough weather and 200 feet of line, chain or cable. One anchor and 50 feet of line is the suggested minimum for boats between 16 and 26 feet.

Q. I was towing a light sailboat to dock and yanked all the hardware off its decks. Is there a safe way to tow?

A. Cleats that are intended merely for tying up won't stand the strain of towing. The thing to do is to pass a rope right around the boat to be towed in a loop or bridle, then pull on it. The rope may be supported by light ties at various points around the boat.

Q. Where I park my boat there is constant wave action from passing boats and the wear on lines and fenders is terrible. Any suggestions?

A. For lines use dacron or nylon. These materials resist abrasion better than others. Also try "chafing gear." Put short lengths of old rubber hose around the mooring lines at points of wear. For fenders or bumpers try the kind that slide freely on the tie rope.

Q. Coming downwind in a sailboat to dock, is there a proper sequence in taking in sail?

A. It's a must — lower the aft sails first. Keep jib up to provide steerage, but drop it well before touching the dock and coast in. Don't try coming downwind until you have been shown how by an expert. It can be a dangerous maneuver if there is much wind. Better to pick a landing where you can come in up-wind. You have better control and can stop faster.

Seattle's Cage Debut Is Success

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Seattle had made its debut in the West Coast Athletic Conference basketball league a resounding success.

The Chiefs called on St. Mary's Tuesday night for their first-ever WCAC game and also the first conference game of the season and emerged with an 111-88 win over the Gaels.

In other action, newcomer Bakersfield State continued unbeaten with an 81-76 win over Southern California College. Walter Clapp hit 20 and Carl Toney 19 for the winners in that one.

Chico State got a career high of 38 points from Rich Nelson in disposing of Dominguez Hills 94-69.

San Diego took Fullerton in overtime 78-75 as Stan Washington scored the final five points for the winners in the extra stanza.

Warriors Hope To Snap Pair Of Cage Streaks

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors wouldn't mind breaking a couple of streaks this week.

For starters, they would like to snap their own six-game loss skein when they host Philadelphia Thursday night at the Coliseum Arena.

Then they journey Friday night to Inglewood to play the Lakers and will try to snap the 22-game win streak of Los Angeles, longest in NBA history.

NFL Playoffs On Dec. 25-26

The post-season play begins Christmas Day, 10 a.m., Pacific Standard Time. Minnesota, the National Football Conference Central Division champion, will host the NFC Eastern king, either Dallas or Washington.

At 1 p.m., the American Football Conference Eastern Division ruler, Baltimore or Miami, visits Kansas City, the AFC's Western champ.

On Sunday, Dec. 26, the AFC Central kings, Cleveland, entertain the AFC's fourth qualifier, Baltimore or Miami.

Los Angeles or San Francisco, the NFC Western champions, play the NFC's fourth qualifier, either Dallas or Washington. The Western champs will host the game at 1 p.m.

Although the playoff situation remains in flux going into the season finales, this weekend, the races will be decided by Sunday night.

For example, Dallas can clinch the NFC Eastern title and a shot at Minnesota with a win Saturday over St. Louis. If the front-running Cowboys lose and Washington defeats Pittsburgh Sunday, the Redskins, not the Cowboys will trek to Minnesota. Should both Dallas and Washington triumph in the regular season curtain closers, Dallas would face Minnesota, while Washington travels to either Los Angeles or San Francisco.

The muddled West Coast situaiton will be clarified Sunday. Should the San Francisco 49ers defeat visiting Detroit, the prospectors will entertain the fourth qualifier.

If the Rams win and the 49ers lose, the Los Angeles contingent will take the San Franciscans' place in the playoffs. Should the Rams drop the finale Sunday to the Steelers in Pittsburgh and the 49ers falter against Detroit, San Francisco would be in.

Like the NFC's Western Division plight, the AFC Eastern Division heads into the last week without a king. Although Baltimore leads runnerup Miami by a half-game, the Dolphins could cop the crown by defeating visiting Green Bay, while New England upsets Baltimore.

A Colt victory over New England would send Miami to snow-ridden Cleveland.

Goaltending Renews Seals' Playoff Hopes

OAKLAND (UPI) —Now that the California Golden Seals are getting a little goaltending, they may wind up in the National Hockey League playoffs yet.

The Seals have given up a league high of 124 goals in 31 games this season, worst goals-against average in the league.

But after an opening seven-game homestand that produced two ties and five losses, the Seals gave up on Gary Kurt.

But veteran Lyle Carter and rookie Gilles Maloche have turned things around a bit and Meloche is exceptional in that he seems to have the number of mighty Boston.

The Seals hope their goalie tandem will keep up the good work when Detroit comes to call Friday.

Ted Williams Talks About Improvement

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Ted Williams, making his first trip to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, thinks the Texas Rangers of 1972 will be considerably improved over the Washington Senators of 1971.

William, in his fourth year as manager of the ball club, said players like slugger Frank Howard and pitcher Denny McLain are going to have to make certain concessions but overall the team should have a better record because they will be playing in a new division and a new ballpark.

Williams, the last major leaguer to hit over .400 in a season, stood on the second deck of Turnpike Stadium, glanced out to the short fences and said:

"I think the ball park really looks like it's going to be a fine ball park."

Williams said Tuesday he has been trying to find out whether the park, the former home of a minor league baseball team, favors right hand hitters or left hand hitters.

"Despite the fact therearen't that many home runs hit on the minor league level there's going to be a lot more hit on the major league level," Williams said Tuesday.

But Williams said he still would not hesitate to trade for one of his sluggers if he could get a good quality younger ballplayer.

"You're certainly going to have to have a balanced attack on your club," he said. "As of now Howard and Don Mincher are our two power hitters — No. 1 and 2, right and left, as far as power is concerned.

Williams said the club should be improved because of the development of younger players who will pressure the veterans of the team. He said the team's record will improve because the team was switched from the east to the west division "and we won't have to see Baltimore as much."

He said Oakland will still be the team to beat in the American League West.

"Oakland really helped themselves with their trade," he said. "Any time you get an outstanding pitcher (Ken Holtzman) and someone to replace the real good ballplayer you give up (Rick Monday) I have to feel they strengthened themselves."

Red Wings, Leafs In Hockey Victories

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Delvecchio, who reached his 40th birthday a little more than a week ago, assisted on all four goals Tuesday night as the Detroit Red Wings beat the Vancouver Canucks 4-3.

The veteran center, a Red Wing since 1950, assisted on a pair of second period goals by Mickey Redmond and set up third period scores by Al Karlander and Gary Bergman. Karlander, Delvecchio's linemate, finished with a goal and three assists.

Dale Tallon had two goals and Dave Balon added the third for the Canucks.

In the only other National Hockey League game, Ron Ellis, Dave Keon, Paul Henderson and Jim Harrison all chipped in with goals as the Toronto Maple Leafs downed the St. Louis Blues 4-2. Ellis, Harrison and Keon connected in the first period and Henderson in the middle period as the Leafs handed St. Louis its first loss at home this season.

Andre DuPont and Terry Crisp scored for the Blues.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, CPA

Some More Tips On Switching Income And Deductions To 1972

Here's some more information on switching income and deductions from 1971 to 1972.

If we postpone income to 1972, we can use the tax money for an extra year.

On capital gains the long term capital gains alternative tax rate is increased in three annual steps; for taxable years beginning in 1971, it is 32.5 per cent. Actually the alternative tax will not exist after 1972 and thereafter. But, the effect of the 50 per cent capital gains deduction and the maximum 70 per cent rate for individuals makes a maximum 35 per cent on long term capital gains.

If your total gains are no more than $50,000, ($25,000. in the case of a married person filing a separate return) the old capital gains maximum rate of 25 per cent continues to apply. But, if your net capital gains is going to be in excess of $50,000 then it might be to your advantage to take that gain in 1971 rather than pay the higher maximum tax that will apply in 1972.

Here are some possible transactions for tax savings in 1971.

If you are an investor in the stock market and you have a large gain that you would like to nail down but don't want to pay the tax this year you might consider going short against the box.

SHORT STOCKS

This is a technique for selling the stock short and replacing it with a stock you own at a later date. Your broker can help you on this.

If you have a big loss which you would like to take this year but you would like to keep the stock, you might consider saving your tax loss by buying a convertible in the same company, if the company has a convertible. Check this with your broker.

Suppose you have a gain on a stock purchased June 15, and you would like to be sure your gain is long term, be sure that you don't sell before tomorrow. You have to hold for six months and one day, otherwise your gain will be short term.

Suppose you have long term gain on a stock you want to sell but it is about due to pay a dividend, should you wait and collect the dividend?

SELL IT NOW

Don't wait, sell it now. It will probably decline in value the amount of the dividend right after the dividend is paid and the dividend would be taxed as ordinary income; but if you get it as an additional price of your stock it would be taxed as long term capital gains.

If you have some big losses and you would like to get out of the market but you don't want to write off only $1,000 a year of losses against other income, one thing you can do is to sell the stocks and take the losses and immediately buy bonds which are selling at a discount.

When the bonds mature you get capital gains and you have carried over your capital losses which would offset them. This could help with your capital loss situation.

Now is a time to look over your deductions and pay them before the end of the year if you want the deductions this year.

That would be your charitable contributions, your interest, deductible taxes, medical expenses, etc.

Quarterly Profit

BEVERLY HILLS (BW) — Tassaway Inc. has reported that for the three months ended Oct. 31, the company had total revenues of $940,102 (including $500,000 licensing fee for England, Scotland, Wales, Northern Ireland and Eire), which resulted in a net profit for the period of $53,000. For the like period last year, revenues totaled $130,000, resulting in a loss for that period of $120,000.

Tassaway showed total revenues of $1,136,324 resulting in a loss of $380,993 for the first half of its fiscal year. This compares to total revenues of $269,412 which resulted in a loss of $401,518 for the like period last year, according to Robert P. Oreck, president of the company which manufactures and distributes a unique, disposable menstrual protection product.

Tassaway is traded on the national over-the-counter market.

Wall Street Feels Profit Taking Drag

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks were mixed in moderate trading after about two hours today.

Analysts noted that despite a general feeling of optimism in the financial community, profit taking dragged down selected specialty issues that had been in higher gear since Thanksgiving.

Recently monetary news was regarded as bullish for stocks, but many traders were awaiting developments at the forthcoming monetary negotiations in Washington between the United States and its major trading partners.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were STP Corp. down more than a point on over 20,000 shares, Syntex fractionally lower on 16,500 shares, and Teleprompter down slightly on around 15,000 shares.

On the Big Board, steels and motors were fractionally mixed. So were chemicals, airlines and aircrafts.

Gold mining stocks backtracked, with Dome Mines the weakest in the group. It lost a point.

Corning Glass fell around 3, but IBM and Zenith added more than a point each.

Fiscal-Year Revenues Revealed

PORTLAND (BW) — Trans Pacific Leasing Inc. has reported consolidated revenues of $14,218,000 for the 1971 fiscal year ended Aug. 31 and after-tax earnings of $101,000.

Earnings per share were equal to 25.4 cents on the average number of shares outstanding during the year. These figures compare with fiscal 1970 revenues of $7,282,000 and earnings of $349,526, equivalent to 85 cents per share.

Utah International

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — A regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share on the outstanding common stock of Utah International Inc. has been declared by the board of directors. The dividend is payable on Jan. 14 to shareholders of record at the close of business on Dec. 31.

Special Dividend

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (BW) — The board of directors of Safe Flight Instrument Corp. have declared a special dividend of three cents per share on common stock payable on Jan. 18 to holders of record Jan. 5.

Burgermeister Sold To Hamm's

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Meister Brau Inc. of Chicago has announced it is closing its Burgermeister brewery here and selling the brand name and business to Theodore Hamm Co. for an undisclosed amount of cash.

The agreement calls for Hamm's to acquire the Burgermeister brand, but not the city-block brewery bounded by Tenth, Bryant, Eleventh and Harrison streets.

Hamm's will produce Burgermeister beer at its own breweries in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Boise Cascade Tells Acquisition

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Boise Cascade Corp. has reported completion of land acquisition for its Waikoloa development on the northwest coast of the island of Hawaii.

Boise Cascade spokesmen said the option on the final 5,000 acres had been exercised, bringing the number of acres planned for the project to 31,000. No purchase price was disclosed.

Net Earnings

TACOMA (BW) — American Marine Industries Inc. has reported net earnings of $158,090, or 33 cents per share, for the nine months ended Sept. 30, on total revenue of $3,242,595.

New Bus System May Fill Long-Felt Need

Marin has half of its new bus system, and will get the other half on Jan. 3.

Golden Gate Bridge District's entry into the Marin bus transportation picture under the style of Golden Gate Transit immediately showed up some scheduling problems. But we expect they will be all ironed out by the time the Christmas holidays are over. We hope so, anyhow.

One particularly strange one, which made a busload of College of Marin students late for class on Monday, was routing of the interurban bus via San Rafael's Second Street and then over Highway 101 to the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard turnoff to reach the college. We can't imagine who dreamed that one up. Certainly it was no commuter!

THERE WILL BE OTHER "bugs" as the system continues and is expanded. The bridge district people are not seasoned bus system operators, although some of them have some experience in that line. They will make mistakes. It may be some time before the operation is discernably superior to those of Marin Transit Systems and Greyhound Bus Lines —except for nicer, newer buses.

But if the district is dedicated to providing better public transportation for Marin, as it seems to be, this could be the dawn of a new day.

FOR YEARS in this column, we have been advocating a system of bus transportation in Marin which would both connect with San Francisco commute buses and provide a convenient way to get from one city to another within the county.

The Golden Gate Bridge District has the makings of such a system. On Jan. 3, when it takes over the other half of Marin's public transportation from Greyhound — the commute bus runs — it will have an integrated system providing transfer from the intra-county buses to the inter-county ones.

This, too, is sure to have a few "bugs" at the beginning which will have to be worked out. We expect to see quite a few schedule changes in the next few months —which will be annoying, but necessary.

But such a system will correct one of the major deficiencies in the county's transportation for many years past — the paucity of local bus transport, and its lack of correlation with the commute buses.

Greyhound has not cared to improve that service. It has been trying for a long time to get out of the commute business, and was not interested in anything that would increase it. The long lines are its moneymakers.

EXPERIENCE ELSEWHERE indicates that no matter how much the bridge district improves the service, it will not be a money-maker. But if it provides Marin with a better system of transportation, we see no reason why it should be expected to return a direct profit as well.

Wider highways and bigger parking lots don't make profits either.

By RUS WALTON:

Specter Of State Deficit May Be Merely Mirage

SACRAMENTO — There is serious doubt that the $500 million revenue act of 1971 was necessary — the one enacted last week at the so-called special session of the Legislature.

Some legislators question its necessity. Others question its magnitude.

The enactment of the tax increase does put an end to a quiet but bitter struggle which has been going on within the Reagan adminstration for several months.

On one side, the Department of Finance has been warning of a $330 million deficit and pressing for the tax hike.

On the other side, a few key executives have maintained that an upturn in the economy and sizeable reductions in expenditures make a deficit unlikely and the tax increase unnecessary.

A SMALL BAND of legislators also seriously question the need for the tax hike. Assemblyman Bill Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, is one of them. Along with 14 other legislators he voted against the bill.

Campbell feels there may well be a surplus, rather than a deficit, by the end of this fiscal year. He also believes the finance department has grossly underestimated the amount of money the state will gain from withholding.

A comparison of state revenues and expenditures for July through September this year with the same period in 1970 seems to fuel Campbell's doubts: For the three-month period in 1971, the state's revenues were 14.72 per cent higher than in the comparable span in 1970; expenditures, for the same period, were only 9.4 per cent higher, 1971 over 1970.

In other words, the state's revenues are increasing at a faster rate than expenditures. Projections of the growing gain of revenues over expenditures have raised serious doubts about the predicted deficit.

DESPITE THESE CHANGES in outlook, the Department of Finance refused to alter its early-year predictions on the $330 million deficit. One legislator was moved to comment, during the debate on the tax bill, "We have been unable to get an honest estimate from finance." Which is not strange. The Department of Finance is an enclave of money-hungry bureaucrats surrounding three captive political appointees.

There seems to be a similarity between the state's present financial picture and that of 1958.

In 1958 the state was emerging from the 1956-58 recession. The Department of Finance warned Gov. Goodwin Knight he faced a deficit of $100 million. Knight asked the legislature for a tax increase to cover the anticipated red ink in the $1.7 billion budget.

The 1958 legislature, led by an economy bloc, refused to go along with Knight. It scoffed at his predicted deficit and defeated his tax proposal.

As it turned out, the economy bloc was correct. Rather than a $100 million deficit, there was a $73 million surplus.

The trend lines of the 1956-58 era bear a striking resemblance to the lines of 1970-72. If the same percentage error in finance's revenue projections were to occur, the state could end the fiscal year with a surplus of $300 million rather than a deficit of $300 million.

Even with the distinct possibility of a surplus, most Republican legislators were unwilling to risk having to vote for a tax increase in 1972. That, plus the pressures of his advisers in finance, caused Governor Reagan to go along with last week's $500 million tax bill.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Selfish Reasons Lead To Too Many Pets

I have been reading news articles and letters to the editor in the Independent-Journal about the thousands of dogs and cats that are put to sleep because they do not have a home. It is simply a problem of too many puppies and kittens for the number of homes available.

I have the privilege of practicing veterinary medicine in this county and so I have ample opportunity to observe people and their pets. Seldom does a day go by that I don't hear, "I want my dog to have puppies at least once because someone told me it makes a better dog out of them" or "I want my children to see my dog have pups." Some people seem to believe that a female dog or cat derives some psychological or physiological benefit from giving birth to a litter of puppies or kittens. Many others are even more selfish and only want their pet to reproduce because they want their children to watch. Both of these beliefs are resulting in the birth of animals that will eventually find their way to the "gas chamber."

As far as I can tell, a female animal derives no benefit at all from exercising her reproductive abilities.

To the people who want their children to learn about reproduction, I would say, learn it somewhere else instead of using your pet for a laboratory animal and causing the deaths of more animals.

Ways To Utilize College Suggested

There were approximately 3,000 high school graduates in Marin in 1971; if (supposedly) 50 per cent of them go to College of Marin this would amount to 3,000 students in a two-year period — the college is currently enrolling 7,000 according to the College of Marin District Newsletter. Local property owners are just unwilling to build more college space that will be for other uses and other students than a two-year continuation program. If expanded uses are indeed desirable they will have to be funded by other than local property taxes.

We read of tests being given high school graduates in other areas which, if passed, allow up to five credits toward a degree in each of six subject areas. That could be a total of 30 credits or better than one year of college work saved (to the student and taxpayer). We recommend that such testing be looked into for possible application here in Marin County.

Before more new building (and new taxation) is undertaken, all possible facets of using facilities on the Kentfield campus should be explored. How many classrooms are presently empty during what hours? How many are given over to non-credit courses? How about using buildings phased out elsewhere by diminishing elementary school enrollees; at Hamilton Field or empty store buildings?

Can the cluster concept of building be justified in light of today's high costs — extra roofs, extra walls and glass areas, walkways and entrances, etc — plus the additional costs for heating and cleaning this highly expensive type of construction for public buildings?

Improper Flag Display At Doughboy Statue

May I call your attention to the latest fiasco regarding the so-called Doughboy Statue which formerly had a place of honor in front of the courthouse and has now been placed at the Marin Civic Center complex.

The statue has been placed at the northeast corner of Civic Center Drive and the road leading past the Marin Veterans Memorial Building. The statue is on its pedestal facing approximately south with a wall of cement encircling the platform on which it sets. The end of this wall of nearest the Memorial Building formed into a circle to hold the flag pole, which has been erected.

The sad part of the whole complex is that the flag will now fly from a position against regulations for the display of our national flag, namely in the place of honor to the statues or speaker's right.

For authority on display of the flag I refer to the following publications: DoD Gen-5: DA PAM 360-501: NAVPERS 92591B:AFP190-1-31 and NAVMV 5901 (Rev-63)

Briefly when the flag is on a platform, in the chancel of a church, on a stage etc. it is always on the right of such place as the speaker, preacher, etc. faces the audience.

Therefore if we are going to have only one flag pole at this memorial it should be placed on the left as you face the statue just the reverse at which it has been placed.

We have spent so much of the taxpayers' money now on this entire complex and so much more has been allocated or proposed that it seems to the writer that we could afford two flag poles at this memorial and fly both our national and state flags in a proper manner.

If money connot be found to correct this at once I will be willing to start with a donation...

Planning Review Not 'Super-Agency'

Hooray for the old I-J! Your editorial of Dec. 7, did speak to an important issue, the implementation of a countywide plan. The "super-agency" which you described in the editorial would, indeed, be a disaster. Any setup in which the cities would have to "go hat in hand" to the county would be politically unacceptable. Neither should such an agency get involved in strictly local issues, or do the work which is already done by others.

Instead, we have suggested that, after the adoption of a countywide plan, a review agency be created with well defined, limited authority to rule on issues of county-wide or area-wide importance which are in conflict with the countywide plan. This agency must have representation from all the cities and the county, and its staff, if any, must be responsible to the entire agency and not any one of its members.

The small measure of local authority which the county and the cities would surrender to the review agency would be returned to them many times over in their voice on that agency. Many issues, particularly in the field of public health and safety, are already decided on this basis. This would be a reasonable and effective way to resolve questions that affect more than one community. Seen in this light, the review agency would not endanger home rule, but rather help home rule to survive in a society of increasingly complex and difficult issues.

I fear that if local governments cannot get together and solve their common problems jointly, state or federal government may step in to do the job for us. To agree voluntarily on a joint course of action will not be easy, as we have learned from the expericnce of the City-County Planninc Council. On each issue there will be winners, and there will be losers. But I am sure that on the whole the people of Marin County would be on the winning side. And that, I think, is what we are all concerned about, the welfare of all of the people in Marin County.

United Nations' Inability To Act Is Price Of Soviet Membership

WASHINGTON — To understand how the Russians render the United Nations feeble and futile by the use of the veto, it is well to look at its origins.

It is generally assumed that this nearly total veto was something which the United States wanted as well as the Soviet Union.

This is not true.

The Soviet Union wanted an unlimited veto. The United States wanted a very limited veto.

The Soviet wanted the right to veto anything which the Security Council might say or do.

The United States wanted only to be able to apply the veto to Security Council sanctions — that is, to a decision which would commit the U.S. to military action.

In advance of the final drafting of the U.N. Charter at San Francisco, the United States conceded the total veto to the Soviet Union for feat Russia wouldn't join.

HERE IS THE RANGE of the veto powers the Soviet Union demanded:

1 — The right to determine the agenda of the Security Council and thereby to prevent even discussion of any matter it didn't want discussed.

2 — The right to prevent the Security Council from advancing even a peace proposal either to stop a war or to avert it. (The Russians used this veto twice last week to keep the Security Council from calling for a cease-fire in the Indian-Pakistani conflice.)

3 — The right to veto any decision the Security Council might wish to take which would involve the use of U.N. peace-keeping forces either to restrain aggression or to resist it.

The United States wanted the veto limited to the third item. But to please the Russians the United States accepted this all-inclusive veto in the draft of the U.N. Charter which the Allied powers (Britain, Russia, America and China) put together at Dumbarton Oaks during the war. The United States also agreed to give the Soviet Union three votes in the General Assembly (its own, the Ukraine and Byelorussia) which no other country possesses.

WHEN THIS DRAFT of the U.N. Charter was put to the 50 founding nations at the San Francisco conference, most of them revolted against the sweeping veto.

The smaller nations did not want any veto for anybody. The Russians were adamant. They said they wouldn't budge. And it looked for a time that the conference would break apart. Every other provision of the U.N. Charter was settled except the issue of the veto.

To avert the collapse of the conference, President Truman sent Harry Hopkins to Moscow to plead the case with Stalin for at least some slight concession on the veto.

Stalin made a minute concession. He agreed to drop the demand for the right to preclude any item going on the Security Council agenda the Kremlin would rather keep off.

The smaller nations accepted. Thus the Security Council was not kept from talking, only from acting.

MOSCOW PLEDGED at the time it would not use the veto "capriciously."

The Russians explained that they would not allow even a Security Council majority of 11 nations to ask an end to the Indian-Pakistani fighting. They argued that a cease-fire would be unfair to India unless a settlement was acceptable to both sides.

This position condoned violation of the U.N. Charter because under the charter all members are pledged not to use force or the threat of force to settle any dispute.

The U.N. will remain powerless so long as the veto remains all-powerful.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Ralph Bunche Did More Than Survive Insults

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — The death of any man who has been prominent for long is likely to spin our memory back to the first time we ever heard of him. So with Ralph Bunche, who was classified prominent when he reached a level that was very middling indeed by standards of Washington protocol, because then so few men of his race were publicly noticed at all.

We knew about Louis Armstrong, Duke Ellington, Bill Robinson and maybe Paul Robeson in the middle '40s, but that was even before Jackie Robinson broke in with the Dodgers. As for a black diplomat, most Americans could not imagine such a character unless he was wearing a swallow-tail coat and rolling his eyes in a skit in the "Silas Green from New Orleans" minstrel show.

That was when most newspapers still ran the word Negro between commas after the name of any black man in the news — especially crime news, which was virtually the only route by which blacks were allowed into print. The measure of a paper's enlightenment in most cities was not yet whether it omitted that designation, but whether it dared begin it with a capital "n."

THAT WAS WHEN many papers, not just in the South, never referred to a black wife as Mrs. Smith — it was "the Smith woman" instead. That was when one smalltown weekly, the first paper I ever worked on, ran a regular page headed "Colored News," with accounts of graduations and weddings and promotions from private first class to corporal, and nobody thought of it then as an insult. Instead it proved how liberal we were, because the opposition papers confined their "colored news" to copyings off the Saturday night police blotter.

Under such circumstances, a black barber's orphaned son like Bunche had to sneak, or be sneaked, into public office. On his record, he was a token Negro in the State Department long before law and custom made token Negroes a common fixture in government and business. And despite the strength and brilliance he demonstrated over the following years, I still have the impression that his brains and character alone would never have given him that chance except for two things: the fact that he was Dr. Ralph Bunch and the fact that his skin was lighter than that of most whites.

It was only after he was valedictorian of his high school class, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of UCLA, a master of arts and doctor of philosophy at Harvard, an advanced student at Northwestern, the London School of Economics and Capetown University and a professor at Howard that he joined the War Department — and then as a highly specialized analyst of African and Far Eastern affairs. When he moved to the State Department in 1944, it was as head of the division of dependent-area affairs, which also meant dealing with dark people.

Still, all his degrees and the pigment in his skin did not insulate him from the same realities faced by other less special blacks — not even in the midst of the well-educated and the presumably open-minded class of men known as diplomats.

MY COLLEAGUE, Paul W. Ward, on the diplomatic beat for many years, recalls that when the American delegation prepared to travel to the first United Nations conference in London in January, 1946, none of Bunche's fellow diplomats was eager to share a stateroom with him. When one compatriot found this out and volunteered to room with Bunche, it was not an Ivy League professional but a Boston Irishman — the late Michael J. McDermott, who had no Ph.D. but got his first job with the government in World War I on the basis of his typing speed, and wenton to serve as State Department press officer through World War II.

Bunche survived that snub. He already had been through other incidents that sound so familiar now, such as the time he helped obtain special permission for blacks to attend the original "Porgy and Bess" in the week it played Washington's National Theater. He and Gunnar Myrdal had been chased out of Alabama while researching Myrdal's book, "The American Dilemma," which was cited in the Supreme Court's 1954 decision against school desegregation. Even after he was famous, he was barred from New York's West Side Tennis Club until the club changed its mind — at which point he declined its invitation to join.

He survived all those insults, and a man of his intelligence could not help but know he was being patronized when he first entered government service in the days when black pride was still a private thing. He had his own. With it, he perserved until his name became synonymous with the United Nations, and almost by main force he brought peace to Palestine, to Suez, Cyprus, the Congo. He will be remembered a long time. And he never raised a fist.

Redevelopment Agency Strains Credibility In Marin City

If the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency were to sell stock based on their credibility in Marin City, probably not even the most frivolous investor would buy.

Not after last week's controversy — the latest in a series over the years — which again has brought into focus the gap between what the agencies say they will do and what they do.

The latest controversy, involving a complicated transfer of land titles and development rights with a New York development firm, has roots running back to last summer.

IN JULY, directors of the two agencies agreed to try to regain control of about 60 acres of redevelopment land in the heart of the community and 167 acres of valuable ridgeland surrounding it.

The plan, as outlined at a joint meeting of the two agencies, was to ask for an option to repurchase the ridgeland from California Development Co., which bought the land in 1962 but never received title.

Until the two agencies could come up with the funds to buy back the land, Cal Development would have the right to develop it, the boards decided.

If that proposal failed, they added, the two agencies would take the development firm to court.

IN AUGUST, after a series of meetings with the firm, it was reported that the proposal had been turned down by Cal Development. The firm would agree only to release rights to the lowland redevelopment project, and then only in return for title to the ridgelands.

The two agencies countered by agreeing to enter litigation. Marin City residents applauded the move.

There the matter rested until two weeks ago when the two agencies suddenly announced they were in favor of accepting the firm's offer.

Residents, maintaining the ridgelands were crucial to future development, protested and demanded an option to repurchase the lands be attached to any agreement.

IT WAS THEN disclosed that the agencies had already made the offer — excluding the option condition previously agreed upon — to the firm.

Last week, the two agencies' boards, overriding community opposition, agreed to sign the transfers (thus confirming the offer) without the repurchase option.

Residents, amid demands for the resignations of board members and staff, demanded when and who had authorized the offer.

They were told the decision was made in July, although at what meeting was not clear.

It is small wonder that residents mistrust the two agencies.

First the agencies agree to regain the ridgelands — through court action if necessary — and later agree to release the lands with no strings attached saying that, in fact, was their original understanding.

Government Buying Record Corn Crop

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government has bought 1.4 million bushels of corn from Midwest markets in the first of its open-ended series of purchases designed to rescue farmers from a depression caused by their record crop and the recent dock strikes.

Monday's purchase was made from open markets in Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska. The prices ranged from $1.12 to $1.30 a bushel, described as market prices. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz announced the purchase program as soon as he was confirmed by the Senate last week.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

School For All At Four In New State Proposal

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

When Wilson C. Riles was campaigning last year for election as state superintendent of public instruction, he emphasized repeatedly his belief that public education should begin earlier than the age of five years.

His 25-member Task Force on Early Childhood Education has just submitted its report, and it agrees with him entirely on this — and goes considerably beyond what he suggested.

Public school education, the task force report says, should begin at age four instead of age five. And this, it stresses, should not be with kindergarten or pre-kindergarten as they now exist, but with the start of a continuous education program.

IT PROPOSES to restructure the elementary schools of California, creating primary schools "embracing what is now the last year of nursery school, the kindergarten, and the first three grades of the elementary school."

Says the report: "Gone would be the artificial separation between pre-primary, kindergarten, and the primary grades. For according to the plan we propose each child would proceed at his own pace, without grade level barriers."

Present schoolhouses would not serve, in most cases, for the task force declares that "classifying children according to age and sorting them out into 30-by-30 boxes is obsolete."

"There should be no attempt to classify by age, grade or accomplishments," says the report. Instead, the children would be grouped by interests or common needs in what it describes as "a family-type age mix."

Present school staffs would be no more adequate than present facilities. The task force says implementation of its proposal would call for "an unstratified, continuous progress plan of organization for the educational experience of children 4-8, with differentiated staffing and a pupil-staff ratio not greater than 1 to 10." The average teacher-pupil ratio in primary grades in California now is about 1 to 26.

THE TASK FORCE report, which was presented to the State Board of Education Dec. 9, proposes an exploratory project in this "new primary education" in the 1972-73 school year "in a manageable number of districts in the state."

There is no mention of how it would be financed. That would be up to the legislature (and the taxpayers).

In his charge to the task force, Superintendent Riles suggested expanding the number of preschool day care centers, converting the first three grades into an ungraded primary system, encouraging the best teachers — including more men teachers —to go into the primary grades, and emphasizing teacher preparation for early childhood education.

The task force says a few kind words for all these. But it goes beyond them in proposing a whole new primary school setup starting at age four, which would make obsolete most present school buildings and require more than three times the present instructional staff (roughtly two and one-half times as many teachers for the same number of pupils, and with 4-year-olds added besides).

RILES IN HIS CHARGE asserted: "No child should leave the third grade without being able to read, write, and calculate in accord with accepted standards."

But the task force brushes off this accountability concept with "a word of caution" against "anxiety-producing pressure," asserting: "Youngsters should begin to move into reading, for example, on a self-selective basis."

Its proposal for the new primary schools makes no mention of establishing any standards in reading, writing and arithmetic which the pupils would have to meet before going on to the next level — the fourth grade.

Supt. James A. Collins of Mill Valley Elementary School District was one of the 25 task force members.

School Videotape Equipment Stolen

Videotape equipment valued at $1,135 was taken in a burglary of Oliver R. Hartzell School, 211 Los Ranchitos Road, during the weekend, San Rafael police reported today.

Police said school officials told them the equipment was on loan to the school from the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

More Water Is Being Used

CHICAGO (UPI) —Americans are using more and more water and it's taking a lot of digging and drilling to maintain a steady supply.

Approximately 22 trillion gallons of water are pumped from wells annually, says Encyclopaedia Britannica, and each year about 500,000 wells are drilled to keep up with demand.

Ground water still is the most common source of both public and private supplies in the United States.

Injury Reported

Eugene Hedrick, 24, of 100 Bayo Vista Way, San Rafael, was treated at Marin General Hospital at 2:30 a.m. yesterday for scrapes suffered in an auto accident, according to hospital records, but no accident details were available.

Sickle Cell Anemia Tests

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation establishing a statewide testing program for sickle cell anemia, an incurable disease which mainly afflicts persons of African descent, was signed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure by Assemblyman Loen Ralph, D-Los Angeles, would require that children entering school be tested for the disease and that persons who apply for a marriage license also undergo examination for the hereditary affliction.

Authorities estimate that one out of every 500 black children suffers from the disease at birth. About half of the persons with the disease die before the age of 20.

Streptococcus Is Most Prevalent

With 93 cases reported, streptococcus infection was the most prevalent communicable disease reported last week to the Marin County Health Department, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer.

There were 43 cases of gonorrhea, three of mumps, two each of syphillis and shigella and one of infectious hepatitis.

Arraignment In Car Theft

Walter J. Brock, 30, of San Francisco, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of car theft.

Brock was arrested by San Rafael police on Dec. 9 and charged with stealing a car from the Nelson Lease Co. of San Francisco.

He was arraigned Monday and ordered to appear Dec. 21 to plead to the charge.

Santa To Make His Annual Novato Visit

Santa Claus will make his annual visit to the Novato Fire Department's main station, Grant Avenue and Highway 101, Saturday to distribute oranges and candy.

Santa will be at the station from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. under the auspices of Novato volunteer firemen, who arranged the visit.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KGO (7), 6:30 p.m. — Howard Keel, Ann Blyth, Dolores Gray and Vic Damone star in Part II of the movie musical, "Kismet," Vincente Minnelli's film version of the Broadway success.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 8 p.m. — Dancer-comedian Ken Berry and Carol Burnett join Carol Burnett for an hour of comedy and music.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 10 p.m. — Edward G. Robinson, Tony Roberts, Yaphet Kotto, Ricky Powell, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Arthur O'Connell and Rosemary De Camp star in "The Messiah on Mott Street" and "The Painted Mirror," two episodes in the "Rod Serling's Night Gallery" series.

She's Robbed As She Sleeps

A Sausalito woman was robbed of her Volkswagen sedan and a television set sometime Sunday night by a thief who entered her apartment as she slept, Sausalito police reported.

Officers said Iris R. Roth, of Glen Drive, awakened about 7:30 a.m. Monday to find the set gone, along with the car and the keys for it which had been lying on the living room couch.

Police said the burglar apparently entered through an unlocked front door.
